Wheeler, Dry, Calls Law a Failure.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12.—[Special]—Political developments of the last few days have convinced leading men of both major parties that the prohibition question cannot be evaded as a major issue in the presidential campaign of 1932.

It is acknowledged by those in a position to know that the national trend of the Democratic party is into the wet camp. The attitude of the Republican party is not so well defined, but the display of anti-prohibition sentiment in recent state conventions and in this week's congressional primaries of that party has caused Republican politicians here to believe that the time has come for the party to sit up and take notice.

Brings Change for Worse.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, hitherto regarded as a dry, today said that prohibition has brought a change for the worse in America. Dispatches from Longview, Wash., said Senator Wesley L. Jones, author of the "five and ten" law and hitherto a rabid dry is willing to accept the result of a referendum on the liquor question.

"I have no doubt," said Senator Wheeler today, "that when the next Democratic national convention meets it will nominate for President a man favorable to repeal of nation-wide prohibition. National prohibition has not been a success.

Voted for Prohibition.

"I voted for prohibition in Montana," said Senator Wheeler, "because I felt that the old saloon was a curse to the American people, and I wanted to do away with it. In the old days the breweries, in many instances, owned the fixtures, the buildings, and the license, and in many instances controlled local politics.

"I am no more in favor of the saloon, no more in favor of the sale of liquor today than I was before, but under prohibition you have in many cities more dives and speakeasies where they are openly selling rotten whisky than you had in the old days.

"Today in many communities the bootlegger is becoming a greater political power and has more influence than the oldtime saloon keeper, as evidenced by the fact that he is able to reach many of our higher officials. He generally is a much lower type of citizen. He has had a frightfully corrupting influence on our social, moral, and political life.

Let States Control Rum.

"In view of the fact that this administration and the previous administrations apparently have been helpless in stamping out the evil, I am reluctantly forced to the opinion that national prohibition is a failure and each state should be left to regulate liquor traffic as a majority of the citizens deem advisable."

Senator Wheeler made his statement on the eve of his departure for Montana to engage actively in the campaign for the reelection of his Democratic colleague, Senator Thomas J. Walsh, whose political fortunes are acknowledged on all sides to be in grave danger. Senator Walsh, a confirmed dry, is opposed by a wet Republican.

Favorable to Roosevelt.

His prediction as to what the next Democratic national convention will do has some additional significance from the fact that Mr. Wheeler publicly has asserted that he favored the nomination of Gov. Roosevelt of New York for President.

Gov. Roosevelt's outspoken indorsement of the wet cause this week has brought his name prominently forward in connection with the presidential contest of 1932, and furthered the feeling that the dry question will be a dominant issue in that year's national campaign.

Jones Would Vote to Submit.

Longview, Wash., Sept. 12.—(AP)—Senator Wesley L. Jones, sponsor of the stringent "5 and 10" law against prohibition violators, said today he would feel justified in working for submission to the people for direct action of a congressional proposal for modification or repeal of the 18th amendment if such a request were made by the people of his state.

The senator reaffirmed his faith in the dry cause by adding: "I would do everything I could to induce the people to reject a change in the law."

The statement was made in a letter to Point Ren, Tacoma, a contributing writer to the Longview News. Rea had asked Senator Jones to declare his position in view of the recent defeat

RACE TODAY FOR AMERICA'S CUP, YACHT CLASSIC

Vanderbilt Boat Meets Lipton's.

THE CUP—Originally offered by the Royal Yacht club of England. Successfully defended by the U. S. for sixty years.

THE CONTESTANTS—The Enterprise and the Shamrock V.

OWNERS—Harold Vanderbilt and Sir Thomas Lipton.

CONTEST—Match shall be decided by the best four out of seven races. First race will be 15 nautical miles to windward or leeward and return. The second race will be sailed over a triangular course of approximately 10 nautical miles to a leg. The subsequent races will be alternately windward and leeward, and triangular, as above, until one yacht has won four races.

Newport, R. I., Sept. 12.—[Special]—Two great canvased creations, each approximately 120 feet long and with more than 7,500 square feet of wing spread, are tuned tonight to the finest strum of their wire stays, prepared to set forth tomorrow in another America's cup race.

SIR THOMAS LIPTON.

They are Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock V., his challenger from the Royal Ulster Yacht club of Belfast, Ireland, and Enterprise, the defender of the cup for the New York Yacht club, custodian of the trophy for sixty years.

Embodies Lipton's Hope.

In the Shamrock is embodied one more hope of Sir Thomas, who is 81 years old, and is keenly desirous of carrying back to England the old cup the schooner America brought here seventy-nine years ago. She is the creation of Charles E. Nicholson, foremost designer of large yachts in England. Guiding her will be Capt. Ernest [Ted] Heard, famed British professional sailing master.

In Enterprise is centered a determination to keep the world's most historic sports trophy in this country. She is the product of W. Starling Burgess and his first cup defender. His father turned out Puritan, Mayflower, and Volunteer.

At Enterprise's helm will be Harold S. Vanderbilt, amateur, of course, who inherited a love for the sea from his ancestral commodore, and who is a combination of rare skill in seamanship and will to triumph.

Seamen Eager for Race.

On these boats, one green bodied and the other white, both with sails of cotton shaded a bit by the suns of the Soudan, are hardy, experienced seamen who are going to put their all into stay and sheet, who are drilled to the most minute detail of what is to be expected of them, and who are eager for the long pull ahead.

They clearly demonstrated that today when the racers were taken out for short sail-settings, a sort of light roadwork as a final touch to the long summer of training. In a sea that was lively but not rough both headed out into a 20 mile sou'easter.

Enterprise was first to go. Under a small mainsail she stood out of the harbor here, past Beaver Trail, and toward Point Judith. She reached back into port within two hours with two mainsails set, and when she came up to the fleet of spectator yachts at anchor Skipper Vanderbilt surprised everybody by setting a jibtopsail, instead of taking in sail, for the harbor maneuver.

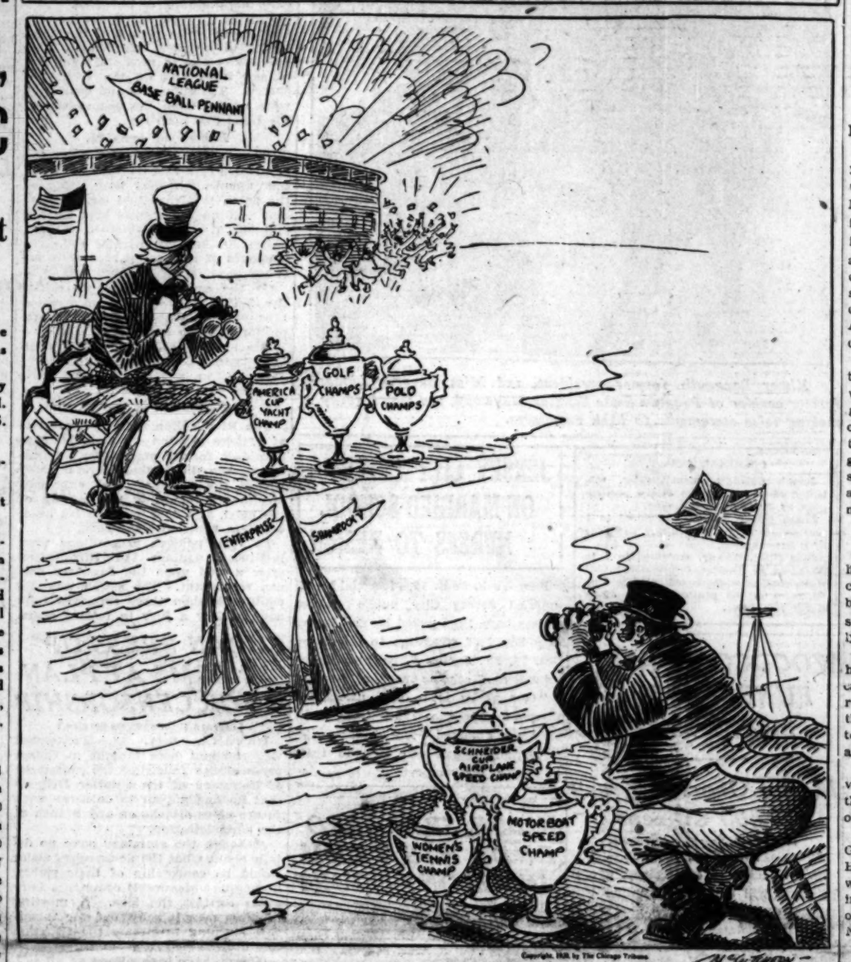

With all sails set he guided the racer in and around the fleet, his crew on the jump. Then he sent her up to her mooring as easily and accurately as if he had brakes on her.

The Shamrock's Roadwork.

Shamrock set sail and with eased sheets went up Narragansett bay a way. She had a reefed mainsail. Coming about, she reached with trimmed canvas out around Brenton reef lightship, which blinks and groans welcome and warning off the bottleneck of the bay. There the breeze lightened for a time and the challenger shook out the reef in her mainsail. She also

YANCEY PLANE CRASHES, BURNS NEARING HOME

New York, Sept. 12.—[Special.]—The Pilot, the seaplane in which Capt. Lewis A. Yancey and two companions set out four months ago on a good will tour of the Americas, crashed today on a sandy islet in the Bahamas, turned over and burst into flame just as its three occupants crawled to safety. None was injured, but the plane, only a hundred miles or so from its home country after 20,000 miles of flight, mostly over strange jungles and mountain ranges, was destroyed.

The news reached here in two terse radiograms from Capt. Yancey, one to Mrs. Yancey, the other to Isadore Goldberg, president of the Pilot Radio and Tube corporation, which sponsored the flight.

Although it was not definitely known here, it was believed that the aviators might have been seeking to make a nonstop flight from Trinidad, a small island near the coast of South America, to the United States. In his last dispatch Capt. Yancey told of a forced landing at San Fernando, near Port of Spain, Trinidad.

Mexican Airmen Killed.

MEXICALI, Mexico, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Lieut. Enrique Castanieda of the Mexican army aviation corps was killed and Juan Yee Kun, local Chinese merchant, was injured, probably fatally, today when their airplane nose-dived 100 feet near the government airport here.

Yrigoyen Is Held Captive on Warship

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 12.—The minister of interior, Sanscez Sorondo, this afternoon announced officially that former President Hipolito Yrigoyen is a prisoner aboard the cruiser Belgrano and that he will not be permitted to leave the country.

The minister said the provisional government is preparing a communique regarding the situation of the deposed executive and other political prisoners. Señor Yrigoyen's whereabouts had been a mystery throughout the day. The cruiser Belgrano, on which he embarked for an unknown destination, spent yesterday and last night in the River Plate and apparently it was still there tonight.

Speed Rule by Civilians.

The provisional government is moving rapidly in depriving the new régime of a military aspect. It appointed today civilian juntas to take over seven provinces. Civilian juntas have now been appointed for nine of the most important of the country's fourteen provinces.

One of the régime's first administrative acts has been to order the payment of a number of government creditors unpaid for two years and begin investigation of irregularities by which Señor Yrigoyen's signature was obtained for creditors who were willing to pay large commissions, sometimes as high as 30 per cent, to get their money.

The federal Supreme court visited Provisional President Uriburu today accompanied by the judges of the civil and commercial courts. After the visit the Supreme court issued a ruling recognizing the provisional government as a de facto government.

Anxious for U. S. Recognition.

Newspapers are discussing the question of recognition by other countries. They are expressing special interest in the attitude of the United States and Britain. La Prensa today criticizes editorially President Wilson's doctrine of withholding recognition from any government established by force, saying it is contrary to international law and diplomatic usage.

The Argentine exchange suffered a slight setback today, which improved grain prices. Bankers consider this as auspicious, as the press was improving so rapidly as to encourage dangerous speculation.

Fête Peru Rebel Head.

LIMA, Peru, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Lima today put on an enthusiastic demonstration in honor of Lieut. Col. Sanches Cerro, head of the military junta at present ruling Peru. A group of students started the demonstration by hoisting Sanchez Cerro on their shoulders. Bystanders joined the students, and he was carried up the street toward the Government house while an immense crowd, bareheaded in the rain, watched the procession.

HURRICANE HITS CAROLINA COAST; NO LIVES LOST

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 12.—(AP)—Striking with sudden fury at Cape Lookout, 15 miles from the port of Beaufort, a tropical hurricane howled up the North Carolina coast this afternoon, but was believed to have passed out to sea tonight without causing loss of life.

The full force of a 120 mile an hour wind from the southwest demolished a dozen buildings and damaged the coast guard headquarters.

Reports received tonight indicated the fierceness of the storm was abating. At Cape Lookout, the wind had fallen to 18 miles an hour by 9:30, but at Cape Hatteras and northward, the coast still was battered by a 50 mile an hour gale.

Morehead City and Beaufort, towns within a few miles of Cape Lookout, did not feel the full force of the storm. Their telephone, telegraph and power facilities were disrupted by a 50 to 60 mile gale early in the afternoon, but there was no other damage.

No report had been received of any shipping in distress.

FRANCE TO REPAY 1915 WAR LOAN IN 4 CENT FRANCS

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Sept. 12.—British investors were dismayed today to learn that France is preparing to repay the five per cent rentes war loan of 1915 in francs, which are now valued at only four cents instead of the pre-war 19 cents.

More than $160,000,000 was subscribed in Great Britain, and repayment in francs will mean a loss to British investors of more than $115,000,000. The French minister of finance has intimated that 25 per cent of the loan will be repaid in January.

Miss Lindgren and Langguth Found Guilty

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

A jury in Judge Otto Kerner's court yesterday, after deliberating 50 minutes, found Elmer P. Langguth and Miss Laverne Lindgren guilty of making false statements to bank examiners in their capacities as president and cashier of the People's State Bank of Maywood. The conviction, if sustained, carries a penalty of from one to ten years in the penitentiary. A motion for a new trial will be heard on Oct. 4.

The two defendants, who are alleged to have had a clandestine romance, which led Langguth to promote the girl from a telephone operator to cashier of the bank, were calm when they heard the verdict. Langguth, sitting beside Miss Lindgren, straightened in his chair as the clerk accepted the document from the foreman of the jury.

Hartened by Lawyer.

Then Langguth drew a pipe from his pocket as the crowd of Maywood citizens who crowded the courtroom began to leave, lit it, and puffed serenely. Miss Lindgren was apparently quite unruffled.

"Now then, keep your Irish up," her attorney, Frank T. Tyrrell, had cautioned as she returned to the courtroom while the jury filed back into the box. His admonition was taken to indicate that the defense expected a guilty verdict.

Only twenty minutes had been devoted during the morning session to the defense, as against the three days of evidence offered by the prosecution.

Defense Attorneys Eugene L. McGarry and Tyrrell produced John F. Braeske of 619 South Prospect, Maywood, who testified that he had been in California during the latter part of last year and the first of this year. No further questions were asked him.

$5,000 Note Involved.

His statement was sought by the defense because Elsa Gordon, a bank employé, had informed the jury that she had forged the name of John Braeske to a $5,000 note at the instigation of Langguth to satisfy the bank examiners, Langguth's explanation being that Braeske, in California, was sending back a note for that amount which had not arrived when the books were examined.

The prosecution had previously called the witness' son, John A. Braeske, who had denied that he had received such a loan from the bank or signed the note.

Judge Cautions Lawyers.

Stormy scenes between Assistant States Attorney Charles J. Mueller and Attorney McGarry marked the closing arguments of both lawyers and Judge Kerner repeatedly cautioned them.

"Mr. McGarry asked why we didn't show what Langguth and Miss Lindgren are supposed to have done with the $121,000 they took from this bank," shouted Mueller before he was halted. "We know what they did with it, but we can't tell you and McGarry knows we can't. But you can judge for yourself, gentlemen of the jury. You've seen them in court. Daddy and his sweet mamma——," but the vociferous objections of McGarry stopped him short.

"We attribute this verdict," Attorney Tyrrell informed reporters, "to prejudicial articles in the press. That's what comes of not locking up a jury in a case like this."

Gen. Grant's Pistol and Crockett's Bowie Stolen

Two prized relics have been stolen from the museum of the Chicago Historical society, L. H. Shattuck, director of the museum, informed police last night. One is a six chamber Colt pistol carried throughout the civil war by Gen. U. S. Grant. The other relic is an eight inch bowie knife used by David Crockett, famed frontiersman, who lost his life in defense of the Alamo in 1836.

GRAND JURORS TO HEAR UNION LEADERS NEXT

The first of a long list of witnesses who through observation or violence have become familiar with the depredations committed by racketeers against Chicago business concerns were heard yesterday by the grand jury in the first session of the racket investigation ordered by Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court.

In pursuance of the facts gained yesterday, it was announced, several labor union leaders who have suffered at the hands of gangsters seeking to gain control of their organizations will be the next witnesses to appear before the grand jury at the invitation of the state's attorney's office.

Racketeers Seize Unions.

Assistant State's Attorneys Charles J. Mueller and Charles Lounsbury, assigned by State's Attorney Swanson to the task of gathering and presenting evidence of racketeer aggression, said they had found that inquiry into the labor situation was one of the most important points of attack for the investigation.

They pointed out that in recent months complaint after complaint has reached the state's attorney's office that gangsters in concert with Alphonse Capone have captured some 33 unions with rich treasuries that are continually being augmented by the dues of members. In a number of instances, it was said, the union dues have been increased when the gangsters and their groups of sluggers took control.

Gangsters Are Active.

Among those reported to be allied with Capone in the seizure of labor organizations are such hoodlums as George [Red] Barker, William J. [Three Fingered Jack] White, Klondike O'Donnell, and Anthony [Red] Kissane. The prosecutors hope that by obtaining the evidence of union leaders who have been fighting the gang invasion the grand jury will be able to take action that will protect other business organizations from like attacks.

Other paths that the investigation may take in cleaning up the rackets and relieving trade and industry from the necessity of paying tribute to gangs for the right to operate legitimately were believed to have been pointed out to the grand jury by yesterday's witnesses. They were Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director of the Chicago crime commission, and Attorney Walter Walker of the Employers' association.

Jury Told of Situation.

Although Col. Chamberlin and Attorney Walker declined to discuss the testimony they had given before the jury, it was learned that they had been invited to discuss the extent to which racketeering has affected business enterprises in Chicago and the surrounding territory. For several years the crime commission and the Employers' association has been gathering facts about bombings, slugglngs, and other forms of terrorism practiced in intimidation by the racketeers.

It was admitted that Col. Chamberlin and Attorney Walker were not expected to furnish actual evidence, but to give the grand jury a word picture of the rise and spread of racketeering, not only in the trade union movement but also in the so-called business associations formed by hoodlums for their own enrichment. As a result of the testimony the jurors announced that they were prepared to hold sessions every afternoon to hear the evidence collected by State's Attorney Swanson's assistants.

Draftsman Tells of Slugging.

Edward Cesilk, a draftsman employed by the board of education, who was slugged by racketeers in the board offices early in the week because he refused to pay dues to a union, was questioned yesterday by Prosecutor Lounsbury. He agreed to go before the grand jury next week and repeat his story.

Cesilk is the man who was told to "return with more statistical data" by Assistant State's Attorney Marshall Solberg, the $12,000 a year man put into the prosecutor's office through the Association of Commerce to specialize in racketeer investigations. He has been supplanted by the other prosecutors, who promise action and not reports. Prosecutor Solberg talked to officials of the union involved, but did not detain any one. He took reports.

Col. A. A. Sprague, former commissioner of public works, who was appointed on Thursday as the head of a committee of the Association of Commerce to help in the war on racketeers, refused to discuss his plans. He is expected to take the place of Col. Robert Isham Randolph and the secret six committee.

"I believe we have all the surveys and all the information that is necessary," Col. Sprague said.

McGoorty Welcomes Aid.

Chief Justice McGoorty said he welcomed the aid of Col. Sprague and his committee of thirty or more business leaders. The judge said since his charge to the grand jury he has received hundreds of anonymous letters, many of them containing good suggestions for the prosecutors.

"I desire to make it plain that I am a friend of legitimate union labor," said Chief Justice McGoorty, "The investigation I ordered is directed at the gangsters who have invaded the labor field for racketeering purposes. It is my purpose to charge every grand jury while I am chief justice to investigate until this situation is cleaned up. The legitimate labor leaders should help us for their own benefit."

Dairy's Trucks Hijacked.

A report to show that the racketeers, some of whom are ex-convicts, have expanded their operations, reached the state's attorney's office yesterday from a friend of the owner of a dairy concern, operating six milk trucks in the Chicago area. The dairy owner, it was reported, was compelled to pay $1,600 to the Chicago racketeers before he was allowed to bring his milk and dairy products unmolested into the city.

The racketeers, so the story goes, hijacked the milk trucks much in the same manner as they do the booze runners' trucks. The hijacking, it is said, has been done in three or four counties adjoining Cook county.

State's attorneys from the surrounding counties, when apprised of the reports yesterday, agreed to help in the racketeer investigation.

"I heard of a milk truck being pushed over near Highland Park recently," said State's Attorney A. V. Smith of Lake county. "No report was made to the police, however. If any evidence is brought to me I will prosecute to the limit and I offer every coöperation to State's Attorney Swanson."

DRUGGISTS ASK ALCOCK TO STOP STORE MURDERS

Officials of the Chicago Retail Druggists' association called on Acting Police Commissioner Alcock yesterday and appealed to him to "do something to stop drug store murders." The plea was prompted by the slaying on Wednesday night of Willis Fiddelke, young drug store owner of 6560 South Western avenue, by two robbers. At least five other druggists have been killed by bandits since April of 1928.

Walter A. Harris, president of the Druggists' association, headed the delegation which called on Alcock. He was accompanied by H. J. Holtoever, secretary of the association; and O. E. Ormes, editor of the druggists' trade journal. The association has offered a $1,000 reward for the capture and conviction of Fiddelke's slayers.

The five other druggists who have been slain were listed by Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director of the Chicago Crime commission. With the dates and store addresses where the murders occurred, they were: Henry W. Harris, 500 North Hamlin avenue, April 10, 1928; C. B. Emmert, 2000 Addison street, Nov. 11, 1928; L. R. Raymond, 151 North avenue, Oak Park, June 18, 1929; George Schreiner, 5635 Division street, June 27, 1929; and Lester Fritz, 2458 Diversey avenue, Dec. 21, 1929.

Robert Camy and Earl Nicholson were convicted of the murder of Schreiner and are now serving life terms in the penitentiary.

HUNT 2 PALS OF THE LITTLE MAN IN GANG KILLING

The police last night were searching for two additional participants in the murder of Frank Petito, 17 years old, a 42 gangster, killed on June 30. Nicholas Muscato, known to his intimates as "The Little Man," is in custody charged with the murder. The men sought are Ralph Cartinello, 26 years old, 633 South Paulina street, and Harry Richmond, 25 years old, 1311 South Homan avenue.

Joe Muscato, a brother of Nicholas and also a member of the 42 gang, was being sought for the death of Benjamin Hackstra, 1422 61st court, Cicero, a salesman. Muscato was identified as the driver of an automobile which crashed into Hackstra's car yesterday at 14th place and Throop street. Muscato's car, in which were three other men, speeded away. Hackstra died on the way to the Mother Cabrini hospital.

Nicholas Muscato is charged with another slaying beside that of Petito. The second victim, Peter [The Ape] Nicastro, was an accomplice to the murder of Petito, and was taken for a ride for boasting, the police say. In a dying statement he named Muscato as the slayer of Petito and of himself, according to the police.

FACE A SIGHT SKIN NOW CLEAR

Praises Resinol

"My face was a sight from an eruption which appeared mostly on my nose and chin in the form of blind boils. I doctored it and used various things people suggested but nothing seemed to do any good. Finally I tried Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment and by regular use I cleared my face. I have told many people about them, and would like to be able to convince everyone that Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment are wonderful." (Signed) N. M. Meakin, Norfolk, Va.

TWO GANGSTERS INDICTED UNDER VAGRANCY LAW

Lyle Releases Them for Criminal Court Trial.

$55,725 IN REWARDS.

Rewards totaling $55,725 are offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayer of Alfred Lingle. Of the $25,000 reward offered by The Tribune $10,000 will be paid to any person who will give confidential information identifying the slayer of Lingle. All information should be sent to the headquarters established by State's Attorney Swanson in room 503 Temple building, 77 West Washington street. Telephone State 3729.

Izzy Alderman and Joe Condi, gangsters, face a return to the rock pile at the Bridewell. The grand jury yesterday returned true bills against the pair on charges of vagrancy. A report that the bonds of each of the hoodlums had been set at $20,000 indicated that the grand jury sanctions Municipal Judge Lyle's campaign for high bonds for gangsters prosecuted under the vagrancy act.

Word of the grand jury's action was taken to Judge Lyle as he convened court to try the gangsters. Assistant State's Attorney Leonard Mandel requested that a nolle prosequi order be entered in both cases.

"You are free," Judge Lyle said to Alderman and Condi as he complied with the order. "You may leave the courtroom."

Rearrested and Locked Up.

Way was cleared for the pair. As they left the building they were rearrested by Sergt. David Levin of the staff of Pat Roche, chief investigator for State's Attorney Swanson. Sergt. Levin took Alderman and Condi to the county jail where they were locked up.

"I want to see how these men will fare in the Criminal court," Judge Lyle said after they had gone. "I don't believe any judge will have the audacity to reduce their bail."

Condi and Alderman were arrested by Lieut. Frank Johnson for questioning about the murder of Alfred Lingle, which is being investigated by Special Assistant State's Attorneys Charles F. Rathbun and James E. McShane and Chief Investigator Pat Roche of the state's attorney's office.

Sentenced by Judge Lyle.

In State's Attorney Swanson's campaign to imprison hoodlums at six months' hard labor under the vagrancy act, the two gangsters were taken before Judge Lyle. The judge sentenced them to serve the maximum term. In habeas corpus proceedings before Chief Justice McGoorty of the Criminal court they were released.

They were rearrested and released again when Municipal Judge Alfred O. Erickson approved bonds posted for them by a professional bondsman who is on the blacklist. An investigation of the bonds by Rathbun caused Judge Lyle to declare them fraudulent and to order the prisoners back to jail.

The two latest gangsters to be charged with vagrancy in the campaign are to appear before Judge Lyle today. They are Anthony [Red] Kissane, who has a long police record, and Johnny [West Side] Barry, an ex-convict, now head of a newspaper wagon drivers' union. Their bonds were set at $30,000 each on Thursday.

Six Granted Jury Trials.

Six men, arrested by Capt. Michael Delaney on Thursday in a campaign to clean up the East Chicago avenue police district, were granted jury trials yesterday by Judge Lyle. According to the police, the men, taken in a raid at 201 East Superior street, are members of the Capone gang trying to form a syndicate to control vice and gambling in the district.

Attorney John Johntry asked for a jury trial for his clients. When Judge Lyle offered to form a jury in thirty minutes the lawyer said he was not ready for trial. The police agreed to a jury trial. Capt. Delaney said it would give him time to overcome the difficulty of obtaining witnesses.

The men arrested are Lewis Chapin, Harold Burman, William Winek, Sam Lucy, Joseph Lesciudrella, and Joseph Rush. The last four have police records as minor hoodlums.

WORKER KILLED BY ELEVATOR.

While peering down an elevator shaft at the stockyards plant of Libby, McNeill and Libby yesterday, Peter Gureckl, 50 years old, 4949 South Honore street, an employe of the concern, was struck by a descending elevator and killed.

BANK OFFICERS CONVICTED

Elmer Langguth, former president, and Miss Laverne Lindgren, former cashier of People's State bank of Maywood, are found guilty of making false statements to bank examiners.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Joseph Cutshaw, manslaughter, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary by Judge Peter Schwaba.

James Bakris, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge E. I. Frankhauser.

John Blair, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in Pontiac reformatory; Carl Wolf, confidence game, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge Harry M. Fisher.

WOODCOCK ASKS FUNDS FOR 500 MORE RAIDERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12.—[Special.]—Federal dry enforcement appropriations will be boosted another two million dollars during the next fiscal year if recommendations submitted to the budget bureau today by Prohibition Administrator Amos W. W. Woodcock are acted upon favorably. Mr. Woodcock asked for a total of $11,200,000. This, together with a $6,000,000 appropriation for the industrial alcohol bureau, will bring the prohibition budget, exclusive of coast guard and customs, up to $17,200,000.

The extra funds are sought by Mr. Woodcock for the employment of 500 additional dry agents and forty-eight instructors and special inspectors for the industrial alcohol bureau. According to Mr. Woodcock the added personnel would bring his force up to 2,000 agents and 200 special agents, a total of one agent for each 60,000 population.

Mr. Woodcock made public a résumé of the activities of his dry army during August. A total of 24,757 beer fermenters were seized during the month, according to his tabulations, whereas only 9,282 had been captured the month before. Beer seized amounted to 1,083,745 gallons, against 1,041,956 in July.

Total arrests fell off badly by nearly 1,000 during the month, the tabulation showed and average jail sentences decreased from 168 days in July to 103.3 in August, and average fines from $174.33 to $136.33.

Arrests in the Chicago district, following the trend throughout the country, dropped from 428 in July to 382 in August. The new cases placed on the court dockets here diminished from 131 to 40. At the same time the amount of spirits or hard liquor seized dropped from 14,933 gallons in July to 8,627 gallons in August.

There was a slight increase, however, in the amount of beer seized in the Chicago district.

JERSEY CITY CALLS ON MARRIED SCHOOL NURSES TO RESIGN

New York, Sept. 12.—[Special.]—All married Jersey City public school nurses have been asked by the Jersey City board of education to resign by Oct. 15, Dr. James A. Nugent, superintendent of schools there, said today.

"Our policy is to give unmarried women a chance to earn a living when they are qualified," Dr. Nugent said. "Married women can look to their husbands for support."

JUDGE SBARBARO ENDS HIS TERM IN FELONY COURT

Judge John Sbarbaro, who has presided over the Felony court for three months, concluded his duties there yesterday and it was reported that Judge John H. Lyle, who has declared war on gangsters and racketeers, will succed him. The regular term expired for Judge Sbarbaro and the change was made by Chief Justice Harry Olson in the regular course of business. Judge Sbarbaro, who is a candidate for the Superior court vacancy caused by the death of Judge Jacob Hopkins, will return to one of the courts in the city hall.

State's Attorney Swanson said that he was well pleased with the work of Judge Sbarbaro in the Felony court.

"Judge Sbarbaro coöperated with my office 100 per cent," said the prosecutor. "Because of his previous training as an assistant state's attorney, he was well fitted for the Felony court position. I am sorry to see him leave the court because he handled all cases speedily and satisfactorily."

Bathes Feet in Benzine; Lights Fag; Will Recover

START PADLOCK ACTION AGAINST RITZ-CARLTON

New York, Sept. 12.—[Special.]—The federal government started a padlock action against the Ritz-Carlton Hotel corporation today. The complaint was filed in the United States District Court by Assistant United States Attorney Earl N. Fisher.

The hotel corporation is charged with maintaining a nuisance. The complaint through which the government seeks to have part of the hotel padlocked charges, specifically, that liquor was sold in rooms 209 and 302 of the hotel and on the Ritz roof garden. The summons and complaint were served upon the proprietors of the hotel this afternoon.

Raided on June 25.

The padlock proceedings were the outgrowth of a raid on June 25, when four agents, who had been living at the hotel, said they had learned that although no liquor was kept on the premises, it could be obtained on short notice. An elevator operator and eight employés of the roof garden were arrested.

On the same night agents raided the Central Park Casino and arrested nine patrons, eight waiters, the proprietor and the manager.

The proprietors of the Ritz-Carlton have twenty days in which to answer the suit, in which the hostelry is branded as a "nuisance."

Patronized by Mellon.

The Ritz-Carlton figured in a series of articles written by Maj. Maurice Campbell, former prohibition administrator, who alleged that Secretary Mellon of the treasury had expressed displeasure regarding the raiding of the hotel, at which he made his headquarters while in New York.

In 1924 padlock proceedings were instituted against the Ritz-Carlton after a raid upon the Japanese garden restaurant. The action was discontinued when three employés were acquitted by a jury in federal court.

CUBAN PRESS UP IN ARMS AT PLAN FOR CENSORSHIP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Sept. 12.—Excitement was rampant here tonight in Cuban press circles following the statement of Secretary of the Interior Delgado that he had a plan to do away with future press attacks on any branch of the administration.

Although the secretary gave no details about what the newspapers claim would be censorship of their rights, numerous unfavorable comments were made against the idea. A meeting of news men is scheduled for tomorrow morning to discuss the situation and draft a plan of defense.

Guards have been placed on all railroads, government buildings, and main arteries owing to continued talk of a possible uprising.

Ohioan Dies Half an Hour After He's Stung by Bee

Upper Sandusky, O., Sept. 12.—(AP)—Paul Smith, 50, farmer, died late today a half hour after being stung by a bee. Stung while gathering apples, Smith became unconscious shortly after reaching his house and died soon after a physician arrived. Two months ago Smith was stung by a bee and was unconscious for several hours. Physicians for a time thought him dead but revived him.

Nitroglycerin Blows Up; Shock Is Felt 50 Miles

Wichita, Kas., Sept. 12.—(AP)—An explosion of 1,000 quarts of nitroglycerin stored in the Du Pont powder magazine near Wichita, 9 miles north of Wichita, tonight damaged buildings in Wichita Heights, shattered windows here, and was felt 50 miles away, but apparently took no toll of lives.

U. S. SEEKS TO TRY BALKY WITNESS IN SENATORIAL INQUIRY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12.—(AP)—The government today asked the Supreme court to review the decision of a Circuit Court of Appeals which in effect held that Thomas W. Cunningham of Philadelphia could not be removed to the District of Columbia for trial on a charge of failing to answer questions of a senate committee.

Cunningham, former sheriff of Allegheny county, Pennsylvania, refused to tell the senate campaign funds investigating committee the source of $50,000 which he gave toward the candidacy of William S. Vare, who was barred from the senate because of excessive expenditures.

Cunningham was indicted but he fought removal to the District of Colombia for trial. A District court ordered him removed but the judgment was reversed by the Circuit Court of Appeals. It held the indictment had failed to charge a crime because the questions Cunningham refused to answer did not appear pertinent.

In asking the review, the government contended the questions asked were pertinent and said that unless reversed the Court of Appeals' decision might stand as a precedence in such cases.

LATINS TURNING TO U. S. CULTURE, PERUVIAN SAYS

"Revolt No Peril to Foreigners."

American culture is superseding the old European traditions which for so many years have prevailed in South America, Dr. Jorge M. Chavarri, consul for Peru, said last night in commenting on the changes of administrations in South American republics.

Dr. Chavarri said that no foreign capital or property has been damaged, confiscated, or even threatened during the revolutionary developments.

"No lives of foreigners have been lost or endangered, and the changes do not consist of any contemplated revision of government," he said. "The functions of various South American countries remain the same—a great proof of the stability of your southern neighbors."

Better Understanding Sought.

Dr. Chavarri said there has been a movement in all South America for a better understanding among the three Americas and a closer relationship, not only in business but in culture.

"More of our young men and women are coming to North American universities," he asserted. "Our steamship schedules today are much faster than they were ten years ago. Airplanes, now being used freely in the mail service all over South America have resulted in quicker and freer communication.

"One of the most needed things to bring about closer relations is a fiscal system to enable Latin-Americans to purchase more North American products. If a system of credits is established, our trade will grow by leaps and bounds."

Points to Tourist Trade.

Dr. Chavarri said the tourist trade between the Americas has become an important asset to all nations. He pointed out that the people of North America now realize they can see more in South America in a few weeks than they can in tours which would consume months in Europe.

The Peruvian consul said another sign of the awakening of South America to its North American opportunities is that now the consuls of Latin-American countries are requested to rent adjoining offices whereby they can maintain an information bureau and display room.

Polish Radicals to Fight Ban on Sunday Meetings

WARSAW, Poland, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Arrest of many opposition deputies by order of the Pilsudski régime and a government ban on all public meetings next Sunday has led to a tense situation in Warsaw and other Polish towns. Radical and Central party leaders have announced their intention to hold public protest meetings on Sunday in spite of the forbidding decree.

NEGROES RARELY PARALYZED BY "GINGER JAKE"

Science Discovers Black Chickens Also Immune.

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 12.—(AP)—A new freak of "ginger jake," a mysterious color affinity that affects chickens and men alone, has turned up in research at the University of Cincinnati.

In the medical department the ingredients of this liquor, which caused about 300 cases of paralysis in Cincinnati a few months ago, are under searching analysis.

Sold in Negro Districts.

It was noted at the time of this Cincinnati outbreak that nearly all the victims were white, Negroes constituting less than three per cent. At the same time reports brought to the university, when analysis of samples of the liquor was undertaken, stated that much of the drink had been sold in Negro districts.

F. J. Andress, who is conducting the research, tried samples of the drink on monkeys, rabbits and white rats, but all these animals were immune to paralysis. Then he tried it on chickens, the bird family having a well known susceptibility to poison. He gave it to white chickens and every one developed either paralysis or symptoms of paralysis. But when he gave it to black chickens not one of them showed a symptom of paralysis.

Creates Special Poison.

Scientists who attended the chemical meetings here this week made a guess that the paralysis of ginger jake "is a function of pigmentation," meaning that the coloring matter in pigment that makes the complexion, may in some manner combine with something in the drink to give the whites a special poison.

Mr. Andress says the experiments are too incomplete to throw any light on these guesses.

Voliva Plans European Trip to Recruit Members

Wilbur Glenn Voliva, overseer of Zion, Ill., is going abroad on Sept. 22. An official announcement from headquarters of Voliva's church yesterday said his destination was the orient and his purpose to recruit members to his Christian Catholic Apostolic church. Rumors among his followers are that Voliva is going to West Baden, Germany, for his health.

CARSON PIRIE SCOTT & CO

MARIAN, AT 14, WONDERS ABOUT THIS DRY LAW

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Marian De Block, 14 years old, who lives near Batavia, her new Latin and algebra books under her arm, kicked the pebbles before her on the country road which led to her home yesterday afternoon, and faced a problem of life.

She is the eldest of five children, who on Thursday were made wards of the Kane county court because their father brewed beer in the basement of their home. Her father, Simon De Block, has served a week of a six months' sentence. After completing the sentence he must work out a $305 fine on the county roads at $1.50 a day. County Judge Olney C. Allen of Geneva ruled, unless he has raised that amount by that time.

The children were made wards of the court in an effort of State's Attorney George D. Carbary to enforce the prohibition law by means of a novel method. They will be under the supervision of Probation Officer Caroline Peaks of Aurora while they are in their home. Judge Allen ruled. If Mrs. De Block is found possessing home brew, the children will be put in a home or institution, it was stipulated.

She's Puzzled About Law.

Marian, a freshman in the town's high school, looked across a field of goldenrod and said, a puzzled look crossing her expressive little sunburned face:

"When we had our trial yesterday that man said we were neglected. My mother spoke up and said to ask our teacher. Then he looked sort of funny. He said he'd been around to our schools and that the teachers had said we acted all right." Her eyes filled with tears, and she said hotly, "We all make good grades. Why, Germaine—she's 9—is in the fourth grade and makes nearly all 'V's.' That means 'very good,' and is the best grade you can get.

"Me? O, I love Latin. Of course, I've just started it, but it's a little like mother's language (she's a Belgian). I'm good enough in my studies, I think. It isn't that that worries me."

Marian Gives Her Opinion.

She hesitated, and then went on in a quiet voice:

"Most of the kids at school have been just the same since they put daddy in jail. But today two boys whispered something behind my back, and a third said right out before me, 'Hi, Red Annie, give me a bottle of beer.' And I was with a lot of girls and, of course, I felt ashamed.

"I've been thinking about it all day. And I tell you what I've decided: That my father hasn't done anything really wrong or criminal. I think it's a silly law, and that because my father's in jail and they said they might take us away from home, that doesn't mean my parents did anything wrong.

"My mother's good. She works hard, washing and ironing clothes for us kids, and no kids in Batavia are cleaner. You can look around home and see my mother doesn't neglect us."

Home Is Well Kept.

The little girl indicated the interior of a little shingled house—partly paid for. It was spotless. The linoleum on the floor shone. The electric refrigerator, which Mrs. De Block won at an American Legion festival, was white as snow. The enameled stove in the kitchen, which is three years old, looked bright as one in a store window. Outside, white leghorn chickens scratched and strutted, and geese waddled past in single file.

"I remember," said the girl, her eyes shining, "when daddy worked in a factory. We didn't live here then. I was just starting to school and didn't know much English. I'd come home at night and teach my mother what I'd learned during the day. We didn't have much—my sisters didn't have coats, but they were too little for school—but my mother found time then to make all our clothes. Even then she said she wanted me to go all the way through high school.

"Too Young to Have a Say."

"I liked it better as it was then—before my dad sold beer. But I'm too young to have any say about it. And it isn't really wrong, I guess, because my dad won't let us kids go down in the cellar, where the people buy it. He licks one of us if we even go on the stairs. And he won't sell to boys under 20 or to women, he says."

She sighed. "I don't mind the people—I'm reading in the daytime, when I'm not in school, or playing, and I'm asleep at night, with the other kids—but I'd rather have it the way it was before, and not have a room of own, not have quite enough clothes. And how'll my mother manage with dad in jail?"

Pictures from Old Country.

She glanced up at two oval enlarged photographs of a handsome young man in uniform and a young girl with red gold hair.

"That's my mother and father when they were in the old country," she said. "Isn't my father handsome? He doesn't look like that now. My father was in the Belgian army then. He came over here and worked in Chicago in a butter factory the year before the war. He saved his money and my mother saved hers. Her father didn't want her to come to America to marry my father, so she ran away. Only her brother knew—that is, my uncle, Louis Verveat, who had to pay $200 when he was arrested with dad last week."

"Maybe," Marian speculated, "because they always had beer in the old country, maybe that is why my father hates prohibition so. But me," she said, and made a face, "I'll never drink beer. I can't stand the old stuff."

California Quake Perils Los Angeles Water Dam

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 12.—[Special.]—Admission that the earthquake on Aug. 29 had created fissures in the Chatworth reservoir, part of the city's water system, was made by water department officials today. The announcement declares that "two small and unimportant fissures" opened in the face of the dam, but the cracks are settling and filling themselves.

PICTURES CHICAGO AS CAPITAL OF AMERICA, AND NOT OF GANGLAND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 12.—Envisaging Chicago as the capital of the United States rather than as the capital of gangdom is the impression of Georges London, famous French journalist, who has just returned to Paris after a two months' investigation of Chicago's gangland.

"I was quite astonished at the frankness and sincerity with which every one answered me when I asked for information," he declared. "Police officials, politicians, lawyers and gangsters all spoke straightforwardly and simply about conditions, the gangsters especially.

"I found Al Capone affable, suave, and keenly intelligent. He talked to me as if I were an old friend, and he was willing to discuss 'gangs' as if he were in no way connected. 'Spike' O'Donnell was equally friendly. He showed me around the city. It was hard to realize that they were ruthless gang leaders, as powerful in their districts as any political despots.

"Chicago is a tremendous city, quivering with vitality such as I found in no other city in America, including New York. Nothing can stop it. It is becoming the greatest city in the United States. I was bewildered when shown the Tribune tower, which is artistically and architecturally the finest building I have ever seen."

BOY HELD AS BURGLAR.

Arrested Thursday on suspicion of having robbed six south side stores, Wendell Pander, 17 years old, 8426 Green Bay avenue, former inmate of the St. Charles Home for Boys, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $6,000 yesterday by Judge McKinley in South Chicago court.

BRITAIN DECREES ONE WAY TRAFFIC AIRPLANE LANES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 12.—Aerial "one way" traffic systems have arrived. Deciding that the sky streets over London are overcrowded, the air ministry has issued new regulations for all private pilots, setting out details of the first aerial one way traffic system in order to prevent the possibility of collisions in the air.

The regulations cover practically the whole London flying area, including Hanworth, Heston, Stag Lane, Northolt and Harmondsworth, London's most active civilian airdromes.

For instance, the normal flight between the Heston and Hanworth dromes is only a few minutes over a distance of under four miles; by the new "one way" route, the distance is now 35 miles. Pilots do not regard the new system with glee, but admit that the regulations are a safeguard in bad weather.

Widow of Rockwell King, Broker, Is Seriously Ill

Mrs. Lucy King, 78 years old, 156 East Superior street, widow of Rockwell king, La Salle street broker, was stricken with a serious illness yesterday while visiting her daughter, Mrs. Marjorie Du Moulin, in Hamilton, Ont., wife of the former Episcopal bishop of Cleveland. The family of her son, John Andrews King, member of the Chicago Stock exchange, tried to reach him last night aboard the yacht of John Coleman, another Chicago broker, who is his host at the America cup races, but failed because of the congestion of craft in the harbor at Newport, R. I.

"SCHOOL AHEAD" FOR BOYS WHO FACED THE ARCTIC

Textbooks Will Replace Whales and Such.

Two of the eight young sailors from Chicagoland who have been learning the art of navigation under the direction of Capt. Donald MacMillan, arctic explorer, on his good ship Bowdoin, since June 23, returned home yesterday. Now they will go to school after meeting whales, ice floes, and such.

The first to tell the kind of experiences that most other boys read about and long for, were John Post, 18 years old, a junior at the University of Chicago, son of Dr. and Mrs. Wilbur E. Post, 5811 Dorchester avenue, and James Markham, 15 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Markham, 5605 Woodlawn avenue, a junior in the University of Chicago High school.

"We had plenty of thrilling experiences, but no mishaps, although one of the boys got his feet wet in an ice floe," James related last night. "We left Wiscasset, Me., we boys being the crew, stopped at a few points along the Maine coast, as well as at Sydney, Nova Scotia, and St. Johns, Newfoundland. We spent eight days going from there to Iceland.

Tells of Further Voyage.

"After leaving the east coast of Iceland beyond the arrtic circle we started out for Greenland, with the east coast as our objective. But we couldn't get there because of the floating ice after a storm. Capt. MacMillan directed us and we had to change our course all the time, working our way through the ice. One of the boys got a little wet when we stopped at an 'ice pan,' because we were short of water.

"We left Iceland for Labrador and there we visited Indian Harbor and then Sir Wilfred T. Grenfell's settlement. Then we went to Nain, Labrador, where Capt. MacMillan had built last year a school for Eskimos.

"We boys spent four or five days wiring the school house so the Eskimoes might have plenty of light for their studies. Then we went to Camp MacMillan, not far away, and floated the captain's single cabin cruiser down and left it for the use of the missionaries. We stopped at Prince Edward island, and then down the Nova Scotia coast to Maine. Then we went home.

Some Surprising Things.

"We were surprised to find no trees in Iceland. In Labrador, usually infested by the mosquito and black flies, we found none at all. This was the first time in history, they said, when they were free of those pests. This was thought to be due to a dry spring. We found the Eskimoes interesting, even though they spoke a different language. They were the most friendly people and if you looked at them they smiled.

"At one place we stopped every one spoke French and there wasn't any prohibition. We saw all kinds of rum runners getting ready to go to the United States. We saw one three masted schooner loading up for a trip, and talked with some of the rum runners at the hotel, which was their headquarters."

The other Chicagoans on the trip were William J. Thomas, 5630 Kimbark avenue; Robert Potter, 449 Barry avenue; Edward Hoffman, 203 Delaware place; Frank Elliott, 55 Delaware place; Paul Davis, Kenilworth; Bud Grulee, Evanston.

U. S. MARINE BAND TO GIVE PUPILS SPECIAL MUSIC

School Supervisor Lauds Program.

Special music to delight the ears of the thousands of school children who will be released from classes to hear the United States Marine band in the Chicago Stadium on Tuesday afternoon was assured yesterday by telegrams from Capt. Taylor Branson, the noted leader of the band. THE TRIBUNE is bringing the band to Chicago for two free concerts on Tuesday afternoon and evening.

The program arranged for the children's entertainment—including, as it does, works by Tschaikowsky, Bach, Strauss, and Wagner—seemed ideally selected, Music Supervisor J. Lewis Browne of the public schools said, and in line with the type of compositions used in music appreciation classes this year.

Suggestions for Encores.

For encores, Dr. Browne and his assistant, H. Ray Staater, made several suggestions, which last night were sent on to Toledo, where Capt. Branson was directing the band. These, and a list suggested by Sister Antonine of the parochial schools, made it probable that in addition to such great music as Tschaikowsky's overture, "1812," the children also will hear the favorites, Poldini's "Dance of the Dolls," Beethoven's "Minuet in G," and Schubert's "March Militaire."

Sister Antonine also suggested Moszkowski's "Waltz in E," while Mr. Staater favored selections from the Strauss operetta, "Dié Fledermaus," and "Man Lives but Once," by the same composer.

It is expected that the children and teachers will pack the 22,000 seats in the Stadium for the afternoon concert. The night concert, which will be for adults as well as children, will have heavier music, interspersed with marches, folk songs, and perhaps some popular music, Capt. Branson reserving the right to add the tunes of the day to his program if he chooses.

Music in Grant Park.

Anticipating that many more will wish to hear the band than can find seats and standing room in the Stadium, THE TRIBUNE has arranged to transmit the music to Grant park and amplify it through a cluster of loud speakers mounted upon a large platform. There, in afternoon and evening, motorists may park their cars in the roadways and drives adjoining the Buckingham fountain.

THE TRIBUNE presents the Marine band as a major number in the series of musical events it is sponsoring in Chicago and Chicagoland. The series was inaugurated with the Chicagoland music festival several weeks ago, an event which packed Soldiers' field with 150,000 persons and left thousands more clamoring for admittance. The amplification system to be installed for the band concert was designed to accommodate the overflow and insure hearing for all those who wish to listen to "The President's Own."

Mary L. Spas, Adopted by "Daddy" Browning, Weds

New York, Sept. 12.—(AP)—The Daily News says that Mary Louise Spas, who was adopted by Edward W. (Daddy) Browning in 1925, is married to Dr. Henry Tvrdy, an Astoria, Queens, dentist.

They eloped Thursday to Troy, N. Y., where they were married. Tvrdy gave his age as 26, Mary said she was 24.

A suit for $500,000 damages which Miss Spas instituted against Browning after the adoption fell through is pending and expected to come to trial next month.

BURIAL CAIRNS BARE FATE OF 129 IN ARCTIC IN 1845

FORT McMURRAY, Alta., Sept. 12.—(AP)—New traces of the tragic end of the attempt of Sir John Franklin and his party of 129 men to find the northwest passage in 1845 were described here today by W. E. Gilbert, pilot of the Burwash aerial expedition to King William's land and the north magnetic pole.

Mr. Gilbert said he and Maj. L. T. Burwash, dominion government explorer, found graves which he believed to be those of some of the victims. Numerous relics of their expedition also were found.

The burial mounds were arranged in orderly fashion, indicating, he said, that the men had died one by one from scurvy and starvation and were buried by their comrades. Bones and skeletons also were found in rocky cairns, which apparently had been partly looted by natives, he said. Maj. Burwash brought back with him a jacket and a pair of bearskin trousers which were found in one of the cairns.

FARMERS TURN AGAINST INCOME TAX PROPOSAL

Oppose Letting Counties Keep 85% of Revenue.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Organized agriculture in Illinois will not support the proposed income tax amendment to the state constitution when it comes before the voters in November.

Officers and the board of directors of the Illinois Agricultural association, representing 75,000 farmers of the state, voted yesterday to withhold their support on the grounds that the amendment is based upon "dangerous and improper provisions which would make our taxing system still more burdensome to most property, especially real estate."

Oppose Chicago Safeguard.

Chief among the objections voiced by the association was that the income tax amendment would restrict the state to only 15 per cent of any tax that may be levied on incomes.

When the proposed income tax amendment was discussed in the general assembly last spring, a provision was inserted to protect Chicago and other heavily populated areas from paying income taxes for the benefit of rural districts. This was attained by the adoption of a provision that each county shall retain for local purposes 85 per cent of the revenue collected from its residents through the income tax.

"This safeguarding provision," declares the association, "would prevent the state from collecting enough revenue to assume certain indispensable functions, the most important of which is the assuring of equal educational opportunities to every child in the state."

Predicts Heavier Taxes.

Farmers of the state have been urging an income tax that is much different from this one, according to Earl Smith, president of the state farm bureau. He states, however, that careful study by his tax department, by officials of the association, and by a special committee of its board of directors has brought the conclusion that the dangerous provisions of the proposal far outweigh its possible advantages.

"This association repeatedly has opposed new forms of taxation unless they relieve realty of at least a portion of the unfair burden it is now carrying," he declared. "It is against any new taxes piled on top of existing ones.

"We now hold that distribution of the greater portion of the revenue derived from a state income tax among the various taxing districts of the counties to be used for any and all purposes would so divide the revenue that it would not serve as a lieu or replacement tax, but as an additional tax."

Another "grave defect" the association points out is that the general assembly, by majority vote, can allow any taxing district in the state to levy confiscatory taxes by special assessment on contiguous property, rural or otherwise, for local improvements.

Oppose Cut on Intangibles.

The agricultural association also declares it sees no useful purpose in classification of property to permit a low rate of taxation on intangible property. It holds that experience in other states in this respect shows that "the establishment of low tax rates on stocks, bonds, mortgages, bank deposits, and similar evidence of ownership has not succeeded in deriving much additional revenue from that source."

The association issued a statement regretting the delay of four years before a proper income tax amendment can be submitted, but it believes that delay is far safer than the incorporation of dangerous and improper provisions in a constitution so notoriously difficult to amend."

Nurito Prescription Acts Like Magic, Making Bed-ridden Sufferers Get Up and Dance

Nothing has so startled the community as the effect of Nurito, a physician's prescription for rheumatism, neuritis, neuralgia, sciatica and lumbago. It is now to be had at the local drug stores and is certainly a boon to humanity. Many won't believe such a thing possible as almost instant relief in even bed-ridden cases of excruciating pain. They say it must be a narcotic. But it isn't anything of the sort, and to prove it, get the regular package from the drug store. Try it as directed, and if it doesn't prove almost a miracle in driving away pain with two or three doses, your money will be instantly refunded. Ask at the drug store for a box of Nurito on this money-back guarantee.

Visits Thorne Home

Mrs. Katherine Thorne Gillespie, Lake Forest heiress, who surprised Chicago society by eloping in February, 1929, with an Arizona cowboy, George Gillespie, arrived home alone yesterday for her second visit with her parents since her marriage.

In Hollywood, where Mrs. Gillespie and her husband had been conducting a miniature golf course, Gillespie was quoted as saying he had sold the course and planned to take a fishing trip until his wife rejoined him in the fall. He denied the recurrent rumor of a rift between them.

At the Thorne residence, 425 North Sheridan road, Lake Forest, it was said last night that Mrs. Gillespie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Thorne, planned to sail next week for Europe. Whether Katherine intended to accompany them was not announced.

AUTOIST, UNDER BAN AS DRIVER, HELD BY JURY

Cornelius P. Van Schaak, 22 years old, 614 Linden avenue, Wilmette, son of Peter Van Schaak, wholesale druggist, was held to the grand jury yesterday by Police Magistrate Harry H. Porter in Evanston. Van Schaak was arrested for driving his automobile after his license had been revoked by the secretary of state because of violation of the traffic laws.

Cook county's motor toll for the year was raised yesterday to 707. Alfred Villimone, 60 years old, 4630 South Hermitage avnue, died at the county hospital of injuries incurred Thursday when he was struck by an automobile in Evergreen park.

Chris Pfisterer, 11537 Wallace street, was fatally injured when his automobile plunged into a ditch and turned over near Merrillan, Wis.

Floyd Bible, 15 years old, a sophomore in the Warsaw, Ind., High school, was killed last night and two other youths were injured when an automobile carrying 15 high school students on a hazing party tipped over and crashed into a concrete post a mile west of Warsaw.

WARSAW EDITOR HERE TO CONFUTE FOES OF POLAND

Enemies of the Polish republic are flooding the United States with false propaganda, Roman Pilarx, editor of the Kuryer Poranny [Morning Courier] of Warsaw, declared on his arrival here yesterday. He is in Chicago on behalf of a syndicate of Polish newspapers.

"The Polish people are too busy with real progress to carry on propaganda," said Mr. Pilarx. "For that reason, with apparent immunity up to this time, falsehoods have been sent from foreign capitals in a systematic attempt to undermine the standing of the new republic."

BOY'S HOAX COSTS POLICE CAPTAIN $10,000 DAMAGES

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 12.—(AP)—Mrs. Christine Collins was awarded $10,800 damages by a superior court jury tonight against Police Captain J. J. Jones, who placed her in the psychopathic ward two years ago after she refused to accept an imposter as her son. She sued for $55,300.

The trial revealed how a 10-year-old boy, Arthur Hutchins, Jr., of De Kalb, Ill., perpetrated a hoax on officers of two states and passed for a month as Walter Collins, 9, who was slain on Gordon Stewart Northcott's Wineville, Calif., chicken ranch.

At the trial Mrs. Collins testified Captain Jones said "You are crazy, and not fit to be at large." She was placed in the psychopathic ward and remained there five days. A few days later young Hutchins confessed the hoax. He was returned to relatives in De Kalb. Subsequently it was discovered Walter Collins had been murdered.

Judge Edwin F. Hahn instructed today's jury that Captain Jones did not have probable cause for committing the woman to the psychopathic ward. It remained only for the jury to fix the amount of damages.

YANKEE COLONY IN MEXICO BIDS MORROW ADIEU

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 12.—Ambassador and Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow were given a farewell luncheon today by the American chamber of commerce. Three hundred prominent social and commercial personages of the American colony were present.

Former Federal Judge McMahon, the principal speaker, said the ambassador as a schoolboy did not have sufficient funds to keep his pipe going, and was always borrowing matches, thereby gaining the nickname of "Matchless" Morrow. The matchless Morrow of those days, said the judge, is the peerless diplomat of today.

"We shall miss you when you are gone," he added.

Ambassador Morrow emphasized how hard it was for him and his wife to say good-by to so many friends and to Mexico itself, "the spell of which enters one's blood."

Mrs. Morrow was the last speaker, and she thanked her husband as a model spouse for "allowing her the last word." She said her husband had not said half of what he ought regarding their sorrow in leaving Mexico and so many real friends.

SIGNS OF BETTER BUSINESS SEEN IN U. S. REPORTS

Indicate Worst of Slump Is Over.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12.—[Special.]—Two government agencies today cautiously pointed to signs of an upward trend in business.

The United States employment service of the department of labor in its monthly review said that while there was little change in the volume of employment in August as compared with July, there were signs during the latter part of the month of improved conditions likely to develop during the next 30 or 60 days.

The department of commerce in a weekly review of domestic business conditions noted a slight increase in activity in the week ended Sept. 6 as compared with the previous week.

The two reports reflected the present disposition of government officials to refrain from such overoptimism as marked their predictions following the stock market crash last fall.

Low Point Believed Passed.

The data presented appeared to confirm their belief that the low point of the depression was reached in July and the early part of August and that a slow but steady upward climb may be expected from now on. The government experts have viewed with considerable satisfaction the American Railway association's report of car loadings earlier in the week, which showed a total in August considerably in excess of that of any previous month during 1930, although below August, 1929.

"There was little change in the volume of employment maintained throughout August as compared with that which obtained in July," said Francis I. Jones, director general of the United States employment service, in summing up detailed reports from all the states. "A brighter outlook developed toward the close of the month in regard to the industrial employment prospects of the country for the next 30 to 60 days. There was no upward tendency apparent toward the close of the month in certain branches of the iron and steel industry."

Report on Illinois.

In a review by states it was noted as to Illinois that "industrial activity was still restricted in a number of leading industries throughout the state during August," and similar conditions were said to exist in Wisconsin and Indiana. In Michigan some improvement in the industrial situation, with a corresponding increase in employment, was reported.

The department of commerce in its weekly review said that "business activity during the week ended Sept. 6, as measured by bank debits outside New York City, registered a slight increase over the preceding week."

Officials Seek to Prevent Building of Ugly Bridges

A movement to keep the city's new bridges in harmony architecturally with the Michigan avenue bridge and the new Wabash avenue structure gained ground in the city hall yesterday as officials considered means to prevent the construction in the future of unsightly spans across the river. The proposal of Commissioner of Public Works Wolfe to construct five new bridges gave an impetus to the movement.

Two of the bridges opened during the Wolfe régime have been attacked because of their design, which complied with physical restrictions, but failed to eliminate a shock to the public's eye. These two bridges, at Clark and La Salle streets, which are twins in appearance, with the huge iron supports protruding above the street level, have been compared to billboards that hide pleasing scenery.

"They look like the devil," opined Eugene Taylor, manager of the Chicago plan commission, and added, "but so many people have a hand in the design."

Commission Studies Plans.

With the plans for a subway in State street including the construction of a new State street bridge the art commission of Chicago is considering ways to make the bridge pleasing architecturally. Under a state statute, works of art in public places and designs of all city buildings, bridges, lamps, and other public structures must be approved by the commission as to their design and location.

Members of the commission, all appointed by the late Mayor Dever, are Everett L. Millard, an attorney; Potter Palmer, Cyrus McCormick Jr., Jarvis Hunt, architect; Jens Jensen, landscape gardener, and Thomas A. O'Shaughnessy, an artist.

"The commission has a keen interest in keeping the bridges as well as other public structures beautiful," said Mr. Millard. "The commission is glad to have any suggestions from citizens in these matters and will examine any relating to improvements to the Clark and La Salle street spans."

Explains Bridge Rule.

Paul Schioler, city bridge engineer, explained that the Clark and La Salle street bridges were constructed with the trunnions elevated above the street level because of the clearance above the water demanded by the federal government. Michigan avenue being higher than Clark street, it was possible, Schioler said, to obtain the clearance and still keep the trunnions below the deck level.

The engineer said the new Wabash avenue bridge as well as the contemplated design for a new span in State street have the steel trunnions on a level with the sidewalk railing along the bridge. He said that they would harmonize with the Michigan avenue span.

Suggestions have been made for an iron ornamentation for the Clark and La Salle street bridges to hide the street supports or soften their effect. These are expected to be reviewed by the art commission.

RUSH AID TO ISLE HIT BY VOLCANO; DEATH TOLL IS 4

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Sept. 12.—With the victims limited to four dead and 26 injured, the volcano Stromboli today appeared to have subsided into complete quiescence after yesterday's eruption, which destroyed three towns and ruined crops. The victims were two men and two women, three of whom died of burns while the fourth was drowned in a tidal wave caused by the volcanic action which sent waves 20 feet high sweeping up the island coast. Tents and supplies have been rushed to the island and the injured are being cared for on the spot.

Japanese Volcano Erupts.

TOKIO, Sept. 12. — (AP) — Asama, Japan's most active volcano, erupted violently today, sending a shower of ashes and small stones down upon Karuizawa, the small town nearby, noted as a summer resort. Villages near the mountain were subjected to a hail of falling stones which damaged roofs. Ashes seriously harmed crops. Flying fire ignited the woods near the mountain's base.

ATHENS, Greece, Sept. 12.—(AP)—An earthquake was felt at Isthmia, in the district of Corinth today. The tremblor also was felt slightly at Athens. No damage was reported.

EX-KAISER WRITES PAMPHLET TO WIN REICHSTAG VOTES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 12.—The former kaiser took a hand in the campaign waged for next Sunday's reichstag elections it was discovered today when thousands of copies of an election appeal to the voters were distributed to the farmers and middle class men in northern Germany. They were handed out by the former kaiser's last royal supporters.

The former kaiser appeals to the voters to think "only of national and patriotic issues" and beware of the falsehood of everything that terms itself Social Democratic or Socialistic. In 15 points the former ruler carefully explains the difference of these two creeds, and terms both as nefarious.

The former kaiser's appeal ends with a warning to "remember that a Socialist can never match a Nationalist."

JUGO-SLAVIA AND ITALY REPORTED NEAR OPEN BREAK

London Hears Mussolini Prepares Ultimatum.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 12.—Open evidence of the serious tension between Italy and Jugo-Slavia is only being delayed by the sitting of the league of nations, according to reports here today. As soon as the league disperses, Premier Mussolini is reported to be ready to present an ultimatum demanding satisfaction for various grievances.

Italy is said to have proof that Jugo-Slavia backed the Slovene plots in Italian territory which led to the execution of four Slovene terrorists at Trieste a few days ago.

The Jugo-Slavians are said to be depending on the French to prevent an attack by Italy.

It is also reported that the Italian ambassador to Ankara has been instructed to conclude a naval agreement with Turkey which would make Italy virtually the defender of Turkish rights in the straits.

Deny Troop Concentration.

VIENNA, Sept. 12.—(AP)—The Italian legation here issued an official denial today that Italy had concentrated troops on the Jugo-Slav frontier.

Italian Legation Stoned.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PRAGUE, Czecho-Slovakia, Sept. 12.—Three members of the Czecho-Slovakian Fascist party were arrested here today following an attack on the Italian legation this morning. The mob, incited to fury by attacks in the Czech press against the recent execution by Italy of four Jugo-Slavs at Trieste, broke police cordons and stoned the Italian legation, breaking all the windows. The foreign office tonight apologized to the legation, promising to punish the demonstrators.

The attack was preceded by wild attacks against Italian fascism, with shouts of "Down with the Italians!" and "Down with the oppression of peoples!" Most of the participants were members of the Czech Fascist party, which a couple of days ago decided to change its name, due to the "disgrace" brought to the term "Fascist" by the Trieste executions.

The anger of the Czech press is indicated by the slogan on the front page of the "Ceske Slowo" of "Slavs, always remember that the Italian Fascists consider that you are insects and barbarians."

Reports from Jugo-Slavia indicate that the population there is less demonstrative, due to the discipline imposed by the Jugo-Slav dictatorship, which appears to be desirous of avoiding trouble with Italy.

Report Franco-Italian Pact.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 12.—An important conversation concerning the Franco-Italian naval deadlock and its repercussions on Great Britain's requirements was held today when the first lord of the British admiralty, A. V. Alexander, returning from the league of nations assembly at Geneva, called on Minister of Marine Jaques-Louis Dumesnil.

A tentative agreement, said to have been reached early this week at Geneva between Aristide Briand and Dino Grandi, resulting in the Italian foreign minister's sudden departure for Rome to confer with Premier Mussolini, was examined by Mr. Alexander and M. Dumesnil.

The long naval holiday reported under consideration by the Rome and Paris governments for certain elements of new construction is said to be sufficiently drastic to make sure that the tri-power agreement among Great Britain, United States, and Japan will not be disturbed, and the famous "escalator" clause will not need to be called in.

Grandi's Whereabouts Mystery.

ROME, Sept. 12.—(AP)—The question being asked in political circles here in the last 24 hours has been, "Where is Grandi?"

Reports last night said that the foreign minister, who left the league of nations session at Geneva precipitately Wednesday, had motored across the French frontier with his wife and a secretary, and had taken lunch at Chambery.

Telephone calls at the foreign ministry elicited the statement that Sig. Grandi was in Rome and had spent the whole day there. Further telephone calls to the foreign minister's home brought the statement that he had not yet returned to Rome.

Second Gold Star Mother Dies on French Pilgrimage

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 12.—A gold star mother, Mrs. Grace W. Kingsbury, 67, of Smith Center, Kas., died this morning at Verdun from uremia following collapse at her son's grave. She is the second American mother to die on the French pilgrimage. Her body was brought to Paris this evening for shipment to the United States.

FLEEING BOY, 15, SHOT TO DEATH BY POLICEMAN

Alex Sobieraj, 15 years old, alleged burglar and ward of the Juvenile court, was shot in front of the Juvenile Detention home at 2:30 p. m. yesterday by Policeman Michael Mullen of the South Chicago district. The boy died four hours later in the Bridewell hospital.

Sobieraj, who lived at 8318 Green Bay avenue, had been taken before Judge McKinley in South Chicago court yesterday with two 17 year old youths, Anthony Seugeneach, 8242 Mackinaw avenue, and Wendell Pander, 8426 Green Bay avenue. Caught in a burglary on July 27, the latter pair had named Sobieraj as an accomplice on five earlier thefts.

Judge McKinley ordered the older pair held to the grand jury and Sobieraj remanded to custody of Juvenile authorities. He had been returned to the Juvenile home in the patrol wagon and was alighting when he tripped Mullen, according to the officer's statement. As he fled Mullen fired once, the shot passing through the fugitive's chest.

PROPOSES PLAN FOR SERIES OF EUROPEAN UNIONS

Austria Has Substitute for Briand Scheme.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Sept. 12.—Aristide Briand's dream of a European federation received another setback today when Johan Schober, Austria's chancellor, offered as a substitute plan a series of purely regional customs leagues.

Addressing the league of nations assembly, the white bearded former police chief declared that the divergent replies to M. Briand's memorandum showed that a union embracing the whole of Europe was unobtainable through any means yet suggested. He advised European nations having common economic interests to abolish internal trade barriers and form loose federations.

Would Bind Groups of Nations.

If Chancellor Schober's plan is adopted, there will be three or four big groups of nations closely bound together and functioning as units, at least for all economic questions. Some such federation is already developing among the agricultural Balkan states, and there is a strong tendency toward a Baltic league.

Herr Schober's project is one of the most deadly blows yet struck at the European federation plan. In the first place, it would completely upset the French hegemony insured by the little entente, and might pave the way to the dread anschluss, or union of Germany and Austria. In the second place it is generally felt here that Herr Schober seized the psychological moment to let loose his shaft because the need of an economic union of some sort has been expressed by the delegates of all European nations, but there is bitter difference of opinion over the machinery, and the Briand scheme has been met with general disfavor.

Small Nations Want Union.

The classic struggle enacted yesterday, when M. Briand's policy of moral disarmament and the British emphasis of material disarmament clashed, is now confused by a new element—the determination of the small nations of Europe to attain economic unions at any cost.

M. Briand has not given up the fight. Next week the assembly will decide what kind of a committee will take up the project. The fate of his scheme now hangs entirely on this decision, and only British support can bring the favorable treatment that M. Briand wants.

Hint at Russian Dope Scandal.

The belief that huge secret plants for the manufacture of narcotics exist in Russia, and that a steady stream of deadly drugs is leaking out through underground channels, was expressed tonight in league of nations circles. This information was obtained by THE TRIBUNE following the decision of the league council today to invite the soviets to the world opium conference next December.

Fear is expressed here, however, that the bolsheviks will refuse the invitation because opium and drug manufacture is a Russian state monopoly, and it is alleged that illicit exports are a source of enormous revenue to the soviet government. It is recalled that when Russia was invited to the opium conference in 1924, the soviets sent an insolent note of refusal.

Wheatland Plow Contest Will Take Place Today

The 53d annual renewal of the Wheatland plowing contest will be held today on the H. J. Patterson farm, five miles southeast of Aurora. Homer Lapp, winner of the classic for the last two years, will defend his title with a horse drawn plow. Tractor plows are eligible, the sweepstakes going to the plowman who turns the straightest furrows, whether with tractor or team.

FEARS BANDITS, LOCKS GARAGE, DIES FROM GAS

A fear of bandits that led William Hughes, 55 years old, 1115 East 52d street, a real estate dealer, to close and bolt the door of his garage was given yesterday as the indirect cause of his death. Hughes died yesterday morning shortly after he was found in the garage overcome by gas from his automobile.

WILLIAM HUGHES.

Miss Eleanor Hughes, 22 years old, testified at the inquest that her father feared he would be waylaid in the alley while putting his car away and was in the practice of closing the garage door at once. Hughes was found lying beside the automobile. The hood was raised and the engine was running.

11 Esthonian Reds Jailed; Aided in General's Murder

TALLINN, Esthonia, Sept. 12.—Eleven communists charged with complicity in the assassination of Gen. Unt, late chief of the Tallinn garrison, today received sentences ranging from four to twelve years hard labor. The actual assassins escaped to Russia.

GYPSY WOMEN HURL SHOES AS CLANS FIGHT OUTSIDE OF COURT

Some 40 members of two rival gypsy clans engaged in a free for all fight yesterday in front of the Criminal court building. In the affray the gypsy women tugged at each other's hair and several of the women even took off their shoes in order to have something to throw at their opponents. Sergt. Jack Greer, chauffeur for Chief Investigator Pat Roche of the state's attorney's office, stopped the battle after he had picked up some of the shoes and taken careful aim at the leaders in the fight.

The trouble was the outgrowth of a hearing in the Felony court in which Angelo Nickels, Frank Eli, Eli Ristick and Ristick's sons, George and Java, were charged with robbing Peter and Mary Bimbo, son and daughter-in-law of "King" Tene Bimbo. The Bimbos were tried last week on charges preferred by those who were defendants yesterday.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

In the last 20 years Chicago has spent $3,604,354,829 in the construction of 224,068 buildings of all kinds. That is at the rate of 11,203 buildings a year at an average annual cost of $180,177,849.

It is forecast in the Halsey, Stuart & Co.'s report embodying a financial plan for consolidating the surface and elevated lines that Chicago's growth in population in the next twenty years will be slightly more than in the last two decades. It is estimated that 1,264,560 persons will be added to the city's population before 1950, and that this future growth will probably require as many homes, schools, factories, churches, and offices as were built in the last twenty years.

An Encouraging Outlook.

The prospects of the architect, contractor, engineer, real estate dealer, renting agent, the furniture man, the ice box manufacturer, the cement maker, the stone cutter, the brick maker, and all of those other businesses, who rely upon building for profits, have as promising a twenty years ahead as they have just passed through. And the last twenty years have been, by far, the best in the city's history, not excepting the rebuilding of the city immediately after the great fire of 1871.

At the ratio of the last two decades the next 20 years will require 244,243 buildings, costing $3,817,000,000, as compared with 224,068, costing $3,605,000,000 for the last twenty years.

Population a Vital Factor.

Halsey, Stuart & Co. as the consolidation managers, who have the task of formulating a financial plan by which $200,000,000 of new money for transit improvements can be raised in the next ten years, are interested in the growth of Chicago and its suburbs. Upon the population depends directly the number of potential car riders, and consequently the earnings of the transportation company.

They obtained the services of James Walker, consulting engineer. Upon his estimates Halsey, Stuart & Co. have based their belief that the transit financial plan will prove sound and profitable.

Mr. Walker derived his forecasts of population by the use of the logistic curve, commonly called the "S" curve because of its shape. The principle of the "S" curve was first set forth by Pierre Francois Verhulst, a Belgian. By that method, in 1847, he forecast the population of France with remarkable accuracy for the succeeding eighty years. In 1921, using this method, two Americans, Raymond Pearl and Dr. L. J. Reed, forecast the population of the United States for 1930 within 250,000 of the census count just completed. That forecast was accurate within 2-10 of 1 per cent.

A Look Backwards.

To indicate the probable accuracy of this method of forecasting the population of Chicago and certain west and north suburbs Mr. Walker has projected the curve backward to 1900. A comparison of the forecast by the "S" curve with the census count for each of the last four decennial periods shows these results:

	Population		Difference
Year.	Census.	Curve.	Persons.	pct.
1900	1,698,575	1,655,268	35,297	2.07
1910	2,185,283	2,181,031	4,252	0.19
1920	2,701,705	2,743,681	41,976	1.55
1930	3,375,235	3,341,218	35,017	1.03
Averages			29,135	1.21

Mr. Walker forecasts that Chicago's population in 1940 will be 3,973,641—a jump of 598,406 in the next 10 years. Those persons must have places in which to live and work. At the rate Chicago has been building in the last two decades for its increase in population, that 598,406 added residents of the next 10 years will require 115,078 average buildings.

In 1950, Mr. Walker says that, according to his logistic curve, the population of Chicago will be 4,640,095. That is an increase of 666,454 persons over the number he allots to 1940. By the same process of calculating these newcomers will require 128,165 average buildings, assuming the experience of the last 20 years on the price of structures will continue generally.

In a word, the next 20 years should see the erection of 244,243 new buildings which will cost $3,817,354,644—an increase of $212,000,000 over the last 20 years.

Other Building Activities.

These figures relate largely to private building. They do not include road construction. While millions have already been spent on concrete highways, enormous sums must yet be spent to care for the increase in the number of cars.

Widening of State Street Recommended to Council

The widening of North State street between the river and Chicago avenue from 66 to 115 feet was recommended to the city council yesterday by the board of local improvement after a ten minute public hearing at which no objections were raised by property owners. The new width is necessary, according to engineers, to allow the construction of a four track subway in State street.

The recommendation completes the third step in the procedure which the board must follow in planning local improvements to be paid for by special assessment. The remaining steps are to prepare an ordinance for passage by the city council and to file in court a list of property owners affected so that the court may fix damages for property taken. Michael J. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements, said that the ordinance would be sent to the council either at the special meeting on Sept. 22 or the regular meeting of Nov. 5.

Plan for Street Widening.

Under the plan approved yesterday 49 feet will be taken from the west side of North State street between the river and Kinzie street and from there north to Chicago avenue 39 feet will be taken from the west side and ten feet from the east side of the street. Irregularities in the street line will be straightened out in this way.

The council chambers were jammed at the hearing, but only two property owners spoke. Francis Manierre, chairman of the State street committee of the North Central association, gave the association's approval to the widening, and J. B. Waller Jr., who objected to the 115 foot width at a previous hearing, said that he is now in full accord with the plan.

Approve 10 Cent "L" Fare.

Another transit matter was settled yesterday when Federal Judges George T. Page, George A. Carpenter and Fred L. Wham, sitting en banc, overruled Assistant Corporation Counsel Higgins' exceptions to the report of Master in Chancery Roswell B. Mason, which found that the Chicago Rapid Transit company is entitled to the straight 10 cent fare that it now charges.

The court instructed Attorney Harry J. Dunbaugh, counsel for the elevated lines, to prepare an order for a final decree which will be presented to the court next Tuesday. The decree, when signed, will make permanent the temporary injunction restraining the Illinois commerce commission from interfering with the 10 cent fare. Mr. Higgins said the city may appeal the case to the United States Supreme court.

WOMAN VICTIM GONE; 6 ACCUSED YOUTHS SET FREE

Six youths, accused of a gang assault upon Miss Ruth Grimm, 35 years old, 5149 Calumet avenue, were discharged yesterday by Judge Burke in Boys' court when the prosecuting witness failed to appear. The prosecutor, Assistant State's Attorney E. O. Hutchins, said he would open an investigation.

"I won't rest this case until I find out what became of Miss Grimm," Hutchins said. "She told me she had been offered $200 here in court to drop the charges."

Senator Moses Stops in City; Mum on Politics

Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire, the chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee, stopped in Chicago yesterday in order to visit his grandchildren and his son, Gordon Moses, in Hinsdale. This morning he will resume his journey to the northeast, to some of whose senators he once referred to as "sons of wild jackasses."

"I do not wish to discuss politics," he said. "I am going to meet Senator Steiwer, vice chairman of the Republican senatorial committee, and we will make a survey of states where senatorial campaigns are being held. Sons of wild jackasses? I do not wish to discuss that."

G. O. P. Names Dady for 17th District Judgeship

Attorney Ralph J. Dady of Waukegan was nominated yesterday by delegates of the 17th judicial district as the Republican candidate to fill the unexpired term of Circuit judge of the district. Judge Claire C. Edwards recently resigned from the position. One hundred and forty-eight delegates from Lake, McHenry, Winnebago, and Boone counties, including Lieut. Gov. Fred Sterling and Secretary of State William J. Stratton, were present at the meeting, which was held at the Lake county courthouse at Waukegan. Dady is a former state's attorney of Lake county.

BODY FOUND IN PARK.

Charles Lundin, 59 years old, 5477 Drexel boulevard, who had been out of work for months was found dead with his throat slashed early yesterday in a clump of bushes in Washington park. Police believe he committed suicide.

MYSTERY VEILS FATE OF 2 WOMEN HELD BY CHINESE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Sept. 13.—Miss Eleanor Harrison and Miss Edith Nettleton, British missionaries, who were captured by communists in Fukien province last June, are still held prisoners, despite the efforts of the British consular authorities and the British Inland missions to effect their release.

No word of their whereabouts has been received since Aug. 10, when a letter from the captives asked the payment of $19,000 ransom. The letter also contained a finger alleged to have been cut from Miss Nettleton's hand.

The letter asked that the ransom be sent to a Chinese soviet headquarters in a mountainous district of Fukien, with which the authorities have been unable to establish contact. The finger alleged to belong to Miss Nettleton was examined by an American woman doctor, E. M. Betow of Foochow, who said she believed it belongs to a white woman, but the evidence was not conclusive.

ROBBED RETURNING FROM BANK.

John P. Donahue, 25 years old, a pay roll messenger for the Chicago Nipple Manufacturing company, 1966 Southport avenue, alighted from a street car yesterday at 1330 Cortland street with $720 in an envelope, when a gunman held him up, seized the envelope, and escaped.

Wheeler, a Dry, Declares Prohibition Fails.

"If the people of the state of Washington want the 18th amendment repealed or modified, the method as I understand it," he wrote, "would be either by a resolution of the state legislature asking that the question of the repeal or modification be submitted to them, or by referendum brought about regularly in accordance with the provision of our law.

"I would feel justified in voting, not for adoption of such an amendment, but for the submission of such a proposal to the people to be passed upon directly by them.

"I would not vote for the adoption of such an amendment, but would do everything I could to induce the people to reject it."

Senator Jones pointed out that a change in the national prohibition law could be brought about in two ways—either by modification or repeal in the same way it was adopted, or by a national convention "pursuant to the terms of the constitution" to revise it.

ROBINSON IS INDORSED

Hot Springs, Ark., Sept. 12.—(AP)—Enthusiastic friends of United States Senator Joe T. Robinson in the state Democratic convention here today tossed his hat in the ring for the 1932 presidential nomination.

In seconding the resolution of indorsement former Gov. Charles Brough of Arkansas assured the delegates he had the word of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York that in event he was unable to obtain the nomination he would support Robinson.

Dr. Brough also said he had been assured by Chief Justice Samuel K. Dennis of the Supreme court bench of Baltimore that if Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland could not be nominated he felt sure the Maryland delegation would go over to Robinson in the convention.

This statement was denied from Baltimore by Justice Dennis, who characterized it as "an absurd untruth."

In seconding the indorsement of Robinson, Dr. Brough quoted Gov. Roosevelt as having said:

"My hat may be in the ring. I am having trouble with Tammany over appointive matters. I assure you as governor of New York, that if I cannot obtain the nomination there is no man I had rather support than Senator Robinson."

The unanimous vote of indorsement amid cheering followed an address by Representative Claud A. Fuller of Eureka Springs, spokesman for Robinson, who praised the senior Arkansas senator as an able leader, and assailed President Hoover and the Republican party.

Fuller said the southern states which voted for President Hoover in 1928 had "repented in sack cloth and ashes" and he predicted a trend to the Democratic party between now and 1932.

HOOVER TOLD FEDERAL EMPLOYES WORK IN BAY STATE CAMPAIGN

Boston, Mass., Sept. 12.—(AP)—President Hoover today was asked by William H. Mitchell, chairman of the Liberal Civic League, Inc., to issue an executive order restraining federal officers and employés in Massachusetts from participation in the present pre-primary United States senatorial campaign.

In a communication to the President, Mitchell charged that in complete disregard of the regulations prohibiting government employés from partisan activity, "there is widespread activity on the part of federal employés in Massachusetts in support of the candidacy of William M. Butler for the Republican United States senatorial nomination."

Butler is running as a dry. His opponent, Eben S. Draper, is a wet. The Liberal Civic league is an active opponent of prohibition.

Mitchell informed the President that United States Attorney Frederick H. Tarr was "one of the principal offenders."

Mitchell also said that Butler and his associates appeared "to have procured the partisan service in his behalf of . Prohibition Commissioner Woodcock.

WOMEN'S GROUP WILL CAMPAIGN FOR DRY VOTES

Formed to Combat Wets at Referendum.

A campaign to persuade citizens of Illinois to vote "No" in the referendum on prohibition repeal at the November election was undertaken yesterday by a group of club women at a luncheon conference in the Women's City club.

The group, while acting as individuals, represented many prominent women's organizations in the Chicago district and will endeavor to have the campaign supported by their several organizations.

Mrs. J. Marc Fowler, former president of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs and a member of its executive board, presided at the conference and was chairman of the committee which drafted plans for the campaign.

Indorse No Candidates.

The women's conference made no effort to indorse candidates, defining its purpose as solely for an intensive campaign, particularly in the downstate counties, on the negative side of the three referendum propositions —repeal of the 18th amendment, modification of the Volstead act, and repeal of the Illinois search and seizure act.

Among those at the conference were Mrs. Catharine Waugh McCulloch, president of the Illinois Women's Democratic Enforcement league; Mrs. Sylvester Schiele, president of the women's department of the Chicago Church federation; Mrs. J. Scott Durand, president of the Lake Bluff W. C. T. U.; Mrs. William M. Gourley, chairman of the law observance committee of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. E. R. Carter of the Women's Church federation of Oak Park.

Mrs. G. W. Short, president of the Congregational Women's Home Missionary society; Miss Ada Townsend of the Methodist Home Missionary society; Mrs. Epha Marshall, secretary of the Chicago W. C. T. U.; Mrs. Frank Richardson of the Evanston D. A. R.; Miss Mary E. Holmes of the Business and Professional Women's club, and Mrs. Oliver Aspergreen of the Tenth district Parent-Teachers association.

Letter from W. C. T. U. Head.

Miss Helen Hood, president of the Illinois W. C. T. U., read a letter from Mrs. Ella Boole, national W. C. T. U. president, in which Mrs. Boole urged all voters to vote "no" on the referendum propositions and to support dry candidates.

The conference adopted the plan of Mrs. Fowler's committee to print and distribute some 200,000 leaflets throughout the state. It also urged women at every opportunity, such as tea parties, luncheons, bridge parties, and group meetings, to make speeches in behalf of the campaign against the wets.

The women agreed to endeavor to influence their organizations to enlist in the campaign, but said they would carry it on themselves if necessary. Serving on Mrs. Fowler's committee were Mrs. Jennie Le Gard of the Cook county W. C. T. U. and Mrs. Harry Clay Coffeen, secretary of the prohibition enforcement committee of the Chicago Woman's club.

Mrs. O'Neill Plans Campaign.

Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill, independent dry candidate for United States senator, yesterday said she wanted it understood that she is not the Anti-Saloon league's candidate. She said the league had not asked her to run, and that she had decided to become a candidate without any influence by the league. However, she said she was glad that the league had endorsed her.

Mrs. O'Neill is engaged in the task of assembling a campaign organization. She said she was organizing a sponsoring committee of 50 to 75 members and within a week or ten days would be prepared to institute a state-wide tour. Mrs. O'Neill announced she had already accepted invitations to speak at a Mount Carroll homecoming celebration on Sept. 24 and at the McLean county corn festival on Sept. 27.

In a separate statement issued by Mrs. Boole yesterday she replied to James Hamilton Lewis, Democratic senatorial nominee, who had invited the W. C. T. U. to join him in a program for temperance. Mrs. Boole said Mr. Lewis undoubtedly was sincere and invited him to join with the W. C. T. U. in its program of personal observance of the law and support of the constitution.

LEWIS SCOFFS AT FESS; SAYS RUM IS CHIEF ISSUE

Asserts Politicians Can't Stifle It.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Decatur, Ill., Sept. 12.—[Special.]—James Hamilton Lewis, Democratic nominee for the senate, today likened Senator Simeon D. Fess, chairman of the Republican national committee, to King Canute at the seashore ordering the waves to go back.

Mr. Fess' declaration that prohibition is not an issue in the campaign "unless the Democrats make it so" impelled Mr. Lewis to remark that national prohibition is the predominant political question and nothing else but.

In a speech here he said the liquor question as it stands was born of politics, that politicians have cuddled up to it to land jobs "under the guise of morality," and that its ultimate settlement at the polls cannot be stopped by the edicts of politicians.

"'King Canute' Fess," said Mr. Lewis, "might as well try to flag the billows as keep the liquor issue out of the campaign."

He intimated that, although Fess in politics is dry, on the matter of chloroforming liquor as an issue he is "all wet."

A Talk on "Issues."

"Political issues," said Mr. Lewis, "no longer are made by declarations in platforms or by keynoting politicians. They are born of events and the experiences of citizens.

"The press informs us today that the distinguished chairman of the Republican national committee, a learned, scholarly gentleman, proclaims that the issue of prohibition cannot enter into the political capaign. He insists that tariff or some similar subject shall only be presented, to the exclusion of any discussion of prohibition.

"It is also asserted that the national chairman of the woman's committee of the Democracy, the former Mrs. Gov. Nellie Tayloe Ross of Wyoming, asserts that the prohibition question is a moral one and should not be taken up as a political issue, as it disconcerts women and leads them from other questions that are political.

His Compliments to Fess.

"I respect Chairman Fess. The college over which he presides gave me the degree of doctor of laws. I esteem Mrs. Ross as a woman of superior intelligence in political affairs, but I reply to both that the national prohibition question has become political only.

"It was born in politics. It has been nurtured and caressed in politics with the object of using it as a conduit to political office under the guise of morality. It is a political question that is ever brought forward to control the fates of every other question. Now, with the opportunity presented to dispose of it in the open as a distinct national political issue, this opportunity shall not be lost to the American voters. The masses of our followers are commanding their leaders to give them the chance to settle this question in the political election, and stop it from further tantalizing and irritating the business world.

A Barrier to Prosperity.

"Nothing can be done in finance or industry with composure or peace so long as the haunting visage and mocking form of national prohibition intrudes its persecutions and hypocricies upon the American citizen and his every undertaking."

Mr. Lewis argued that the liquor issue should be approached by the electorate not as a partisan matter, but as a "personal issue of liberty and justice."

"The great question of the hour," he said, "goes to this point: Will you tolerate the federal government to advance so far as to say what each citizen shall eat, drink, or wear, and what shall be the morals of his family, or do you prefer a direction under your local government, chosen under guidance of home conscience and religion?"

On the matter of the prohibition referendum, on which Illinois electors will vote in November, Mr. Lewis took the ground that it is not Democratic doctrine to attempt to bind district candidates by a statewide vote.

Calls It Foolish.

"The attempt of the Republicans to bind all candidates to the outcome of the wet and dry referendum in Illinois," he said, "is as foolish as to attempt to bind the President of the United States. The Republicans either ignore or forget the fact that nominees for congress and the legislature were nominated on their own issues, months before the state Republican platform was adopted.

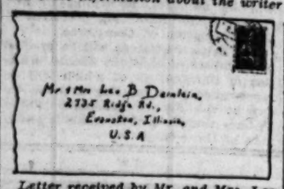

"It is the Democratic view that each congressional and legislative district is sovereign, the same as the state as a whole is sovereign. This seems to be better than the preposal of the Republican state platform, which proceeds to bind candidates for congress and the legislature, unconscious that they were nominated months before the state platform was written."

INTERESTING LETTERS

If you have received a letter from an interesting or little known place send the envelope to The Tribune, stating name of place where it was mailed and some information about the writer of the letter.

Letter received by Mr. and Mrs. Leo B. Deinlein, 2735 Ridge road, Evanston, Ill.:

Concerning this letter Miss Helen E. Deinlein writes:

"Before him lay the gray Azores, Behind, the gates of Hercules."

"The letter was sent by my brother while he was on the annual trip made by members of the Northwestern university unit of the United States naval R. O. T. C.

"The postmark, which is very faint on the envelope, is that of Horta, a little city on Fayal island of the Azores group. In Horta and in Fayal, as in all cities and islands in the Azores, life and customs are very primitive. Women are seen daily carrying huge burdens on their heads. Twelfth century ox carts bump over the rutted roads of Horta in picturesque old world fashion.

"The country is entirely volcanic and the islanders are slowly rebuilding the homes and edifices ruined by a terrible eruption which occurred three years ago. But, as if to make up for its threatening volcanic nature, the country is very beautiful. The quaint old roads are all lined with gorgeous blue hydrangeas, which make the whole countryside look as if a bit of the always azure Azorean sky had been transplanted along each roadway.

"The Portuguese tongue and a Spanish dialect are the main languages spoken in the islands. On each of three hills on the outskirts of Horta is located a radio station. One is owned and operated by a French company, one by an English company, and one by a German company.

"Each station has its own particular settlement of French, English, and German speaking peoples. It is interesting to know that, outside of the English settlement, there can be found only one or two English speaking people.

"The letter had quite an interesting jaunt before it reached its destination. It took nine days for the letter to go through the islands. Then it was sent to Lisbon. From Lisbon it went by ship to England. From England it took another ocean voyage—this time to New York. It finally reached Evanston and our home, a month after my brother had mailed it from the island of Fayal."

G. O. P. OF OHIO VOTES DOWN ALL WET PROPOSALS

Convention Out for Enforcement.

Columbus, O., Sept. 12.—[Special.]—Five proposed resolutions urging the Ohio Republican state platform contain a declaration against prohibition were voted down, 18 to 3, by the resolutions committee today. The law enforcement plank, almost identical with that of the 1928 state platform, follows:

"We heartily endorse the declaration relative to law enforcement contained in the Republican national platform. We believe in the sincere observance and conscientious enforcement of the provisions of our state and federal constitutions and of all laws pursuant thereto."

Further than that the prohibition question in the platform proper was ignored.

Avert Fight on Floor.

A fight on the floor of the convention over liquor did not develop after an all night session in which foes of prohibition attempted to inject their ideas into the platform. The resolutions committee refused to consider any planks on prohibition, the committee voting 18 to 3 on all such questions.

Repeal and referendum on the dry laws was sought by State Senator Joseph Ackerman of Cleveland, while W. W. White of Toledo, a congressional candidate, advocated a repeal plank and substitution of government control. George H. Bender of Cleveland, another congressional nominee, urged a referendum on both the state and U. S. dry laws. White and Bender were not delegates, but were heard by the committee when they threatened to carry their fight to the convention floor.

When all the proposals were voted down, Ackerman declared he would go to the convention, he failed to do so.

The convention will name a special committee to arrange a suitable date for the dedication of the Harding memorial tomb at Marion. Efforts will be made to have President Hoover deliver the dedicatory address.

WINS NOMINATION FOR SENATOR, BUT NOT FOR GOVERNOR

Concord, N. H., Sept. 12.—(AP)—Albert W. Noone of Peterboro, picturesque figure in New Hampshire politics, will not be the Democratic candidate for both governor and U. S. senator in the coming election.

Partial returns from the recent primary had indicated victory for Noone in both contests. However, official tabulation, with four small towns missing, today revealed that Frederick E. Small of Rochester had defeated Noone for the gubernatorial nomination by 183 votes.

The official returns on the senate vote gave Noone that nomination. He had 4,325, against 3,793 for his opponent, Amos N. Blandin.

DILL SHADOWED? ABSURD, REPLIES RUTH McCORMICK

G. O. P. Nominee Renews Anti-Saloon Attack.

Apparently unperturbed by the prediction of Senator C. C. Dill [Dem., Wash.] that her own testimony before the senate campaign funds committee would preclude her admission to that body if elected, Ruth Hanna McCormick again assailed the Anti-Saloon league in an address to members of the Lake county Republican organization in the courthouse at Waukegan last night.

The Washington senator, a member of the funds committee, was reported as indignant over reports that an agent of Mrs McCormick was in Spokane to investigate him, as other McCormick agents had investigated Senator Gerald P. Nye [Rep., N. D.], chairman of the campaign funds committee. The committee reconvenes in Chicago next Monday.

Dispatch Quotes Dill.

"Mrs. McCormick's own testimony at the first Chicago hearing was enough to cause the senate to deny her a seat," the Associated Press quoted Senator Dill as saying. "She has admitted spending vast sums and I am informed that new witnesses, summoned for the second hearing, will report on other vast expenditures by her.

"While I took no part in the first two hearings in Chicago and did not plan to attend the third, the reported presence of a detective shadowing me in Spokane has altered my plans. Such action looks like an attempt to intimidate the senate committee. I feel that I should go to the hearing as a matter of self-defense."

Apprised of Senator Dill's statement at the Waukegan meeting, Mrs. McCormick said:

"I don't know anything about Senator Dill's charges. But if he made a statement or intimation that my detectives were shadowing him the statement is absolutely untrue and, I might add, absurd. I am much too busy with my campaign to give the matter any further attention."

Meanwhile in Washington Senator Nye had completed plans for resumption of the Chicago hearing and indicated he expected all members of his committee to be present.

Plans for Hearing Monday.

Senator Nye, who expected to leave for Chicago today, denied Mrs. McCormick's intimation that the committee's investigators had shadowed her, ransacked files at her office and tapped her telephones.

"There has been no shadowing, ransacking or telephone tapping," said Senator Nye. "The committee has no reason to be ashamed of any work done by its agents in Illinois or elsewhere."

About thirty witnesses remain to be heard in Chicago before the committee goes to investigate campaigns in Nebraska and Colorado, Senator Nye said. Deputy marshals were busy here yesterday serving subpoenas among the scheduled witnesses. Among those served were Harry A. Brinkman of the Harris Trust and Savings bank; W. C. Dannenberg, head of the detective agency employed by Mrs. McCormick; Earl and John E. Dannenberg; John Nering, city superintendent of the Western Union Telegraph company; A. Wunderlich, local manager for the Postal Telegraph; George Herda, Alice Klaver and Edward Altz.

A ticket for "the Liberty party" was filed yesterday with the secretary of state at Springfield. Its candidates, all Chicagoans, are: United States senator, James J. McGrath, 3650 North Lincoln street; state treasurer, Salvatore Corrao, 3138 Elston avenue; superintendent of public instruction, M. C. Travis, 2414 Coyle avenue, and congressmen at large, I. J. Brown, 3649 Sunnyside avenue, and Charles A. Reinhart, 2302 Addison street.

MONTREAL, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Erroll Boyd, a Canadian, and Harry P. O'Connor, a former officer in the United States navy, prepared tonight to take off at dawn for Harbor Grace, N. F., there to leave as soon as weather permits on a flight to London.

Their ship is the monoplane Columbia in which Clarence Chamberlin flew its owner, Charles A. Levine, to Germany in 1927. It has begun two other Atlantic flights. Roger Q. Williams started for Rome in it, but the flight was only the length of Roosevelt field, New York, the plane crashing and breaking a wing on the takeoff. Miss Mabel Boll got as far as Newfoundland on her way to Europe, but abandoned the flight when Miss Amelia Earhart got away first.

As she came in she passed the royal navy's representative at the races, the Heliotrope, classed as a flyer sloop. The sailors lined the rail of the warship and cheered and Shamrock's crew cheered back.

With both contestants tied up for the night, the thing uppermost in the minds not only of crews but of the spectators who picked the first day or days to view the spectacle ahead, was what the morrow will bring forth in the way of weather. The sou'wester had been cavorting three days and seemed to have about blown itself out. A switch of the breeze to easterly was the general guess. Also it felt at times like rain, but no one wanted to think about that.

Hope for Breeze.

The crews scratched masts, hoping to scrape up a breeze. They don't want to start the series with a drifting match in which there would not be any measurement of the speed of the boats.

For their first meeting it will be a windward and leeward, or leeward and windward, contest of thirty miles, and the start is scheduled for 11:40 a. m. Enterprise is favorite at odds of 2 to 1.

Waiting for that hour to come, this city of twenty-odd thousand with its navy and army bases, its old downtown section along the waterfront, mansions on its rock bound shore front, and no main street, is in a state of gayety it never reached before. In the harbor, ashore, and overhead are the evidences of an inpouring of visitors on every hand.

Bay and Streets Crowded.

The bay is filled with yachts and boats of every description, with hailing ports from Nova Scotia to Savannah. The narrow streets are all but choked with automobiles. The sidewalks so crowded one has to tack about at times to navigate them. Down from above comes the roar from blimps and airplanes.

Several thousand persons of social prominence were housed today aboard vessels in Newport harbor. Including the crews, the floating population was conservatively figured at about 5,000.

While general activities for a strenuous and gay week-end for the entertainment of the yacht race guests were in progress among the colonists, the New York Yacht club acted as a clearing house for the arrival and departure of social notables.

Among the Spectators.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron Taylor arrived from New York during the day on the Falcon, having Mr. and Mrs. A. Stewart Walker as their guests.

Arriving from the Larchmont Yacht club was the Poinsettia, chartered by Shelton A. Wood and Albert Wood of Detroit. The guests on board were Mrs. J. Remsen Bishop of White Plains, N. Y.; the Misses Mildred R. and Anstiss B. Bishop and Dr. Jerome P. Webster.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Runyon and Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Runyon Jr. arrived on the Osprey III. On the big white yacht Alondra, Mr. and Mrs. A. Atwater Kent arrived with a party on board including Mr. and Mrs. A. Atwater Kent Jr., Miss Virginia T. Kent, and Miss Elizabeth B. Kent.

Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr. arrived in Newport at 4 p. m. after a transcontinental motor trip from British Columbia. Mrs. Vanderbilt joined him in Chicago and they proceeded to Newport.

Gerard B. Swope and Mrs. Swope will view the races from the Parthenia, the R. C. A. radio press yacht, at present moored in the harbor. Others on board included Arthur A. Isbell and William Winterbottom.

TEXTILE UNION ASKS 6 HR. DAY, DRY LAW REPEAL

New York, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Repeal of the eighteenth amendment and adoption of the six hour day and the five day week were advocated as steps to relieve unemployment in resolutions adopted today by a unanimous vote by the United Textile Workers of America.

Speakers in favor of the repeal resolution contended repeal would give 100,000 men employment in breweries and would "directly or indirectly afford employment to two million workers."

The resolution approving "in principle" the thirty hour week as a means of giving employment to more workers was adopted without debate.

A campaign to organize silk mill workers in Pennsylvania was authorized by the delegates after speakers had denounced working conditions in Allentown, Pa., as "a menace to the entire industry."

LIVINGSTON LEADS 18 PLANES INTO WAUSAU ON RELIABILITY TOUR

Wausau, Wis., Sept. 12.—(AP)—Led by John Livingston, last year's winner, 18 airplanes in the national reliability air tour grounded at the Wausau airport this afternoon for an overnight stop before taking off for Eau Claire, Wis.

Livingston completed the 230 mile leg from Davenport, Ia., in an hour and 30 minutes, and was followed in by Art Davis and Wesley Smith.

Two crackups marked landings at Davenport today. An airplane piloted by Lee Schoenhair, assistant tour scorer, nosed over, damaging wings and propeller, and another piloted by Walter Leese crashed when its brakes locked. No one was hurt.

Mrs. Frank Hawks, wife of the transcontinental speed record holder, was in Schoenhair's airplane and Capt. Ray Collins, manager of the tour, was a passenger with Leese. Schoenhair, Mrs. Hawks, and Collins continued in other airplanes. Leese remained in Davenport for repairs to his plane.

ATLANTA SUES U. S. FOR 110,000 MORE CITIZENS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12.—[Special.]—The city of Atlanta, Ga., today asked the District Supreme court to compel Director of the Census W. M. Steuart to publish the population figure of that city as 360,692 instead of 270,367.

According to the petition, the figure, as published in official bulletins, represents only the population of the city proper. The petitioners contend that under the act incorporating Atlanta six adjoining communities were incorporated into a municipality to be known as Atlanta.

Three leading newspapers of the city, as well as several business firms and prominent citizens, were named in the petition as co-plaintiffs.

Justice Frederick L. Siddons ordered Mr. Steuart to show cause on or before Sept. 19 why the writ should not be issued.

BRITISH M. P. VISITS CITY; URGES AMITY

Friendly relations were pointed out yesterday as a continued necessity between England and the United States by George Dallas, member of the British parliament and a Labor party leader, as he stopped in Chicago for one day while on a tour of the United States.

Mr. Dallas has been sizing up agriculture and other economic conditions in this country. He said he considered England in a better agricultural condition than the United States. He also commented on the American tariff, asserting it offered a menace to American farmers if placed any higher because Englishmen are being forced to stop buying American wheat.

Mrs. McLean told friends at the lodge that she did not want the divorce but that her husband had insisted on it, saying he was in love with another woman.

ADMIRAL HUGHES TO RETIRE EARLY AS NAVAL CHIEF

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12.—[Special.]—Admiral Charles F. Hughes, chief of naval operations, and one of the most bitter opponents of the London naval treaty, will retire for age on Sept. 18, six weeks in advance of the date originally fixed for his retirement, it was announced by the navy department today.

No explanation was advanced for the hasty retirement of the veteran admiral. According to reports current in Washington tonight Admiral Hughes moved his date of retirement forward partly as a protest against the provisions of the London naval treaty, which he thought would not work to the best interests of national defense, and partly in the belief that his departure would hasten action on the new naval building program.

May Speed Ship Building.

Friends of Admiral Hughes said tonight that the admiral felt that inasmuch as adjustments would have to be made in the navy to make it conform to the London treaty, it would be better for all concerned if he retired and permitted Admiral William V. Pratt, a staunch upholder of the treaty, to become chief of naval operations, at once, rather than on Nov. 1, when he would normally take that position. The admiral felt, it was said, that Admiral Pratt, as a supporter of the administration's naval treaty, could accomplish more for the navy at the White House at this time than could any member of the group that opposed the pact.

Admiral Hughes will be 64 years old on Oct. 14. During his term of service he commanded the United States fleet, the battle fleet, and before that a division of battleships. Admiral Hughes suffered a stroke a few months ago and this has played a part in his decision to retire.

Work on Bill Under Way.

Naval officials said tonight that arrival of Admiral Pratt in Washington six weeks in advance of the original date will make it possible for the navy to complete its naval building program several weeks before congress convenes. Preliminary work on the half billion dollar bill is now under way, but no meetings of the board to take final action had been planned before the arrival of Admiral Pratt.

As chief of naval operations, Admiral Pratt will be chairman of the general board, the body which is charged with the responsibility of preparing the naval building program, approving new designs for ships and outlining naval policy for recommendation to the secretary of the navy.

Hoover's Views Unknown.

With the arrival of Admiral Pratt it is expected that President Hoover will take up active consideration of the naval building program. Thus far the President has given no hint as to whether he favors building the navy up to the treaty limits, as advocated by navy officers, or of following a policy of delay in warship replacements. According to friends of Admiral Pratt that naval officer will favor recommending passage of legislation permitting the navy to build all ships permitted under the naval treaty, a program that over a period of from five to ten years will cost close to a billion dollars.

DEATH OF SON OF BANKER PUZZLES DOCTORS, POLICE

Victim College Athlete —Friends Held.

Chestertown, Md., Sept. 12.—[Special.]—Joseph Hurley Mallon Jr., 23 year old son of a Philadelphia banker, died from a fracture of the skull and other injuries suffered in an undetermined manner early today at the Chestertown estate of Dr. William L. Clark, Philadelphia surgeon.

Mallon, a graduate of Georgetown university, Washington, and a track star, was found unconscious at the foot of a windmill on the grounds of the Clark estate by Robert and Edward Clark, 12 and 14 years old, respectively, sons of the physician, who had heard his groans.

The injured youth was taken to the Chestertown office of Dr. C. P. Copeland, who ordered him rushed to the Easton hospital, but he died in the ambulance.

Involved in Mystery.

Mallon was the son of Joseph H. Mallon, real estate trust officer of the Continental Equitable Title and Trust company, Philadelphia. He had been spending a vacation here with three friends, David M. Clark, son of the physician, whose home is in Germantown; Joseph T. Hayden Jr. of Germantown, crew coach at La Salle Preparatory school, and John Cooney, also of Germantown.

Complete mystery surrounds the case. Sheriff Thomas J. Faulkner of Easton immediately took charge of an investigation and questioned Mallon's three companions at length. The three were later brought back to Chestertown to await the coroner's inquest.

Cooney said that he was awakened about 2:30 this morning by David Clark and Hayden and they told him Mallon was hurt and that he had been found unconscious on a brick walk between a fifty foot water tower and a bungalow.

The young man expressed the belief to the police that Mallon had fallen from a windmill on top of the water tower, but he or his companions could not explain why he should attempt to climb the tower.

Father Is Prominent.

According to Dr. Copeland, Mallon suffered a fractured skull, a fractured jaw, and severe cuts and bruises. Late in the day Dr. Harry L. Dodd, Kent county coroner, and State's Attorney Stephen R. Collins made an examination of the body and questioned Hayden and Clark.

David M. Clark Sr., at whose country home the young men had been staying since Wednesday, is the founder of the Clark hospital, 2215 Walnut street, Philadelphia, and is the inventor of the electro-surgical knife.

Mallon was graduated from Georgetown last June and Clark was graduated from the same school in 1929.

POLICE "FIND" CRATER, BUT IT'S THE WRONG MAN

So Grand Jury Will Take Up Mystery.

New York, Sept. 12.—[Special.]—What seemed to be the first definite clew to the whereabouts of Supreme Court Justice Joseph F. Crater collapsed today. District Attorney Crain announced that beginning Monday the grand jury will begin an investigation into the disappearance of the jurist, who has been missing since Aug. 6.

The clew developed tonight was based on a case of mistaken identity. A report came through to Police Commissioner Mulrooney that Justice Crater had been seen at the Hotel Altamont, at Tupper lake in the Adirondacks; that he had registered at the hotel last Wednesday with another man and had left Thursday. Several hotel employés were positive that the guest was Crater. The man identified as the justice had confided that he and his companion were going on to the Hotel Seneca in Geneva, New York.

The bubble broke tonight when it was learned that the man "identified" as Justice Crater was in reality William Perrin, a well known business man of Buffalo, N. Y., and that his companion was Thomas Henderson, an executive of the Hotel Statler in Buffalo. The two men had been on a vacation tour in Montreal and then had come down through the Adirondacks, doubling back on the trail toward home. Mr. Henderson was inspecting some of the Statler hotels in the mountain region.

Commissioner Mulrooney tonight confirmed information that the last time Justice Crater was seen in New York on the eve of his disappearance Aug. 6 was after he left Haas' restaurant in 46th street, west of Broadway, and as he was stepping into a taxicab.

FRENCH FLYERS TO BE GUESTS AT CHICAGO DINNER

Chicago's gesture of appreciation for the feat of the French flyers, Capt. Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, will be extensive but informal, it was announced yesterday by the Association of Commerce. The main function on their program when they arrive next Thursday will be a dinner in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Sherman.

The French trans-Atlantic airmen will fly to Chicago from Detroit, with stops at Lansing, Joliet, and Elgin. They will be met in Chicago by a reception committee headed by Earle Reynolds, chairman, and George B. Foster, vice chairman of the Association of Commerce aviation committee.

The dinner at the Hotel Sherman will be informal, according to Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Association of Commerce.

The French aviators will be greeted by members of eighteen French societies in Chicago, all of which will be represented at a meeting at noon today at the French consulate in the Tribune tower. Arthur Allais is chairman of the committee.

Bad Weather Over Sea Delays Hop for Europe

Roosevelt Field, L. I., Sept. 12.—[Special.]—With bad weather over the ocean, and a storm kicking up on his course between New York and Newfoundland, Capt. Roy W. Ammel announced today that he could see no possibility of a takeoff on his trans-Atlantic flight before Sunday. Capt. Ammel took his Lockheed, which has been christened "The Blue Flash," up for a trial flight. When he landed he said that the engine and instruments were in perfect shape.

Tuned to "First Gentleman of Europe."

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The Edwardians," by V. Sackville West. [Doubleday Doran.]

Occasionally a novel appears which is, of its type, a perfect thing.

It may be a novel of gayety, of fluffy but satiric charm [like "Peter Whiffle" for instance]. It may be a novel of half-metaphysical beauty [like "The Memoirs of a Midget"].

It may be a novel of the sheer rootedness of a character in life [like "My Antonia"]. Or it may be a novel of manners [like "Vanity Fair"].

It is a rare thing to find such a novel and the world should give itself over to huzzahs whenever one appears. There should be much of that voicing of appreciation over "The Edwardians." It is a perfect novel of manners, plus a certain keen and brilliant satire. It is the "Vanity Fair" of that time when England was reacting from the moral whalebones of the Victorian era and had not for the good of its figgah got into the confines of the woven rubber step-in of the Georgian.

It is of the very tip-top of the social life of the England of King Edward VII. that Miss Sackville West writes, of enormous manor houses, of small dinners at which the king had to be amused, of week-end parties of thirty rattling around under seven miles of roof. Her own ancestral home, Knole, is the Chevron of the book, the country place so self-contained that all of its life was born and lived and died beneath its roof, and Chevron is as much a character in "The Edwardians" as any of its human occupants. It is, in fact, the only real and constant life which its hero ever had, and it rivaled, and successfully, any woman who came into his life.

It is with the most beautiful of understanding that the author writes of that house and its hold upon its owner, and yet with a certain detached mockery, for the young Sebastian lived in a day when the first rumblings of the world against its physical possessions was being heard. Sebastian, although he lived for his ancestral estate, although he was a perfect example of the most perfect code of his age, always was torn between himself as the lord of the manor and himself as a human being.

"The Edwardians" is a delicately, exquisitely set down record of a social group where week-end guests were disposed in bedrooms which made intercommunication between lovers as simple as possible, where an affair between a married woman and a young man was accepted as salutary for both as long as discretion was observed, where the only crime was the crime of being a public scandal.

There is no line in it which could ruffle the most delicate sensibilities of the reader and yet the facts which the author chronicles so deftly would make a shocker out of another tale. It is done with the most perfect art. It is needless to add that the book is a sheer delight.

There have been three books now of the first water born out of Knole, this one, a book about Knole itself by the same author, which is as charming a volume as one might ask for, "Knole of the Sackvilles," and Virginia Woolf's "Orlando," of which Miss Sackville West is said to have been the hero-heroine. All of them are things of beauty, and perhaps one at least of them will be a joy forever.

Here's Chance to Write Prize Play for Amateurs

The Penn Publishing company announces a $5,000 prize play contest for an original play manuscript suitable for amateur production. There will be five prizes ranging from $2,500 to $250.

The plays must have three acts and the time of playing must be not less than two nor more than three hours. Comedies, melodramas or serious plays are eligible, they say, "but no tragedies."

The contest closes on Dec. 31 of this year. The judges will be Edward W. Mumford, secretary to the trustees of the University of Pennsylvania; Sidney Williams, literary editor of the Philadelphia Inquirer, and Dora A. Shoemaker, principal of the National School of Elocution and Oratory.

Manuscripts should be addressed to the Prize Contest Editor, care Play Department, Penn Publishing company, 925 Filbert street, Philadelphia, Pa.

If You Don't Like This Book, Your Money Back

The latest barrage in the book price war is the sporting offer which is made by Henry Holt & Co. with every copy of "Pied Piper" by Daphne Muir. "Pied Piper" is a tragic, mystic, memorable picture of the Children's Crusade as background and a colorful love story as foreground.

It has received unstinted praise in England and so sure are the American publishers of its popularity that they "guarantee" the reader's satisfaction in it by offering to refund the purchase price to any reader who has not found it to his or her satisfaction.

All he has to do is take the book back to the place he bought it and get back his $2.50, letting his conscience, of course, be his guide.

FOCH MEMOIRS IN ENGLISH OUT NEXT YEAR, IT'S ANNOUNCED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 12.—The publication of final world war memoirs by allied commanders, with the exception of those of Gen. John J. Pershing, definitely has been set for Jan. 23, 1931, when Doubleday, Doran & Co. will issue Marshal Foch's revised book, it was announced today.

The English rights provide a 172,000 word volume translation by Col. Bently Mott, former military attaché at the American embassy here. An unimpassioned narrative of Marshal Foch's differences with Gen. Pershing will be set forth as well as similar disputes between the marshal and Field Marshal Douglas Haig, as well as verbal battles with the late Georges Clemenceau.

Friends of Gen. Pershing, who recently sailed after devoting six months to an intensive writing and revising of his memoirs, assert they will be ready for publication early in 1931.

HON. PIERCE BUTLER, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, says:

"Herbert S. Duffy's biography of William Howard Taft shows that its preparation involved much diligence and painstaking effort. By simple narration of the most notable work of that uniquely eminent man he discloses the exemplary qualities of mind and soul that inspired confidence everywhere and so endeared him to all the people."

Story of China's Yankee Saint Full of Battle

For Ward of Salem Taught Troops Victory.

BY ALTA MAY COLEMAN.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—"Next best to being an adventurer is tracking down the career of one," says Holger Cahill regarding the several years of research, which he embodies in his book, "A Yankee Adventurer." This biography of Frederick Townsend Ward adds a well nigh forgotten figure to our Americana and gives a new thrill to those who become soldiers of fortune through the magic of the printed page.

Ward, who was born in Salem, Mass., in the era of clipper ships, renounced his heritage of romance on the high seas for that of military adventure. He mixed up in various foreign wars and finally turned his attention to China at the time of the Taiping rebellion. There he captured cities at a flat rate of $45,000 per capital; ultimately won a high command in the Chinese army, which he reorganized along western military lines, and married a mandarin's daughter.

At his death, mourned by the whole nation, except the Taipings, of course, he was made a Confucian saint with a gorgeous temple erected in his honor.

Mr. Cahill's first novel, you may remember, was "Profane Earth." His next will be a modern picaresque tale. He has a special sympathy with wanderers. One of his biographies concerned Pop Hart, who put Cairo, Ill., on the map as the birthplace of a fine American artist.

Mr. Cahill divides his time between literature and art. He is on the staff of the Independent Artists and the Newark Art Museum. It was a Chinese exhibition in 1924 that first set him reading Chinese history and led to his acquaintance with the Yankee Chinese saint, Ward. A youngish man with clear blue eyes and pleasant features is Cahill, a hint of gray in his dark hair, a conventional little mustache and unconventional sideburns. His adventurous spirit is given rein in a blue batik tie.

Born in Iceland, he was introduced to America at the age of 6 months. But he speaks and reads Icelandic, learning this noble language from his mother. He's done considerable gypsying about the earth, and during his school vacations from Columbia and New York universities traveled the United States à la box car.

The publication of Helena Rubinstein's "The Art of Feminine Beauty" was marked by a very lavish tea on Thursday given in the author's modernistic duplex overlooking Central park. The book contains 286 pages of expert practical advice.

Dynamic is the word that best describes Mme. Rubinstein. She gives the immediate impression of unflagging energy. Later you note her charming frock of sea green chiffon, her long pendant earrings, her armload of bracelets, and her fine complexion, which proves she practices what she preaches.

Swinnerton Tells How E. V. Lucas Fashioned Career

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON. — [Special Correspondence.] — Since the much regretted death of W. J. Locke many new anecdotes concerning him have been in circulation in London. One of the most amusing of these is that told by a clergyman who was associated with Locke for a couple of years as a schoolmaster, in the days before the novelist had begun his career. He relates that when they parted he and Locke agreed to give one another a book apiece, as a memento. Locke's choice was a Bible—because he had never possessed one!

E. V. LUCAS.

E. V. Lucas, whose new novel, "Down the Sky," is just published here, has been interviewed. He is one of the few men who have been equally successful as both author and publisher. He began as a poet, in 1888, when some verses he had written were published in that London evening newspaper, the Globe [now dead]; and a little later he worked on the staff of that paper, which gave a start to several men now eminent. Later he published a book of verse, wrote a life of the Quaker poet, Bernard Barton, who is chiefly known nowadays as the friend of Charles Lamb, and so began his long literary connection with Lamb and his friends, which has been so productive of profit and pleasure to all who love Charles Lamb.

Later Mr. Lucas became a reader for a publisher. At length he went to the London publishing house of Methuen & Co. He is now managing director of that firm.

Some famous books, left uncompleted by their authors, have been finished by other hands. R. L. Stevenson's "St. Ives" is a case in point; for that was finished by Sir Arthur Quiller-Couch.

Now it appears that the late Annie Haynes, who was well known as a practiced writer of mystery stories, left her last book uncompleted, and it was finished by another mystery writer whose name is not divulged. A competition has been set, and entrants are to place the join in "The Crystal Beads Murder."

This reminds me to say that the most ingenious murder mystery novel that has been published here for many months is one called "The Documents in the Case," in which Miss Dorothy Sayers and Robert Eustace have collaborated. Mr. Eustace is a doctor and has a rare knowledge of poisons.

AMONG THE NEW BOOKS

BY THE LITERARY EDITOR.

FICTION.

A Note in Music by Rosamond Lehmann [Holt] is the second subtle novel by the author of "Dusty Answer," a tale of the thwarted quest of happiness.

The Song Avenger by Sigrid Undset [Knopf] is the concluding volume of her heroic tetralogy of medieval days, "The Master of Hestviken." Mme. Undset was awarded the Nobel prize for literature in 1928.

The Big Barn by Walter D. Edmonds [Little-Brown] is a story of the canal valleys of New York eighty years ago, by the author of "Rome Haul."

End of Roaming by Alexander Laing [Farrar & Rinehart] is a first novel of power—the record of the conflict of the creative mind, the scientific mind, and the mind of the adventurer.

The Good Sir John by Phoebe Fenwick Gaye [Liveright] is a swashbuckling, stirring tale of roistering Sir John Falstaff by the author of "Vivandiere."

The Silence of Col. Bramble by André Maurois [Appleton] is the delightful first novel from that famous pen—in a new edition with an introduction by Brand Whitlock.

Black Soil by Josephine Donovan [Stratford], a story of a community in Iowa, was the winner of the $2,000 prize novel contest conducted by the publisher and Extension magazine.

The Mirror of Kong Ho by Ernest Bramah [Doubleday-Doran] is another of those wholly delightful Chinese tapestries.

The Dance of Youth by Hermann Sudermann [Liveright] is a masterful, poignant tale of youth and love—the choice of the Book League of America.

Poor Faun by Charlotte Arthur [Putnam] is about a charming but wholly unreliable creature and his loves, in and out of marriage.

SHORT STORIES.

Tales from the Argentine, edited by Waldo Frank [Farrar & Rinehart], a collection of vivid stories with an exciting and informative introduction by the editor.

Shrimps for Tea by Josephine Blumenfeld [Doubleday-Doran], the first volume of what every one thinks is sure to be a distinguished career.

MYSTERY.

The Case of Anne Bickerton, by S. Fowler Wright [A. & C. Boni], is the unraveling of a mystery in the courtroom by the author of "The Deluge."

The Complete Sherlock Holmes; nine complete volumes of the famous Conan Doyle stories printed in two.

Private Life by Paul Selver [Harpers], a mystery of the mind as well as of a murder.

Daggers Drawn by Alan Thomas [Brewer & Warren] tells what happens when two very unlike people are forced into friendship.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

Morgan the Magnificent, by John K. Winkler [Vanguard], is the life story of Pierpont the First.

Taft and Roosevelt [Doubleday-Doran] is a shrewd estimate of two great Presidents through the intimate letters of Archie Butt, military aide.

Three Titans by Emil Ludwig [Putnam] contains the shortish biographies of Michaelangelo, Rembrandt, and Beethoven.

Edison as I Know Him by Henry Ford [Cosmopolitan] is a hundred-odd pages of appreciation.

Baber, First of the Moguls by Fernand Grenard [McBride] is a biography of Aladdinlike events.

NONFICTION.

The Real War, by Capt. B. H. Liddell Hart [Little Brown] is a brilliant history of the late war.

The Realm of Matter, by George Santayana [Scribners] is the second volume of the important "The Realms of Being," a colossal work by our foremost epicurean philosopher.

A Writer's Notes on His Trade, by C. E. Montague [Doubleday Doran] are literary essays by one of the really great writers of his generation.

L'Amour, or the Art of Love," by Paul Geraldy [Dutton] is little, but O my!

ABOUT PLACES.

The Perfumed Tigers, by Maurice Dekobra [Brewer & Warren] is a snappy travel book about India by the author of "The Madonna of the Sleeping Cars."

JOHN BUCHAN
"A TREAT FOR THE FASTIDIOUS adventure fan in general and the army of Buchan followers in particular. 'Castle Gay' is adventure in the true Stevensonian tradition, an exciting and amusing tale of high-hearted doings in the glen of Callona. Moreover, it contains three favorite Buchan characters last met in 'Huntingtower'."—New York Herald Tribune.
CASTLE GAY
"AS NEAT A PATTERN OF HIDE-and-seek over the Scottish moorlands, of plot and counter-plot, of swift thinking and swifter action, of humorous situations and desperate shifts, as Colonel Buchan has ever contrived. CITIZENSHIP IN ARMS.

The appointment of Col. A. A. Sprague as executive chairman of the citizens' committee on crime prevention could not be bettered. Col. Sprague's courage and public spirit are well proved and he will not only bring his energy and ability to the momentous task of the committee but inspire new confidence in the eventual success of its effort.

There has not been such substantial reason for optimism as we have now since the existing conditions of organized criminality began to develop in Chicago. All that has been needed to cope with it was a counter organization of good citizenship, and that has arrived. Public opinion has crystallized and public knowledge of the nature of the evils which afflict the community has grown until intelligent support for civic leadership is assured. At the same time police and prosecuting authorities and the judiciary must be conscious of an imperative public demand for initiative and vigor in the administration of justice and encouraged to the energetic use of their powers. The war on crime has entered a new stage and we do not think there can be any doubt that it will make rapid progress to victory.

A QUESTIONABLE PROCEEDING.

Municipal Judge Alfred O. Erickson was roused from his bed after midnight Tuesday to approve bail for two men held for vagrancy by Judge Lyle, who had fixed the bail at $20,000. Judge Erickson overruled Judge Lyle, though he is of the same court, and fixed the bail at $100. Then he approved a bond which, the following day, was found to be fraudulent.

The making of a fraudulent bail bond we assume is a criminal offense and in this case will doubtless be promptly and vigorously prosecuted. Meanwhile citizens will wonder why any judge considers it his duty to pass upon the validity of an application for bail in the middle of the night, without consultation with the prosecuting authorities who brought the charge or the judge who fixed the bail, and apparently without any proof that the application could not safely wait a few hours until the judge could fully inform himself of the validity of the bond offered and of all the circumstances of the case.

The individuals granted bail in this case are of notorious reputation. So is their bondsman. All the circumstances of the application for bail suggested caution and investigation. Instead there was complaisant acceptance and haste.

The incident in its most favorable interpretation suggests a deplorable and dangerous slackness in our local administration of the law. Crime is ever alert, resourceful, and unscrupulous. Justice is often half asleep and often betrayed. The time is overdue for a drastic overhauling of our judicial defenses.

PRIMOGENITURE IN INDUSTRY.

Mr. J. Leonard Replogle has made a study of the British steel industry, excerpts from which were published recently in THE TRIBUNE. Mr. Replogle was director of steel supply for our war industries board. He was requested to visit the British mills with a view to analyzing the causes of their decline and to suggest remedies. He went at the invitation of British steel operators and what he told them must not have been altogether pleasant to hear.

British industry has commonly regulated the descent of leadership in much the same way that the British aristocracy has regulated the inheritance of titles of nobility and landed estates, which is to say by primogeniture. The system has not failed signally with respect to land because changes in the methods of administration of farms and forests have been relatively slow and inheritance by the eldest son has served, at least, to keep properties together.

Industry in England was and in a considerable measure still is a lower class calling, but as men from the lower orders have become wealthy they have frequently been admitted to the aristocracy. If not admitted they have at least learned to ape their social betters. Thus control and management of steel mills, textile mills and other enterprises have been handed down from one eldest son to his eldest son in a society which for generations has been schooled to believe that trade is demeaning and that the principal task of an eldest son is to conserve the property which he has received from his father so that his son might, in turn, receive it unchanged.

An essential to success in industry is constant experimentation toward the improvement of processes and products. Industry must abhor conservatism in the exact sense of that world, for industrial success is achieved only by a continual substitution of new machinery and business methods for old. An industry which is stagnant is doomed to failure. An industry which will not buy new machinery until the old is past repair cannot meet competition from more progressive management, and nothing short of an entire change of outlook can save it.

As Mr. Replogle told his English friends, "family management makes for inefficiency and destroys the ambition and incentive of the worker in the ranks and more particularly results in lack of initiative and ultra-conservatism in failing to keep abreast of the times in the installation of efficiency manufacturing methods and in persistence in regarding obsolete plants as assets when in reality they are liabilities."

The difference in outlook which distinguishes Americans from Englishmen in industry is only another evidence that the American revolution was something more than a political uprising. Americans say and believe that there is no inherited right to leadership in government, politics or business. Englishmen seem never, in their heart, to have questioned inheritance leadership in any of these fields. The proof of it is found not only in such studies as Mr. Replogle has made but in the eagerness with which almost any man who has made his mark in business in England seeks to secure his position through entering the peerage. If England succumbs to the doctrine advocated by Mr. Replogle, England will have undergone a revolution.

JUST ANOTHER TAX.

The Cook county conventions of both the Republican and Democratic parties have passed resolutions opposing the tax amendment which the voters of Illinois will pass upon in November. The proposed amendment to the state constitution is intended to authorize an income tax in the state.

The amendment was primarily a downstate enterprise. Cook county recognizes that real estate bears a disproportionate share of the costs of state and local government, but Cook county has no reason to believe that the amendment would give any relief. An income tax, there is reason to fear, would be just another tax. Under it real estate taxes would remain and owners of real estate would be assessed additionally on their incomes.

The amendment itself imposes no income tax, to be sure. It merely authorizes the legislature to impose one. Ninety per cent of the collections from the federal income tax in Illinois come from the Chicago area. More than half the population of Illinois lives in Cook county. The constitution of the state requires that the legislature be reapportioned after each census, but Illinois has not been reapportioned since 1901, and Cook county today has only a third of the seats in the legislature. If the tax amendment is approved by the voters it will enable the downstate members to turn their oath breaking to profit at the expense of wage and salary earners in Cook county.

An amendment which is so devised will attract few votes in Cook county or in any other urban center in the state. Real estate taxes in Cook county are as oppressive as they are anywhere in the state, but only the most shortsighted of real estate owners will vote for a constitutional amendment which in reality promises only additional taxation.

SLOW AMERICA.

Successful as the air races in Chicago were, it is disappointing that no ship traveled more than 200 miles an hour. A year ago the English were making 357 miles an hour, and even faster traveling is probably now possible. Slow as old Europe is supposed to be, it may be a wholesome thought for many Americans to consider her actual speed. In the air Europe is much faster than the United States. Her railroad trains are faster than ours. Her ships are faster. Her automobiles now hold the speed record. Europe in most forms of transportation far outspeeds ours, and with a safety and comfort nowhere surpassed.

Meanwhile America plugs along. In some transportation agencies the United States is capable of huge production and mass carrying, but it is mediocre transportation; the brilliant speeds in air, on land, and across the sea are reached by other folks. In the air this is particularly inexcusable.

The aviation companies and the government should take steps to put America in the air procession. Funds for research and experiment should be made available for this purpose. Speed should be subsidized or given bonuses and new ideas given a trial. America can ill afford to become merely a manufacturing agent and consumer for other folks' ideas. Without experiment and brilliance, without originality, the nation soon will find itself impoverished. The ability is here. It needs encouragement.

Editorial of the Day

A LOW JOB BUNGLED.
[New York Sun.]

The new fashion in senatorial investigations as followed in Illinois has its piquancies, but these are scarcely calculated to stir national enthusiasm for the methods adopted by Senator Nye's committee. There will be widespread interest in knowing what, if anything, the senator's private detectives have learned about Mrs. McCormick and what Mrs. McCormick's private detectives have learned about Senator Nye's private detectives. There will be even greater interest in knowing when and where this form of mischief making is going to stop.

Mysterious women hiding as spies in the boudoir closet of a prospective United States senator somehow do not fit gracefully into the picture of an American electoral campaign. Unauthorized rifling of private correspondence in pursuit of data about campaign expenditures is far more likely to provoke popular indignation than to disclose information admissible as evidence in any court.

Snooping is an unedifying trade, even though it may sometimes be necessary in the contest between policemen and criminals. But the senate of the United States is not in the police business; it cannot go into it even by proxy without endangering its own dignity. If the senate's agents do not display reasonable dexterity and efficiency, indulgence in keyhole spying cannot be defended even by those whose sense of discrimination does not instantly reject it. But to bungle a low job after having undertaken to perform it is only to court ridicule as well as resentment. If spies must be hidden in closets, if private files must be ransacked there must be blackguards who can explain to senators how these things may successfully be brought off.

Unless Illinois voters possess unique tempers the person who stands to lose most by the investigating committee's ineptitude in Illinois is Mrs. McCormick's rival for election as senator.

NOT AN EXCLUSIVE CLUB.

DR. J. B. HAWES JR. proposes a new organization, the D. F. club. Since this is a conservative family newspaper, it is not proper to say what D. F. stands for. Dr. Hawes offers to be the first member of the organization, and to supply its first requirement.

When a young ambitious man he was constantly overworked and habitually fatigued. He would round out a hard day's work by a few games of squash. He noted that he had an infection of some sort most of the time—a cold, a sinusitis, boils, or something else. He consulted a wise old friend and a frank one. This old friend supplied him with the name of his proposed club. He told him that a fatigued, tired man needs rest and not squash. Following the advice removed Dr. Hawes from the clan of Job and supplied him with the first plank in the platform of his club. It is: If thou playest hard games when fatigued, thou art eligible to the D. F. club. People who do this are called the exercise extremists. There are other ways of qualifying as an exercise extremist.

Another qualification is to be a cold air enthusiast. Among these are the tender people who try to sleep out when the temperature is 40 below zero. Another variety is composed of the cold water cranks—the people who go in swimming in midwinter. Those who break the ice to swim Dr. Hawes designates as mildly insane.

Another group and a large one is that of the diet faddists. In this group are those who eat too much, those who eat in a hurry, and those who carry business to the table. Worthier of the name food faddists are those who go "nutty" about combinations of foods and bizarre diets of one sort or another. This qualification very greatly increases the potential membership of the D. F. club.

Still another qualification is the worrying habit—crossing tomorrow's bridges today, and even crossing bridges that do not exist and never will. Dr. Hawes develops just one detail under this head; it relates to buying on credit—installment plan buying.

Dr. Hawes says further that a seasoned man with great capacity to endure cold may sleep in zero air or swim in icy water with safety or even advantage, but that many who try to follow that example without being trained for it are just plain eligibles for the D. F. club—whatever that is.

TREATING TRENCH MOUTH.

H. F. writes:

1. I am troubled with trench mouth. Is it serious?
2. What is the remedy?
3. Does it last long?

REPLY.

1. As a rule, trench mouth is serious though its severity varies greatly.
2. It is prevented by washing the mouth and teeth with a powder, paste, or liquid containing soap. Kissing spreads it. Some cases are cured by the free use of perborate of soda. Many dentists prefer applying a solution of chromic acid followed immediately by peroxide of hydrogen.
3. It may.

MAY BE HAY FEVER.

E. F. writes: What is the cause of strips or threads of mucous membrane on the eye that cause the eye to itch? I am 19 years old, and several times a day I pull these pieces from my eyes.

REPLY.

My guess is that you have hay fever. Occasionally a long shot wins.

POISON IVY TREATMENTS.

A. N. writes: I am about to go on a camping trip soon, and am not acquainted with the first aid treatment for poison ivy victims.

REPLY.

Send 10 cents and a stamped, addressed envelope for "Some First Aid Procedures," No. 14 of the How to Live With Series. The best preventive measure is avoiding the weed. Second in rank is thorough washing of the exposed skin with warm water and soap or with gasoline.

ALL NIGHT PARKING.

Chicago, Sept. 4.—[Friend of the People.]—I had been making an all night trip not long ago and reached home about 5 a. m. I put the car out in front and went in the house and had breakfast before taking the car to the garage. When I came out there was a "ticket" on my car for "all night parking." I was not there all night, but only from 5 a. m. Have the police any right to do such a thing? Mr. A.

The following report has been received from the captain of the Seventh district: "On account of numerous complaints received relative to all night parking it was thought best to make a drive so as to reduce the practice to a minimum. With this object in view officers assigned to the 12 o'clock watch were instructed to issue summonses for violation of the vehicle section (47) of the city code to the owners of all cars found parked between the hours of 2 a. m. and 6 a. m." JOHN H. ALCOCK,
Acting Commissioner of Police.

TRAIN ROBBERY.

Chicago, Sept. 4.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A young lady, while traveling, had a good sized sum of money stolen from out of her purse while asleep in a berth. The purse had been placed under her pillow before retiring and when she awoke the purse was out in the aisle of the car with the money gone. Is there any liability attached to the company on account of this loss? M. E. M.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE-LINE: Thomas Hoyne, my grandfather, was recently mentioned in an interesting sketch in the Wake which contained the minor inaccuracy that he was married in 1842 (1840 is correct) to Leonora Temple. This really affords me opportunity to say something of my grandmother, whose family came to Chicago in 1833 when she was eight years old, so you see she married at an early age. At that time odd encounters with the Indians were common. In view of the present day discussions of the potability of liquor, one of her girlhood recollections may interest Wake-Line readers.

Her father was a doctor and one day was visited by a delegation of Indian braves who insisted that his bottles of drugs contained liquor, and demanded drinks. As he could not convince them otherwise by argument, Dr. Temple took from the shelf a bottle of ammonia. Each Indian in turn took a swig without batting an eye and passed the bottle to the next. When they all had their tipple they quietly departed without a word. Naturally he was not further annoyed with like requests.

TEMPLE WILLIAMS.

Cole's block, in 1872, was located at the southwest corner of Madison and Halsted streets. On the upper floors were the Coburn Medical institute for the treatment of chronic and special diseases and the offices of D. Cole & Sons, real estate, owners of the building. In the basement Sleeper & Wilkinson, painters, and Low & Toms, ornamental plasterers, had space. Occupants of the ground floor have been named previously. F. R.

LIFE—AS IT COMES.

I asked of Life all lovely things,
She laughed and turned away.
I sought then what I craved to gain,
But they passed me on the way.

'Twas then I turned to laugh through Life.
I knew I'd asked a lot,
Too much for her to grant—and so
My futile quest forgot.

But now that I am full content
With such as comes my way,
Life heaps into my careless hands
Some lovely thing each day.

JUNE R. THOMAS.

SO POSTMASTER GENERAL BROWN wants congress to enact legislation charging us one-half cent more postage. Well, it seems hardly exorbitant to pay 2½ cents for collection of a letter in this city, sorting, transportation, and its delivery in San Francisco or other distant point. We'd prefer to pay more postage if it resulted in adequate compensation for underpaid employés of a government service which is really efficient.

What the Wake-Line and, we think, many other small taxpayers object to is being "nicked" for taxes which are not spent for what they are collected for. If a higher postage rate will wipe out the postal deficit and thus result in lower income taxes under some of the classifications, well and good. If it only increases the pot for prevalent legislative spending orgies, that's something else again. The average American of today is mulcted of too large a part of his income by direct and indirect taxation. Although not an economist, that's our opinion of one thing that was the matter with the country in its recent (perhaps present) business depression.

OLD FASHIONED MODESTY.

And then, Harve, did you hear of the old maid with mid-Victorian modesty who refused to enjoy the bathing this summer because she was told there was a life buoy there?

BLANCHE FROM KENOSHA.

This Wake-Line Is Harvey T. Woodruff. Conducted by Help! Help!

A RECENT newspaper article, remarks A Knox Teke, quoted a Columbia university professor as saying that long legs indicates brains. Maybe so, Teke interpolates, but has he noticed some of the boners the stork pulls?

WHEN THE CAT'S AWAY.

Wake-Line: Now that R. H. L. is being exposed in his absence, may I slip some information? While he did "come from" Bloomington, he went to Bloomington from and spent his boyhood days in a much smaller village—namely: Leroy, out in the sticks east of Bloomington. I know because I came from there myself, and old-timers whom I have asked for their early memories of R. H. L. invariably told me that he was the tallest, thinnest, gangliest dirty-handed boy for his age they ever saw and that they, the neighbors, couldn't seem to "fill him up" with cookies, cakes, doughnuts, and gingerbread, for which he made frequent calls. SEPTEMBER MOON.

Diana, long limbed goddess of the moon,
Rode swiftly 'cross the sky;
Those golden drops of liquid light,
The stars, rode by her side.

A light chill maze hung in the air
And foretold summer's end.
The mournful trees had one last fling
Ere nature bade them sleep.

Gone that gentle, lady breeze
That caressed us while we loved.
Our trysting place was cold and still,
As dead as is our love.

But yet Diana, beautiful, serene,
Rides calmly through the sky.
It matters not one bit to her
That earth-bound things must die!

REVENGE IS SWEET WHEN CANNED.

HTW: At Logansport, Ind., a tipsy gentleman swooped down on his mother-in-law's kitchen and as a gesture of dislike proceeded to wreck 212 cans of preserves which she had just finished "putting up." Harve, a guy like that is mean enough to be a prohibition enforcement agent.

CROWDING THE HERO BENCH.

When one of my kids asked if I ever was a great athlete I didn't tell him that once in a football game, with the score 20 to 7 against us, with five minutes to play, I was rushed into the fray and we won 33 to 20. ALL AMERICAN.

OUR ANNUAL TRIBUTE

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 13, 1914.

LONDON.—Five days of incessant fighting have resulted in signal victories for the allies, and the whole German line in France is in retreat, according to messages from the field of action. The right wing of the German army, which had advanced to within a few miles of the walls of Paris, is reported to have fallen back to Braine and Fismes. In the center the Germans have fallen back beyond Sermaize and Revigne, where they abandoned large stores, and in Lorraine the French have advanced, the Germans evacuating St. Die. The allies are closely pursuing the retreating Germans. A Paris dispatch says the French occupied Soissons, department of Aisne, on Sept. 14, and have also reoccupied Luneville.

LONDON.—The fate of the northern Austro-German army, which was badly routed by the Russian forces during the fierce battle of Tomaszow, Russian Poland, remains in doubt. A Rome dispatch says that a message from Petrograd states that the second battle in Galicia resulted even more satisfactorily to the Russians than the first. The losses to the Austrians are estimated at 130,000, of whom 90,000 are prisoners.

WASHINGTON.—Emperor William has had under consideration for several days an informal inquiry from the United States government as to whether Germany desires to discuss terms of peace with its foes. No reply has come as yet, but upon its tenor depends to some extent whether or not the informal peace movement began a week ago can be pursued further with Great Britain, France, and Russia.

TORONTO.—Ninety trainloads of Sikh and Ghoorka soldiers, numbering 30,000, the flower of the native Indian army of Great Britain, have been passing through Toronto and North Bay en route for France. This is merely a vanguard of further troops from India.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 13, 1900.

GALVESTON, Tex.—"I fear Galveston has been destroyed by the storm beyond its ability to recover," is the manner in which Quartermaster Baxter has concluded his report to Washington.

CHICAGO.—Twelve lives lost, a dozen or more vessels wrecked, several passenger steamers battling all night with the storm, and thousands of dollars in loss to shipping—can be laid to the storm on the great lakes Eleven of the crew of sixteen on the John B. Lyon were drowned off Cleveland.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — President Mitchell and Secretary Wilson of the United Mine Workers affixed their signatures to a document which will call 165,000 miners and auxiliaries of the Pennsylvania anthracite coal region out on strike Monday morning.

CAIRO.—The breaking of a car wheel resulted in almost obliterating Duncan Clark's troupe of female minstrels. Their special car was wrecked, nine of the company were killed and four seriously injured.

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 13, 1865.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—It has heretofore been stated that Jeff Davis will be tried before a civil tribunal for treason, probably before the United States court for the eastern district of Virginia. It is a mistake to suppose that Chief Justice Chase has anything to do with the preliminary arrangements any more than he has for the preparation of cases for adjudication before the Supreme court of the United States, nor has he expressed, as has been stated, a desire to try the case against Jeff Davis.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—Lieut. Gen. Grant ended a triumphal day of travel through familiar scenes in Illinois upon his arrival at Springfield last night.

CHICAGO.—The twenty-eighth annual convention of the Episcopal diocese of Illinois will meet at the Church of SS. Peter and Paul, Washington and Peoria streets, today. On Friday a committee will dedicate the new St. Mark's church in Evanston.

CHICAGO.—Plans for improvements to cost about $100,000 in Lincoln and Union parks are being considered by the common council.

THE EMERGENCY NURSE.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—On Aug. 11 you published a letter of mine entitled "Nurses in Reserve," and also very kindly wrote an editorial, "The Emergency Nurse."

I want to thank you for writing this article and assure you of the deep appreciation of all our people out at the Presbyterian hospital for your interest in our behalf. ASA S. BACON,

FREE MUSIC.

Chicago, Sept. 9.—In the Metropolitan Section of last Sunday's TRIBUNE appeared an article captioned "Student Artist Bureau for Club Women Formed." The avowed purpose of this bureau is to furnish free musical service for clubs, churches and similar organizations. This means, if the project is successful, that professional musicians will be put completely out of business in Oak Park and vicinity.

"The Students' Council for Club Programs" has no excuse for existence. The service it offers can be obtained from professional musicians, men and women who earn their living by public appearances. Service that is worth while should be paid for, and "nothing for nothing" should be the motto of all clubs who wish musical programs for their entertainment—unless their real purpose is to starve the professional musician and destroy art entirely.

JAMES C. PETRILLO,
President, Chicago Federation of Musicians.

CO-OPERATIVE FARM HOMES.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—We have coöperative apartments in the city for the rich. Why not have coöperative farm homes for those of advanced years and limited means?

There are many of this class who find it difficult to keep employed, notwithstanding their capabilities and energy. Changed conditions have forced many from positions held for years. To many who are finding it difficult to adjust themselves to the new conditions, life in the country surrounded by a homey atmosphere, with living quarters absolutely their own for life and delicious and wholesome food assured by an endowment fund, with everything provided for their comfort and entertainment, eliminating all financial worry, would be very comforting.

A well located dairy and truck farm, where buildings could be built as needed and farm products provided at a minimum cost, is the basis of the suggested project. G. A. JEWETT.

CONVICTIONS IN POLITICS.

Chicago, Sept. 7.—Mrs. McCormick is destined to learn that the senatorships of Illinois are not for sale to the highest bidder, and that voters generally prefer their candidates to stand by their convictions, win or lose. Few voters are gullible enough to believe that a candidate who is personally dry would faithfully and efficiently espouse a wet cause in the senate. Most every one realizes that her failure to take a definite stand for or against prohibition is due to the fact that she lacks the courage of Lewis and Mrs. O'Neill.

RICHARD J. MURDOC.

THE DOLE.

Alexandria, Ind., Sept. 7.—As an English visitor to the United States, I was very interested in your editorial in Friday's issue on the English unemployment insurance act, and particularly pleased to see that you gave both points of view. Such pettifogging letters as that which you quote from the Times are continually misrepresenting this act; ignorance of the fact that it is a contributory scheme is but one of the many results of that misrepresentation which I have found among people in this country. Perhaps a few facts would assist your readers to a better understanding of the working of the act.

At present the weekly contribution of an adult man is 14 cents, by his employer 16 cents; of an adult woman 11 cents, by her employer 14 cents. The government contributions are 16 and 11 cents respectively. In cases of aggravated unemployment as at present the deficit in the unemployment fund is made up by loans from the treasury. The rates of benefit for an adult man are $4.08 and for a woman $3.40, which are about a third of the average skilled worker's wages. An additional benefit of $2.16 is allowed for each dependent other than children, and 6 cents for each child.

A contributor to receive benefit must have paid at least thirty contributions within the last two years and must satisfy the authorities that he has not refused suitable employment [the authorities are the labor exchanges, which get notice of most vacancies].

With regard to the cases mentioned in the letter you quote it is extraordinary how writers to the Times always seem to hear of such cases, which never come to the knowledge of most English people. The case of a skilled worker who is unwilling to accept work on an estate [there are in England always people willing to take advantage of hard times by getting cheap domestic labor] is a simple one; it is partly unwillingness to lower his standard of life and chiefly the fact that a great many trades, agriculture among them, are not insured, and that therefore acceptance of employment in one of them would deprive the worker of benefit when the inevitable layoff came. This is a defect in the scheme, which is far from perfect, but to which absolutely no alternative has been suggested by its opponents. It is ridiculous to suggest that 2,000,000 men and women in England are a workshy as to prefer the pittance they receive as benefit to actual wages. Actual workers in labor exchanges say that the figures of shirkers are very small, and many of us prefer to keep 10 or even 20 per cent in idleness if it is necessary to do so in order that the other thousands of our countrymen shall be preserved from absolute starvation.

Many of us feel that far stronger measures are necessary, and if America can show us a really successful solution to the problem we shall certainly not disdain to copy her. AUSTEN ALEC.

AVOIDING THE BOREDOM BUG.

Chicago, Sept. 9.—The two so called night clubs raided last week by your police heroes are two of the few places on the near north side where intelligent people can meet in this benighted town without having to mix with a vulgar mob. I should like to know why the young people were arrested when no liquor was found. DISGUSTED.

The MURDER at the VICARAGE

BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

SYNOPSIS.

Mr. Clement is the vicar of a country village in England. His attractive wife, Griselda, is nearly twenty years his junior. The vicar's young nephew, Dennis, lives with them.

Col. Protheroe, a pompous parishioner, who makes life miserable for his daughter, Lettice, and his second wife, is expected at the vicarage at 6:15 one evening. At 5:30 the vicar is called to visit a dying parishioner and leaves word for the colonel that he will be late. On returning at 7 the vicar meets Lawrence Redding, an artist, who is living in a studio on the vicarage grounds, coming out of the house in an agitated state. The day before the vicar had discovered the artist and Mrs. Protheroe in each other's arms and they had confessed to him their love for each other. In his study the vicar finds the colonel sprawled across the desk, shot through the head, murdered, apparently, as no weapon is found. Dr. Haydock is sent for and he says Protheroe has been dead half an hour and calls the police. A note which the colonel started to write to the vicar is headed 6:20. A clock, overturned when the colonel fell forward, stopped at 6:22, but it was always kept fifteen minutes fast.

Lawrence Redding confesses he murdered Col. Protheroe. Shortly after Mrs. Protheroe tells Chf. Melchett, the chief constable of the county, that she shot her husband.

Miss Marple, whose house adjoins the vicarage, saw Anne Protheroe going to the vicarage about 6:15. From there she went to the studio. She carried no handbag and had no place to conceal a weapon. Redding came along shortly after and joined her at the studio. They came out about twenty minutes later and walked towards the village. Lawrence and Anne admit they had confessed the crime thinking the other had committed it. Lawrence said he had come back to see the vicar after leaving Anne and had found his pistol lying on the floor beside Col. Protheroe and thought Anne must have taken it.

Three people heard a shot, which they thought came from the woods, the evening of the murder—the vicar's maid, Miss Marple, and Mrs. Price Ridley.

Dr. Haydock tells the vicar that his young curate, Hawes, had sleeping sickness a year ago, a strange disease that may change one's whole character after it. Hawes calls on the vicar.

INSTALLMENT XXIV.

A NEW SUSPECT.

Hawes' appearance distressed me very much. His hands were shaking and his face kept twitching nervously. In my opinion, he should have been in bed, and I told him so. He insisted that he was perfectly well.

"I assure you, sir, I never felt better. Never in my life."

This was so obviously wide of the truth that I hardly knew how to answer.

"I called to tell you how sorry I was—that such a thing should happen in the vicarage."

"Yes," I said. "It's not very pleasant."

"It's terrible—quite terrible. It seems they haven't arrested Mr. Redding after all?"

"No. That was a mistake. He made-er-rather a foolish statement."

"And the police are now quite convinced that he is innocent?"

"Perfectly."

"Why is that, may I ask? Is it—I mean, do they suspect any one else?"

I should never have suspected that Hawes would take such a keen interest in the details of a murder case. Perhaps it is because it happened in the vicarage. He appeared as eager as a reporter.

"I don't know that I am completely in Inspector Slack's confidence. So far as I know he does not suspect any one in particular. He is at present engaged in making inquiries."

"Yes. Yes—of course. But who can one imagine doing such a dreadful thing?"

"I mean, have you repeated to them what Col. Protheroe said—about Archer having threatened him?"

I shook my head.

"Col. Protheroe was not a popular man, I know that. But murder! For murder—one would need a very strong motive."

"So I should imagine," I said.

"Who could have such a motive? Have the police any idea?"

"I couldn't say."

"He might have made enemies, you know. The more I think about it, the more I am convinced that he was the kind of man to have enemies."

"I suppose he had."

"Why, don't you remember, sir? He was telling you yesterday morning about having been threatened by that man, Archer."

"Now I come to think of it, so he did," I said. "Of course, I remember. You were quite near us at the time."

"Yes, I overheard what he was saying. Almost impossible to help it with Col. Protheroe. He had such a very loud voice, hadn't he? I remember being impressed by your own words. That when his time came, he might have justice meted out to him instead of mercy."

"Did I say that?" I asked frowning. My remembrance of my own words was slightly different.

"You said it very impressively, sir. I was struck by your words. Justice is a terrible thing. And to think the poor man was struck down afterwards. It's almost as though you had a premonition."

"I had nothing of the sort," I said shortly. I rather dislike Hawes' tendency to mysticism. There is a touch of the visionary about him.

"Have you told the police about this man, Archer, sir?"

"I know nothing about him."

"I mean, have you repeated to them what Col. Protheroe said—about Archer having threatened him."

"No," I said slowly. "I have not."

"But you are going to do so?"

I was silent. I dislike hounding a man down who has already got the forces of law and order against him. I held no brief for Archer. He is an inveterate poacher—one of those cheerful n'er-do-weels that are to be found in any parish. Whatever he may have said in the heat of anger when he was sentenced I had no definite knowledge that he felt the same when he came out of prison.

"You heard the conversation," I said at last. "If you feel it your duty to go to the police with it, you must do so."

"It would come better from you, sir."

"Perhaps—but to tell the truth—well, I've no fancy for doing it. I might be helping to put the rope round the neck of an innocent man."

"But if he shot Col. Protheroe——"

"O if! There's no evidence of any kind that he did."

"His threats."

"Strictly speaking, the threats were not his but Col. Protheroe's. Col. Protheroe was threatening to show Archer what vengeance was worth next time he caught him."

"I don't understand your attitude, sir."

"Don't you?" I said wearily. "You're a young man. You're zealous in the cause of right. When you get to my age, you'll find that you like to give people the benefit of the doubt."

"It's not—I mean——"

He paused and I looked at him in surprise.

"You haven't any—any ideas of your own—as to the identity of the murderer, I mean?"

"Good heavens, no."

"Or as to the—the motive?"

"No. Have you?"

"I. No, indeed. I just wondered. If Col. Protheroe had—had confided in you in any way—mentioned anything . . . "

"His confidences, such as they were, were heard by the whole village street yesterday morning," I said drily.

"Yes. Yes—of course. And you don't think—about Archer?"

"The police will know all about Archer soon enough," I said. "If I'd heard him threaten Col. Protheroe myself, that would be a different matter. But you may be sure that if he actually has threatened him, half the people in the village will have heard him, and the news will get to the police all right. You, of course, must do as you like about the matter."

But Hawes seemed curiously unwilling to do anything himself.

The man's whole attitude was nervous and queer. I recalled what Hay Haydock had said about his illness. There, I supposed, lay the explanation.

He took his leave unwillingly, as though he had more to say.

Before he left, I arranged with him to take the service for the Mothers' Union followed by the meeting of District Visitors. I had several projects of my own for the afternoon.

Dismissing Hawes and his troubles from my mind I started off for Mrs. Lestrange.

As I walked I remembered that Mrs. Lestrange had had an interview with Col. Protheroe the night before his death. It was possible that something had transpired in that interview which would throw light upon the problem of his murder.

I was shown straight into the little drawing room and Mrs. Lestrange came to meet me. I was struck anew by the marvelous atmosphere that this woman could create. She wore a dress of some dead black material that showed off the extraordinary fairness of her skin. There was something curiously dead about her face. Only the eyes were burningly alive. There was a watchful look in them today. Otherwise she showed no signs of agitation.

"It was very good of you to come, Mr. Clement," she said as she shook hands. "I wanted to speak to you the other day. Then I decided not to do so. I was wrong."

"As I told you then, I shall be glad to do anything that can help you."

"Yes, you said that. And you said it as though you meant it. Very few people, Mr. Clement, in this world have ever sincerely wished to help me."

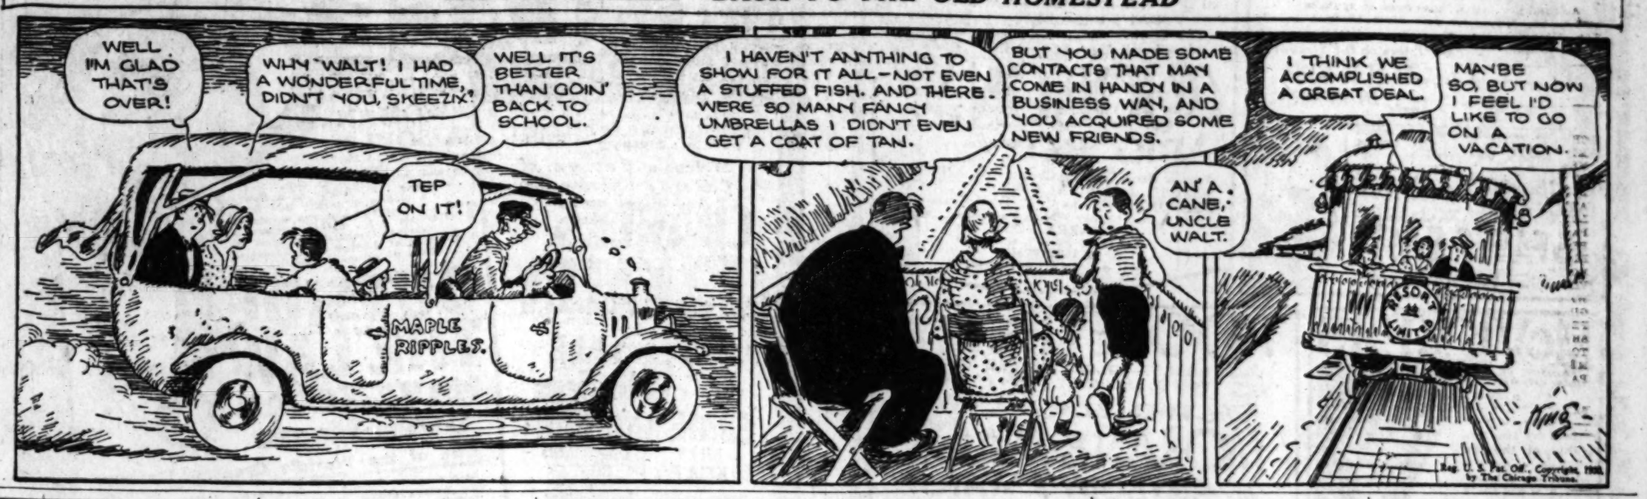

"I can hardly believe that, Mrs. Lestrange."

"It is true. Most people—most men, at any rate, are out for their own hand."

BY ROBERTA NANGLE.

This column is supposed to be devoted to a movie review, but I'd rather talk about Lillian Roth, who is, to my mind, the chief attraction on the Chicago bill this week. After a movie that's only mildly interesting and a stage show that seems almost interminable, Miss Roth bursts on the scene, proving that she's worth while waiting for.

From where I sat high up in the balcony Miss Roth, wearing a long coral-colored lace gown, looked for all the world as Libby Holman did in the Little show. Her songs are less sultry than Miss Holman's, but she has the same power of projecting her personality over the footlights without much apparent effort.

Her first number from her new picture, "Sea Legs," got a large hand, and her second one, the dreamy thing she crooned to Buddy Rogers in "Paramount on Parade," made the audience cry for more. So she gave them "Sing, You Sinners" and an encore. And I was sorry, when she left, that they couldn't stop the show and let her sing some more.

She's a nice girl, Lillian Roth, and it's fine to see audiences responding to her. Incidentally, whoever originated the plan of sending talkie stars with previous stage experience around the country on personal appearance tours must know what's good for business.

As for the picture, "Three Faces East," its trouble lies with the plot and not with the players. Ten years ago, when war plays were the thing, it had a good run on both the stage and screen. Just now, after "What Price Glory," "Journey's End," "All Quiet on the Western Front," and other splendid war dramas, the revival of a play dealing with government spies doesn't seem worth getting excited about.

Constance Bennett, in the starring rôle, is a treat to the eye and ear, but the beautiful lady spy she impersonates is a remote legendary figure. Eric von Stroheim, playing opposite her, is more plausibly cast as a wily Teuton. The other performers, including Anthony Bushell, William Courtenay, and William Holden, do their best with the hoary plot.

The director wisely omitted war scenes except for a few submarine shots. The photography is good and so is the dialogue.

Librarian of Congress Brings Gutenberg Bible to Washington

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12.—(AP)—Sealed in a cubical, zinc-lined trunk, locked in a vault in the office of Dr. Herbert Putnam, librarian of congress, is the $300,000 Gutenberg Bible of the Vollbehr collection.

Dr. Putnam, who personally brought this rarest of volumes from the Austrian monastery where it has been cherished for the past century, said today the seal will not be broken "until the Bible can be placed in its proper setting."

The new setting for the old book must be made secure indeed, if it compares to that from which it came, Dr. Putnam said.

"One of my reasons for going abroad, to receive the Bible personally, was that I wanted to see it where it had been for a hundred years," he said. "I had already examined the only other existing perfect copies on vellum, one at the British museum, one at the National library in Paris.

"The Benedictines are educators, men of learning, and they conduct a school in connection with their abbey. Within this little hamlet was a chapel, and within the chapel was a treasure room in which was kept this Bible. Rare manuscripts and printed books of great value were kept in glass cases, but the Bible, the most precious item the monks possessed, was in a steel safe."

Surgeon's Guests

Lord and Lady Moynihan of Leeds, England, will be given a reception by Dr. Franklin H. Martin, director general of the American College of Surgeons, this afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock, in the John B. Murphy Memorial hall, 50 East Erie street.

Lord Moynihan, who is rated Britain's dean of surgeons, is on his way home from the meeting of the British Medical association in Winnipeg. Recently he was elected president of the Royal College of Surgeons of England for the fifth successive time. The list of his degrees and decorations fill many lines in the British medical directory, several of his honors having been bestowed in recognition of the work he accomplished during the word war.

His lordship was a close friend of the late John B. Murphy, distinguished Chicago surgeon. The John B. Murphy oration in surgery has been a feature of the annual congress of the American college since 1920, when Lord Moynihan delivered the first one. He was chosen then because of his friendship for Dr. Murphy. Lord Moynihan will deliver a message of greeting at today's reception.

Girls' Friend Honored.

A portrait of Mrs. Amos W. Walker, a trustee of the Chicago Home for Girls, purchased by friends in appreciation of her years of service with the home, was presented to the home, 5024 Indiana avenue, yesterday afternoon.

Lucky Corsair, Peruvian Says of Columbus

First Trip to America with Danes, He Avers.

HAMBURG, Germany, Sept. 12.—(AP)—The assertion that Columbus was a Catalonian Corsair, that his voyage of discovery to America in 1492 really was his second journey there, stirred up world-wide reverberations today.

Prof. Luis Ulloa, director of the Peruvian National library at Lima, started the discussion by an address before the Americanists' congress last night.

Señor Ulloa said Columbus first visited America on a voyage with Danish corsairs, who traveled from Ireland to Greenland, Labrador, Newfoundland and the American continent. In addition, he said Columbus was not Genoese. He denounced as falsifications documents heretofore produced to prove the discoverer's nationality. He based his assertions on papers he said he found in Spanish archives in Madrid.

"After eight months' study among Spanish archives in Madrid, where I found much hitherto unknown, authentic and incontrovertible material, I definitely can assert Columbus paid his first visit to the new world by way of Ireland, Greenland, Labrador and Newfoundland," Dr. Ulloa said. "This was before America's official discovery, indeed before he was in contact with the Spanish king.

"This same Columbus, who later captained Spanish ships to the West Indies for a time, was a comrade of Danish corsairs with whom, without the aid of Spanish kings, he made the previous discovery of the American continent.

"Documents which I found further showed that Columbus was not identical with the son of the wool weaver of Genoa, Domenico Columbus, but with a Catalonian corsair who rebelled against King Juan II. of Aragon. He also was a relative of a corsair named Casanova-Couillon, who was in the service of the king of France.

"Many assertions hitherto made about Columbus rest on documents either freely invented by historical writers or fogged and changed. The text of Columbus' negotiations with the Spanish king in 1493 also show undeniable signs of 'doctoring.'"

Dr. Ulloa said the famous letter of Envoy Puebla, alleged to prove Columbus's Genoese origin, never existed. He said the much quoted Columbus will, dated 1497, must be discarded as a falsification.

Among the documents Dr. Ulloa says he discovered the most valuable are a memorandum of Columbus to the executors of Queen Isabella's estate, dated 1495, and also one by his son Diego, dated 1511. There also is a declaration made in 1533 by Bernhard Columbus before the Genoese senate, as well as a deposition signed in Madrid in 1594 by a number of Genoese and Italian witnesses.

Dr. Ulloa produced before the assembly today the original texts on which his conclusions were based, together with a number of code letters by the Spanish envoy to England in 1498. He also produced fifteenth century documents about the forebears of the adventurer Giacomo Casanova, whom he connected with Columbus and the corsair, or freebooter, Casanova-Couillon.

Genoese Won't Believe It.

GENOA, Italy, Sept. 12.—(AP)—The statement of Prof. Ulloa before the Americanists conference at Hamburg, that Columbus was not a Genoese stirred mingled mirth and indignation here today.

Local boosters have planned a celebration in Columbus' honor, for Oct. 12. United States Ambassador Garrett has been invited, as well as all the Latin American ambassadors and ministers in Rome, whether accredited to the king of Italy or to the pope.

Revives Old Debate.

MADRID, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Declarations of Prof. Ulloa before the Americanists at Hamburg revives a discussion of the true nationality of the famous discoverer.

Dr. Ulloa studied various documents relating to the discovery of America in Simancas and Seville, tending to show Columbus was a Catalonian. Other investigators have been declared to have found a document in Ponta Vedra tending to show Columbus was a Jew, while others asserted he was a native of Huelva, and still others claimed he came from Cadiz.

SECOND DAUGHTER OF PREMIER M'DONALD IS ENGAGED TO DOCTOR

LONDON, Sept. 12.—(AP)—The engagement was announced today of Joan Margaref MacDonald, second daughter of the prime minister, to Dr. Alistair McKinnon of Edinburgh.

Miss MacDonald is 22 years old and a medical student at the University of Edinburgh.

The romance began two years ago when Miss MacDonald and Mr. McKinnon were both doing surgical work as students in the royal infirmary in Edinburgh. Mr. McKinnon was graduated last year from the medical school and Miss MacDonald will be a fourth year student next term. At present she is a guest at the home of her fiancé's mother in Edinburgh. The date for the marriage has not been set.

Women Win Success with Years, Directors of Zonta Tell World

KATHERINE KELLEY.

Twenty-five years ago, if a group of women calling themselves "executives" had sat about a council table to discuss the problem of the older worker in business, men would have smiled indulgently.

Yesterday board members of Zonta International, an organization of women executives and business owners, met at the Edgewater Beach hotel. They reported great progress among women in business during the last decade. Zonta was organized ten years ago as an honorary organization for women with purposes similar to those of the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs.

"The world is getting so that woman can make her place wherever she wants it. Sex in business practically has disappeared. A woman now can go as far in business as she likes, become as successful as she wishes."

Such was the observation yesterday of Miss Helen W. Cleveland of Toronto, Canada, international president of Zonta. Miss Cleveland is said to be the first woman in Canada to have a department in the bond business. She started in that field fourteen years ago.

"Women are as good investors as men in spite of their recent entrance into the field. It is true that only a few years ago most women knew little more about checks than how to sign their names to them. Now women are learning to do all the investing for the family, some even developing their husbands' business interests. The bond business is a favorable and growing field for women, because women constantly are learning how to invest money, and wanting to invest."

Other members of the board are Mrs. Olivia Johnson, St. Paul; Mrs. Katherine Maddux and Miss Harriet C. Richards, Chicago; Mrs. Grace Montgomery Bean, Toledo; Miss Jessie M. Oatman, Niagara Falls; Mrs. Maxine Robertson, Los Angeles; Miss Dorothy Shank, Cleveland; Miss Dora Neun, Rochester.

Zonta, an Indian name meaning "trustworthy," was organized at Buffalo and now has 3,200 members in the United States, Canada, Australia, Hawaii, and several European countries. It has a classified membership, one member from each profession and business in a community, including a homemaker.

German Club Women Here for Study of American Methods

Chicago will be host until Monday morning to seven German club women who are making a short tour of the United States to study American clubs, particularly with reference to their social welfare activities.

Mrs. D. E. Bremermann of New York, who is conducting the party, says the woman's club—as developed in the United States—has gained the interest of the German women, who now are developing clubs along American lines. All the women in the party represent clubs in various cities, affiliated with the Kartel der Frauenklubs, an organization similar to the American Federation of Women's clubs, but with headquarters in Berlin.

Members of the party include: Miss Wiemer, Mrs. Dr. Cahen and Miss Cahen, all of Cologne; Mrs. Gebhard, Elberfeld; Miss Dr. Gebhard, Berlin; Miss Heim, Stuttgart, and Mrs. Woerz, Munich. They are stopping at the Bismarck hotel.

Humane Education Added to Public School Courses

Humane education, to be taught by every teacher in the Chicago public school system for thirty minutes each day, was ordered yesterday by Supt. William J. Bogan. The widest latitude will be given the teachers in presentation of the subject and only general material has been provided them. This innovation in the Chicago curriculum was ordered by the board of education after a study of results in European cities, where for several years classes in humane treatment of animals has received the same consideration as the "three Rs."

Pershing's Own Story of War Is Ready to Print

Washington, D. C., Sept. 13.—(AP)—"Twelve years ago today, almost to the hour, the battle of St. Mihiel was won," Gen. John J. Pershing said today.

The general sat at his desk in the dim, quiet office that has been restored to him from presidential occupation, an office rich with carved and painted reminders of another, more stately day. He looked from the window over the green beauty of the White House grounds, over the White House itself topped by the gently swaying folds of the flag.

Tomorrow's sun will peer over that far horizon to see Pershing at his desk Friends and high officialdom will come as the 70th year of his life opens. Friends will come to do honor then on his birthday to America's commander of the world war.

But it was not of tomorrow that he thought as he sat so quietly looking eastward toward France today. It was not of his own life story he dreamed, colored with glory and with tragedy; but of that day twelve years ago, and of comrades who fell and still sleep "over there."

That St. Mihiel victory was a mile stone in American history. It fell upon the eve of Pershing's 58th birthday. It was a double victory for him. Not alone did his legions sweep away in hours an enemy salient that had stood for years against French armies, but the battle realized the thing for which he had fought from the hour he set foot on French soil.

It was an American army, American officered and under Pershing's personal command that fought at St. Mihiel and but for Pershing's persistence in allied councils that army might have been dissipated in allied ranks as manpower replacements to fight under foreign flags.

It is all fresh in the general's memory. At 70 his face is deep carved with lines set there in France, but his shoulders are erect and soldierly as they were as a dashing cavalry subaltern. And he has just finished another task, self set this time.

For Pershing has completed his memoirs, his own story of the A. E. F. from his appointment as commander to the armistice. It takes two volumes to tell it now, free of restraints that curb official reports. And every line of it, whether written during his several trips to France to look up data or here at home, is his own. It was dictated to his military stenographers, then worked over in pencil to suit him. And it deals bluntly with many things including American unpreparedness for the struggle and responsibility for that unpreparedness.

"And it is a book I never intended to write," the general said smilingly. "Yet I have found that so few folk know where our army came from or what it actually did. Even veterans of the A. E. F. know so little. So I have set it down as a duty to them and to their sons."

"And have you found some pleasure in doing it?" the general was asked.

"Yes," he said. "And that is strange because I dreaded it at the start. Perhaps I may write again some day. Perhaps I may start with those boyhood days in old Missouri and write of what I have seen and known. Who knows?"

Burnhams to Go Abroad; Others Are Returning

BY THALIA

Returns and departures continue to constitute society's chief activity, the while there is abundant evidence that the season will begin in earnest in a few weeks. Mrs. Hubert Burnham of Evanston, her daughter, Miss Mardi Burnham, and Hubert Jr. are sailing from New York today for Genoa, Italy on the S. S. Conte Grande.

They plan to go first to Florence, and then to Lausanne, Switzerland. There Miss Mardi is to study at the Villa Brillmonte. Mr. Burnham and the other daughter of the family, Miss Cherie, will meet Mrs. Burnham in London later.

Mr. Burnham, who is one of the architects for the Chicago World's Fair in 1933, will attend the exposition in London with the thought of absorbing ideas on the subject of fairs.

Today will be another gay one for the new debutantes. Mrs. Edward L. Hasler is giving a reception for her daughter, Miss Constance Hasler, and her niece, Eleanor Coonley, daughter of the Prentiss L. Coonleys, at Great Barrington, Mass.

In Winnetka Miss Evelyn Bouscaren is to be presented by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. G. Bouscaren, and Mr. and Mrs. Allen L. Withers are to give a debut tea for their daughter, Miss Leila Withers, at the Indian Hill club, with a dinner-dance following for the young people. The usual corps of sister debutantes will assist at each of the parties.

The marriage of Miss Elinor Trostel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert O. Trostel of Milwaukee, and John Kranz Notz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Felix J. Notz of 521 Stratford place, is to take place today at the Trostel residence, with the Rev. E. Reginald Williams of Milwaukee officiating. Mrs. Charles M. Hines is to be matron of honor and Miss Beatrice Trostel the maid of honor. Felix J. Notz Jr. is the best man, and the ushers include Marshall Allen, Bowen E. Schumacher, Neil Williams, C. M. Hines and Rush Clark Butler Jr., all of Chicago, as well as Albert O. Trostel Jr. and Otto H. Falk Jr. of Milwaukee.

The children's horse show that the Austin H. Niblacks have given annually for the past 3 or 4 years is to take place tomorrow at the horse show ring at Onwentsia. The affair always is a regular party for the young equestrians.

Bernard F. Rogers Jr. had a birthday party, cake, candles and all, at the Saddle and Cycle club on Thursday evening. Several of the participants in the natal celebration, John R. Winterbotham, Walter Paepcke, and Mr. Rogers himself, are still summer bachelors, as their wives have not yet returned from their respective summer trips. Mr. and Mrs. James Waller Rogers and Florence Noyes were also present at the affair.

Miss Isabel Greenlee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Greenlee of 70 Scott street, has set Saturday, Oct. 4, as the date for her wedding to John Frederick Palmer Farrar. The wedding is following the modern trend to be small and conservative, and is to take place at noon at St. Chrysostom's Episcopal church, with a wedding breakfast at the Greenlee residence following.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Gallienne, who lived in Chicago for several years during the time that Mr. Gallienne was British vice consul here, have been relieved of their concern for the Galliennes' welfare during the hurricane in Santo Domingo. A cablegram in response to inquiries said they were safe and well, but that their residence and its contents were completely demolished in the catastrophe. Mr. Gallienne went to Santo Domingo about a year and a half ago to assume the post of British chargé d'affaires there.

Several Chicagoans are among the fall colony at Virginia Hot Springs. The James M. Hopkins Jr. of Lake Forest and their Patricia are at the Homestead after a visit at Chatham, Mass., and others include Mrs. John T. Pirie Jr. (Daisianna Smith) and her brother, Hoyt Smith, and the Howard Ettings.

Mr. and Mrs. George R. Roberts of Highland Park will give a tea and reception for their daughter, Miss Katharine Eleanor Roberts, on Sept. 27 at their residence. Miss Roberts was graduated in June from the House of the Pines at Norton, Mass.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12.—[Special.]—The secretary of agriculture and his daughter, Miss Caroline Hyde, have been joined at the Mayflower by Mrs. Hyde, who has been ill in a hospital in Baltimore.

Miss Hyde will be among the season's debutantes this winter and will be presented about Christmas time to give her mother plenty of time for recuperation.

The secretary of labor, James J. Davis, went to Pittsburgh today to remain over the week-end. On his return he will be joined by Mrs. Davis and their five children.

Mrs. Leander McCormick-Goodhart, wife of the commercial secretary of the British embassy, and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Frederick E. McCormick-Goodhart, went yesterday to Hot Springs, Va., to spend the autumn season at the homestead, where they will be joined later by their husbands.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Carr have returned to their home in Massachusetts avenue park. Mrs. Carr formerly was Miss Natalie Hanna, niece of Representative Ruth McCormick and half-sister of Mrs. Richard Porter Davidson. Mr. Carr is one of the young attachés of the state department.

Mrs. James R. Mann, widow of a late representative from Chicago, returned yesterday to her apartment at 1000 16th street from Lenox, Mass., in the Berkshires, where she has as usual spent her summer.

Teach Children to Be Hospitable and Appreciative

By Mrs. Gladys Huntington Berans

A booklet on sex education will be sent by Mrs. Berans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

One day, not so long ago, a mother said to me, "I really love little George Brown, and I'm so glad to have him here at the house, playing with Bill. They make things together and have such fun and he stays for lunch and supper, too, sometimes. He's had countless meals with us—in fact, for the four months of summer he practically lives at the house. But his mother has never invited Bill over there and never even expressed one word of appreciation."

Then, as a coincidence, a letter came along from which I quote:

"I wish you would say something in your column about instilling in children that primary courtesy of acknowledging invitations and paying them back. I know of so many mothers who are themselves lax in this respect and hence their children are. A gentle reminder would help both mothers and children.

"My house is always open to my little son's friends. I help entertain them, they make themselves very much at home. I feed them and even wash them. But their mothers deem it quite unnecessary to ever return the hospitality. When my son goes to play at their homes he is greeted with the mother's rude and insulted remark, "Go on—get out of here!"

"The child cannot understand and neither can I, because the members of our family for generations have prided themselves on paying their debts, both monetary and social. If parents are boorish in their manners, of course the children will be, also."

Of course not many mothers are quite as crude as the one mentioned, who simply didn't intend to be "bothered" with children. But there are many women who, through mere thoughtlessness, allow other mothers to entertain and even take care of their children. Besides the thoughtlessness some of this one-sidedness is due to their not having a real feeling of hospitality, that rich form of courtesy.

Children do absorb atmosphere. And if we want our children to have some idea of entertaining in their own homes—of extending and not always accepting hospitality—we'd do well to show them a sample of it while they're young. It is, as the writer of this letter says, a matter of courtesy not to allow entertaining to be one-sided—and if we want courteous children—little or big—we must give them some sort of an example.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Sept. 12.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Roosevelt gave a dance this evening at their country place, Mohannes, Oyster Bay, L. I., for their debutante niece, Miss Grace Green Roosevelt, eldest of the children of the governor general of Porto Rico, and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt of this city and Oyster Bay.

Miss Virginia Elvira Trowbridge was formally presented this evening at a supper dance for three hundred guests, which her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Kellogg Trowbridge, gave for her at the Bedford Golf and Tennis club.

The debutante was graduated this spring from the Shipley school at Bryn Mawr, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Willard Hill have returned after a motor trip through the Rocky mountains and several weeks' stay at ranches in Wyoming and Montana.

Mrs. I. Sheldon Tilney will entertain at dinner on Oct. 17 in honor of her niece, Miss Elizabeth M. Munn, daughter of Mr. Orson D. Munn.

Americans in Paris.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 12.—The following Americans registered today at the Paris bureau of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE: Dr. and Mrs. H. A. Raube, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Kehoe, Edward Maas, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Maas, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Colvin, of Chicago; Dr. and Mrs. H. A. Soglaeger, Los Angeles.

Details of Wedding

For her wedding yesterday afternoon to Joseph D. Purcell Jr., Miss Charlotte Picher wore a gown of salmon colored metal cloth with a lily of the valley design, a shirred velvet hat of the same shade, and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley.

The ceremony took place at 4:30 o'clock at the Hubbard Woods residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Oliver Picher, with a small assemblage present. Miss Muriel Picher, the maid of honor, wore a chartreuse transparent velvet frock and hat, and the bridesmaids, Miss Jane Rowe and Miss Jean MacLeish, were in blue with matching hats.

The attendants carried bouquets of Talisman roses. Paul Butler was best men for Mr. Purcell, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Purcell of 1320 North State street.

WEDDINGS

Invitations have been issued for the wedding of Miss Priscilla Foote daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Edward Milton Foote of New York City, to Robert Baker Dickson, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Edwin Dickson of Evanston, to take place at the Central Presbyterian church in New York City on Oct. 4. Miss Foote is a graduate of Vassar college, class of '28, and Mr. Dickson was graduated from Northwestern university and the Columbia university school of mines.

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Morris Doane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Ashley Doane of Evanston, to Lewis Jerome West of Chicago is to take place at 4 o'clock this afternoon at St. Luke's Episcopal church, with a small reception at the Doane residence following the ceremony. The bride's sister, Mrs. James Insley Osborne of Crawfordsville, Ind., is to be her matron of honor, and Mr. Osborne is to be the best man.

Mrs. John H. Auerbach of New York City, Miss Ruth Seeley of Montreal, and Mrs. Wallace Behnke of Wilmette are the bridesmaids, and Frederick A. Gariepy, Frederick Chetlain, and Dr. William O. Brasmer, the ushers. After a wedding trip to California, Mr. West and his bride will reside in Evanston.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S AND MISSES' DRESS.

This capelet frock of printed silk crêpe, with the circular skirt, fitted basque bodice with button trim, and long, close fitting sleeves is correct in every detail, and should be becoming to most women. Plain washable crêpe silk in iris blue would be a youthful choice, while there are many other silk crêpes that would be attractive for this sort of dress.

The pattern, 2507, comes in sizes 14, 16 and 18 years and 36, 38 and 40 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material with ¼ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

Society Meets 'Twixt Seasons Gown Problem

That the "right clothes for the right occasion" is society women's first rule of fashion is evidenced by the practical attire they are wearing just now for shopping in town and for informal affairs in the country.

Every well dressed woman has several between-season costumes suitable for all day wear before the formal opening of the season necessitates a change in the afternoon for the formal receptions and teas. Tailored suits in dark colors are favored for wear in the city and warm sports clothes for the country.

Though navy blue is not listed by the fashion writers as one of the outstanding fall colors, it none the less retains its popularity among the smartly dressed. Mrs. Austin Niblack and Mrs. Leslie Wheeler, who come in from Lake Forest every day to the office of the Women's National Organization for Prohibition Reform, are wearing suits of that shade. Mrs. Niblack's is simply tailored, with a narrow belt across the front of the coat and a skirt with a slight flare at the hem. With it she wears a French blue blouse embroidered in white dots, with a mannish vest front ending in two points below the waist line, a double brimmed blue felt hat flared at the sides, and a narrow sable scarf.

Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, who always chooses apparel suited to the weather, was seen on her daily stroll down Michigan one sunny morning this week wearing a dark blue crêpe ensemble, with a short coat, and a skirt reaching about four inches below the knee. Her tuck-in blouse was of white crêpe and her draped turban of blue grosgrain ribbon.

One of Miss Jeanette Peterkin's costumes for daytime wear consists of a navy blue wool crêpe dress with a square neck and fitted waistline and a matching felt hat with a brim crushed over the forehead and drooping at the sides. Miss Margaret Carr also wears a navy suit of wool tweed with a straight line one-button coat and a felt hat to match with a perforated rolled brim.

Extra coats are useful for wear in the country just now when cool breezes are apt to blow up after a game of golf or tennis. Mrs. Clifford T. Rodman has one of heavy white flannel suitable for wear over light hued sports costumes. It is made on masculine lines with a yoke top, wide pockets and buckled belt.

Mrs. J. Andrews King was seen at Onwentsia last week wearing a yellow tennis dress under a loose fitting, three-quarter length coat of white wool with wide sleeves and narrow shawl collar extending to the side fastening at the waistline. Mrs. Edward A. Cudahy wears a straight-lined rust-color tweed coat over dresses and suits of brown or yellow.

Lebanon, Ill., Sept. 12.—(AP)—Registration at McKendree college has surpassed all previous records, exceeding the high mark of 1928 by ten per cent. President Cameron Harmon reported 136 freshmen and 107 upper classmen registered to date, a gain of 25 per cent over last year.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER

Fifty-one "flower shows," some in miniature, are expected to be the vogue tomorrow when readers of THE CHICAGO SUNDAY TRIBUNE find out the names of home owners in the Chicago area whose names have been inscribed on the first semi-annual TRIBUNE Roll of Honor of Outstanding Flower Gardens.

Thirty-four such gardens have been designated for the honor roll by judges, whose decisions are announced in the Metropolitan sections of Sunday's TRIBUNE. In addition, there are 17 other gardeners whose results have entitled them to honorable mention and who probably will improve their gardens sufficiently by next spring or fall to obtain an honor roll certificate.

The hundreds of gardens were in all sections of the city and suburbs, entered in the project by nomination of two neighbors of each contestant. Next spring ballots again will be printed, with an invitation to home owners with amateur gardens, and each succeeding fall and spring, according to the plan of THE TRIBUNE Farm and Garden department. Other gardeners are invited to inspect the honor roll yards.

Makes Debut in Winnetka

MISS LUCIE JACOBS.

Miss Lucie Jacobs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Jacobs, made her debut at a reception given by her parents from 4 to 7 o'clock yesterday afternoon at their residence in Winnetka. Her debut frock was of greenish blue lace with cape sleeves and velvet ribbons tied in a bow across the back and falling in streamers to the hemline.

Are You Kind to Your Eyes, Gals? They'll Reward Care

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

The lighting system in up to date business offices is far ahead of the lighting system in homes. I think we women might let the men give us a few suggestions on the lamp subject, if not on the curtain, or the rug, or the antique decorations. Our eyes would come off the better for the courtesy extended the other halves' wisdom.

On care of the eyes women just are not as well trained as they are on other items affecting them for better or worse, pictorially speaking. The avrage woman knows more about what kind of cream she should use for her dry skin [or oily] than she does about where to place her reading chair or work table for the good of her eyes.

I am constantly surprised at the manner in which the simplest instructions about light are ignored by my own sometimes ridiculous sex. It isn't that women do not know that when reading light should be adequate and that windows should not stare them in the face when they work. Women do know that when reading or writing the light from windows or lamps should be arranged to come from behind and over the left shoulder. But for some unknown reason they won't practice what they know.

It isn't that they want to hasten the day of wearing specs, for none are keen about adding the nuisances to the other facial adornments. But women just are careless about their eyes, as I said before, and I don't know how we are going to make them take a more sensible view about the orb features that are priceless to their looks as well as their happiness.

A familiar sight to me is a woman of wisdom in most other things who, reading, sits tilted forward on one end of a couch to catch the rays of light from amber globes, the lamp facing her directly and a couple of feet away. The perpendicular wrinkles on her forehead and the strained, tired eyes are no persuasive to better behavior. Pride in other features is anything but dead. She's a really particular person about herself. But I suppose we all have our own idiosyncrasies that we can't explain.

Yet eyes are eyes—and fading eyes are not becoming to any type of beauty.

Second Wife Wants to Refurnish Home, but Husband Balks

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Every woman who marries a widower and moves into his established home is confronted with the problem of how to or how not to adapt her taste in furnishings to his.

Marriage with a bachelor has an advantage in this respect to a woman with strong personal tastes and opinions about home furnishing—and what woman hasn't?

It is neither feasible nor fair to override the man's taste, or what is probably more dear to him than the actual type of furniture, his associations of a sentimental nature. It is always credible that the first wife's taste was an important factor in the original purchases. Perhaps it is that very thing that subscribes to her successor's usual distaste for the collected things. Again, it may be, and more likely is, the strong feminine instinct to express itself in its own individual way in the home arrangement.

Anyway, it is a problem that has to be faced, as "Discouraged" discovers, to her chagrin. She married a widower, not young, and consequently with a well stocked ménage. Old fashioned stuff, the new wife calls it. The man she married protests that it is good stuff and it is going to stay, regardless of her highfalutin' ideas. And it is going to take a large measure of that ingredient known as vital to making a go of marriage—compromise—in this particular furniture instance.

The woman doesn't like anything the man has. She wants her own things, and she has private money of her own to purchase them. Two years and a half of arguing hasn't netted the woman yet a position in the household for a much desired new dining room set.

The man hardly understands the nature of the woman or he'd let the poor darling have her dining room set. She'd be moved to serve him better meals thereon did she have her way about what to serve them on. But if there is a stubborn deadlock on, the probability is that the man will have to get a new cook who doesn't give a hang whether she serves a meal on pine or rosewood. For every concession on one side there should be one on the other, if the furniture problem cannot be settled any other way.

Food Talk.

How do you go about preparing grapefruit for a salad or cocktail? Whole selections are so much more attractive to serve than fruit that is torn and mangled. Some women remove the skin and the clinging white membrane tediously with their fingers and consume an hour or so in preparing enough for 8 or 10 servings.

Others do it in the following simple and quick way: With a sharp knife they pare the grapefruit as one would an apple, removing all the skin and white membrane. The removal of the first section is different than the removal of the others, but not any more difficult. The first one is sliced out, cutting downward on each side as close to the dividing membrane as possible. Once this first sectional wedge is out, there is more room to work.

Now the paring knife is inserted at the bottom of the next section, sharp side up, between the pulp and the membrane. Keeping the knife as near the membrane as possible and cutting upwards frees the section from its membrane. As the membrane is held away from the section the seed is removed with the point of the knife at the core. Loosening the membrane on the other side of the section, one may lift it out from the center with the dull edge of the knife.

The process is repeated until all sections are removed. This method enables one to obtain whole wedges without losing much of the juice.

GRAPEFRUIT SALAD.

1 cup cream cheese.
¼ cup cream.
2 tablespoons pineapple or grapefruit juice.
1 tablespoon sugar.
½ cup ground nuts.
Crisp lettuce leaves.
Creamy salad dressing.
6 maraschino cherries.

Pare the grapefruit and section out. Dip each section in the cheese, which has been creamed and softened with the cream and fruit juice and sweetened with 1 tablespoon sugar. Sprinkle with ground nuts. Arrange five sections as petals of a flower on crisp lettuce leaf. Place a large spoonful of salad dressing in center and top with a cherry.

Parisiennes Choose Embroidered Frocks

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—The winter collections usher in a great revival of embroidered fabrics. Flat crêpes, embroidered in Persian or floral patterns, with metal threads or thick silk; the new delustred satins that have no shine at all, finely quilted all over and embroidered here and there with delicate designs; triple georgettes picked out with gold and silver leaves have all been bought in quantities by the great Paris couturiers for their dressy afternoon and evening gowns.

Obviously, frocks of such rich and ornate material must be extremely restrained as to cut in order to give full value to the intricate background.

Molyneux, who particularly favors the more delicate type of allover embroidery, makes this evening gown of triple georgette in a deep lapis blue embroidered with flowers and sprays in a darker blue, green and silver. The skirt shows the new shorter length in front, though in back it just escapes the floor. It is flared by circular pieces mounted in points on a fitted hip yoke over which falls a slender tunic. The tailored belt has a sapphire buckle.

The slipover bolero of the bodice recalls the simplicity of the tunic. A parure of sapphires and emeralds mounted on platinum richly completes the restrained magnificence of this frock, which, by the way, will among the Molyneux creations chosen by the Hon. Mrs. Reginald Fellowes.

PARLEY ON INDIA GRANTED RIGHT TO FREE DISCUSSION

No Taboos to Be Imposed by Great Britain.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 12.—With the appointment of the Indian delegates to the round table conference in October, many of whom are already in Europe and others on their way, the settlement of the India question enters the sphere of reality.

The refusal of Mahatma Gandhi, leader of the independence movement in India, to take part in the conference is regarded rather with relief than disappointment, for it was felt that had he come, he is so thoroughly committed to demand complete independence that he would have been unable to consider the situation in a realistic frame of mind.

Will Discuss All Subjects.

The conference will be in fact, if not technically, a constituent assembly of India and Great Britain. No terms of reference have been laid down and there has been no effort to limit the discussion. The delegates will make their own program and there will be free discussion of anything regarding Anglo-Indian relations and the future government of India.

The delegates are expected to assemble in London before Oct. 20, when the imperial conference will still be sitting, so they can meet the delegates from the dominions and discuss various questions with them.

Method of Procedure.

The Indian conference will be opened formally about Nov. 10 and will sit until about Christmas, when, it is hoped, broad outlines of a scheme for the future of India may be decided. The Indian delegates will then go home for discussion of the scheme and the British officials will put the result of the conference into legislative form.

When the bill is introduced to parliament it will be referred to a joint committee of the houses of lords and commons, with which the representatives of India will be invited to sit. Here it is planned to smooth out questions likely to cause trouble either in Great Britain or India.

Two Conferences Linked.

An interesting development is the linking up of the work of the imperial and of the Indian conferences, by which one may have a most important effect on the other. One of the demands of Mr. Gandhi is the recognition by Great Britain of India's right to secede from the empire. This is already implicit in dominion status, but it has never been made explicit.

At the coming imperial conference South Africa, Ireland, and, it is reported, Canada, will press for an explicit declaration of this right. If it is granted them, it will be easy for the most extreme of Indian nationalists to accept dominion government for India.

Reveal India States' Scheme.

Meantime an interesting scheme for dominion government has been approved by all south Indian native states and by 19 out of 40 of the principal rulers of northern India. It is believed that it has the approval also of Viceroy Lord Irwin and leading members of the British government in India. The plan falls into more than a dozen headings, the chief of which follow:

1. Full and responsible government for the provinces.
2. Some form of responsible government approaching constitutional monarchy in the native states.
3. Responsible federal government for Delhi, in which the representatives of the provinces and native states shall take part.
4. Federal government which will have dominion powers, with a governor general appointed by the king, who will be the king's personal representative and entirely unpolitical.

Demand Central Legislature.

5. A central legislature composed of an elected house.
6. Administration by a cabinet of about 15 ministers, at least three of whom will be from the native states.
7. Constituent provincial governments wholly autonomous in internal affairs.
8. The members of the legislature to number about 320—meaning one for each 1,000,000 of population.
9. Direct election to the house of representatives and indirect election and nomination to the senate.

NORWAY GIVES UP PROHIBITION AND BECOMES SOBER

No More Do Drunks Lie in Gutters.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OSLO, Norway, Sept. 12.—Norway, which some ten years ago began a trial of the "noble experiment" and three years ago decided that it was ignoble and abandoned it, is now reaping the benefit. A few years ago under total prohibition Norway was one of the most drunken countries in the world, almost every fisherman was a smuggler of liquor, almost every drug store was a speakeasy and almost every taximan was a bootlegger.

Today during drinking hours every Norwegian can get all the sound liquor he wants at a fair price, and drunkenness has almost disappeared. The Norwegian system is that of state monopoly with the British system of high taxation, with an added feature of local option. Under the latter system many districts in Norway are dry and really dry, because the decisions have been taken by local residents who did not want liquor.

There has been some complaint over this from mountain hotelkeepers, who think they ought to be exempted from the local aridity for the benefit of holiday guests.

All hard liquor used in Norway is imported, or if it is of local manufacture is handled by the state monopoly, which sells to restaurants and cafés for consumption. No saloons for the sale of liquor alone are allowed, but there is no compulsion that a man must buy a meal with every drink. The sale of beer and light wine is allowed freely, but hard liquor can be sold only between 3 and 11 p. m., and not at all from noon on Saturday until 3 p. m. on Monday.

Laws Strictly Enforced.

This last provision has ended the good old custom of the week-end drunk, which used to be a problem for Norwegian workers, especially in the port towns, and insures the pay envelope reaching home reasonably intact.

As far as can be seen the laws are strictly enforced. It is impossible even for guests in the leading hotels to get a drink of hard liquor on Sunday or before 3 p. m. on weeks days, although there is always plenty of beer and wine.

Beer is the chief drink of all classes and, with about three per cent alcohol, it seems to satisfy without intoxicating. It is not considered an alcoholic drink.

The Norwegians are not great wine drinkers, so they confine themselves chiefly to beer, with a little schnapps as an appetizer.

Drunkenness Disappears.

The net result of the abandonment of the great experiment is that Norway, from a drunken country, has become more sober. A few years ago it was not uncommon to see a man lying drunk in a gutter with a bottle of bootleg beside him. Today such a sight is unknown.

One curious result attributed by some to the abolition of prohibition has been the growth of the Labor party and an increase in its radical outlook. Under prohibition the drunken workmen didn't care to discuss politics. Today, under a system for the sale of liquor, the sober workmen find more time to talk politics and discuss their grievances. Here is a suggestion to American prohibitionists for what it is worth, that "prohibition, by promoting drunkenness, prevents the growth of communism."

DAWES PICTURES RADIO AS CURB ON DEMAGOGUES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 12.—Ambassador Dawes outlined a new theory concerning radio broadcasting and mob instinct in a speech here tonight. For some inexplicable reason, Mr. Dawes said, when persons listen through wireless to speeches of demagogues their instincts are not aroused in the same way as when they listen in a crowd.

In illustration of his theory, Mr. Dawes mentioned that at the Democratic convention in New York, the speeches caused the crowds present to howl with frenzy, while a much larger crowd of 25,000 to 30,000 people, listening to the same speeches through loud speakers, was silent.

In other words, the crowd over the radio listened as individuals, not as a crowd, and mob instincts were not aroused. In these days, said the ambassador, that meant a great deal. It meant that in the future political parties would be judged by the people through speeches coming over the radio in the quiet of their homes.

SARAZEN, ARMOUR MEET FOR PRO GOLF TITLE TODAY

TOMMY BEATS LACEY, ONE UP, IN SEMI-FINAL

Kirkwood Loses to Gene, 5 and 4.

Flushing, N. Y., Sept. 12.—[Special.]—Gene Sarazen, holder of the western open championship, and Tommy Armour, Canadian open winner, will trade strokes tomorrow in the final round of the 1930 Professional Golf association tournament over Gene's home course, the Fresh Meadow Country club.

This will be Sarazen's opportunity to win the title for a third time, for he defeated Emmet French, 4 and 3, to win the professional title in 1922 at Oakmont shortly after he startled the golf world by winning the national open, and the following year he was victorious over Walter Hagen on the 38th green at Pelham.

Armour's First Time in Final.

Armour has never gone as far as the final round in the event and he almost lost his opportunity today when, after building up a three hole lead on Charles Lacey of Pine Valley coming to the 34th green, he three-putted twice in succession to bring the match up to the home hole, which he halved to win by the slender one hole margin.

The stocky little Sarazen had a far less trying time getting to the final than did the former Scot. Gene was far too much for Joe Kirkwood, the Australian trick shot artist, and eliminated the man from down below at the 33d hole, the score being 5 and 4.

Kirkwood, who has played steady golf all week, steadier perhaps than any one else in the field, gave Sarazen a battle for the first twenty-two holes, but after that he developed a streak of wildness that enabled Gene to take a two hole lead and after that it was all over.

Joe was no more than 2 down at the turn but the two holes that followed took the starch out of the match. Gene ran down a long putt for a birdie 3 on the 28th, making him 3 up and completely upset his opponent by chipping into the cup from off the green on the next hole.

Mashie Brings a 4.

He hooked his second badly in among trees and had to play out through an opening, but the ball went over the green and down a bank. Using a mashie he played a spectacular shot and his ball went into the hole for a 4.

The shot so unsteadied Kirkwood that he three putted the hole and became 4 down. After Sarazen pitched into the bunker playing the No. 12 hole Kirkwood played a beautiful shot within two yards of the flag for a birdie 3 to get back one of his losses, but Gene took the next two and the match was over.

Sarazen played superb golf throughout the round, and when he finished he was four under 4's, having produced a 71 in the morning, reaching the turn in 35, even par in the afternoon, and being two under 4's on the last five holes.

The Armour-Lacey match was far more spectacular than the other semi-final, especially at the finish, when Tommy's wooden headed putter began playing capers. It was a match in which his greater experience in tournaments counted heavily in his favor.

Lacey is a player of the slashing type, a tremendous hitter from the tee, but, like all long hitters, apt to be wild.

Armour Misses Putt.

As they came up the thirty-third fairway Armour stood 3 up, knowing that all he needed was to halve a couple of holes and it would be all over. Tommy played safely and was on in three, the same as Lacey, only a trifle farther from the hole. His ball was on the back edge of the green with a downhill putt left. After studying the lie carefully he tapped the ball too gently and it stopped four feet from the hole. Lacey's try for a 4 went two and a half feet past and he holed after Armour missed.

Now it was 2 and 2. Lacey's next drive was almost out of bounds, so close to the boundary that he had to stand on some rocks to play it, and he put it in a bunker. Armour was almost bunkered, and after both succeeded in getting out Tommy again three-putted, this time missing one of thirty inches in length for the half that was all he needed to close the match out.

Lacey still had a chance to square the match on the home green, but, after hitting a tremendous drive, he was short on his approach. He went over the putt, but missed by a narrow margain and Armour, on the green with his second shot and close to the hole on his approach putt, settled in to bring the match to a close.

BUENA VISTA IS 1ST ON DEMONS' GRID SCHEDULE

BY WILFRID SMITH.

For two weeks the dusty turf of De Paul field has been scuffed by charging linemen and high stepping backs. Daily program of drills will continue full pace until Oct. 4, when De Paul's Blue Demons, 1930 edition, entertain Buena Vista college of Storm Lake, Ia., in the inaugural of their seven game schedule.

Although De Paul's prospects for victory are better than a year ago when three games were won and four lost, success depends on the development of sophomore material. Four weeks are not too long for the task.

Eddie Anderson—Dr. Anderson now that he's ready to open shop as a full fledged medico—is directing De Paul's gridiron campaign for the fifth season. Eddie came to the north side university after three years with the Columbia college teams at Dubuque, Ia. Back of this coaching experience are three years when he was one of Notre Dame's greatest ends and several seasons in professional football.

Kelly Coaches Backs.

James D. Kelly, director of athletics, has started his fourth year at De Paul. He is an invaluable aid in the month's preparations helping coördinate the backfield attack and defense. Then there's Ben Connors who daily puts the linesmen through their stunt of charging and blocking. Connors came to De Paul this fall after several seasons of success at St. Ignatius High school. Walter McGovern, head coach of De Paul's academy eleven, also helps train the university varsity.

Anderson has Red Harrington, the only veteran for his 1930 backfield. Red is slated for half back, a new job, for last season he lined up in the field general's position. Art McGivern and Hartman are squad members of last year's troupe who are expected to carry first rank responsibility this fall. Matt Steffen, Johnny Ryan and Eddie Stafford are promising sophomore backs.

Backs Are Light.

The back field will be light, probably averaging 155 pounds.

Capt. Paddy Driscoll at center must depend on the sophomore material now being molded by Connors and McGovern, to flank him in the style to which he has been accustomed. Gil Gilbertson, center; Al Morse and Everett McLain, guards; Cowhey, tackle, and Jim O'Conner, an end, are squad veterans. However, sophomores probably hold the key to the success of the line. Eddie Lyons and Jim Roché have excelled at end.

De Paul's line should average 185 pounds. This weight, combined with speed, may offset inexperience. A squad of 35 is another factor where lack of material is an annual problem. When De Paul met Loyola last year in the all important city title game, it had only 17 eligible men.

More than 60 freshmen also are reporting daily.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

An old Greek legend was taken for a boat ride and a man named Joe Snay got very wet yesterday during the running of the third and final race for the Richardson cup, emblematic of the great lakes championship among R class yachts, at Belmont harbor. William H. Colvin's Atalanta, representing the Chicago Yacht club and Lake Michigan, won the trophy, defeating Spry, the Lake Ontario entry, by 34 seconds over a twice around triangular course. Gossoon, defender of the cup, which came down from Detroit to race for Lake Erie, was disqualified.

And in that disqualification lies the story of the mishap to the Greek legend and Mr. Snay. The myth had it that Atalanta, a swift footed Grecian gal, spurned offers of marriage by numerous boy friends until one of them should outrun her in a foot race. A lad by the name of Hippomenes then entered the competition, first tucking three golden apples in his belt. He dropped these at intervals during the race and Atalanta paused to pick them up while the wily Hippomenes was sprinting to the tape and a wife.

Snay Goes Overboard.

Gossoon, a broth of a boat, had no gilded fruit in its hold yesterday and doubtless had no intention of dropping one of its crew overboard to distract Atalanta. But that's what happened. The Detroit boat led Atalanta to the first mark and had a margin of twelve seconds when they started on the second leg.

Rounding the mark the closeness of the two boats caused a great confusion on the decks of both when it became time to set the light canvas. Atalanta got hers up first and Snay was one of two of the Gossoon's crew who were trying to do likewise when the accident occurred. Snay was working on the after guy and his mate on the fore guy when the latter released his too soon, causing Snay to fall overboard.

Atalanta Picks Him Up.

He was dragged under water for several yards by a rope which had gone over with him. Finally he came up, let go of the sheet, and was in such an exhausted condition that he was forced to send out the distress signal. Atalanta, being the nearest to him, laid off its course and pulled him aboard. This automatically disqualified Gossoon, for yachting rules states that a boat must pick up its own man if he goes overboard. Thus it was that Gossoon was forced to turn in for home with a crew of three, while Atalanta went on with five, although the fifth was a very wet and tired sailor.

A choppy sea and a shifting wind, southwest to southeast, greeted the three boats at the start. Atalanta was first across on the windward end of the line, with Gossoon and Spry crossing in the middle, slightly to weather. Halfway out on the course Spry split with Gossoon and Atalanta, taking a hitch to the south. Atalanta was outpointing Gossoon, but was being outfooted.

After a mile and a quarter the two boats converged and Atalanta, on the

CUBS' FIGHT FOR LEAD RECALLS 1911 STRUGGLE

Eastern Trip Parallels That of Chance's Team.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The vicissitudes of the Cubs of 1930 on their final eastern road trip during the last week have recalled the famous pennant race of 1911, when the machine that Frank Chance had carried through thick and thin for many years began to break up. That last eastern trip was the last gasp of a once invincible baseball machine, the final surrender to the ravages of time.

Today another great Cub machine is standing in the same position that the Cubs of 1911 occupied with this difference: The Cubs of that day were on their last legs, while the Cubs of today are still on top and apparently have plenty of fight. Nineteen years ago the pennant was snatched away from Chicago when it was so close you could almost hear it flapping.

Late in August of 1911 the Cubs went east just as the Cubs of the present went east less than a week ago. It was the last long jaunt of the year. Chance had his men in first place by a slender margin. They still had some of the class that from 1906 to 1910 had made them the terrors of the league. There was every indication in the world that they'd carry on through another season at least.

Old Machine Blows Up.

But they blew.

The old machine was slowed down a bit. Chance had turned over his first base labors to a youngster, Saier. Steinfeldt was gone from third base. Evers was an invalid. The names of Overall and Pfeister were off the pitching list. The peerless Brown remained. So did Ruelbach. Lew Richie had been picked up because he was a Giant killer. King Cole's right arm had taken the place of Pfeister. The outfield still had Sheckard, Hofman and Schulte, but the trio had slipped a bit.

In June of 1911 the Cubs offered the first hint of not being able to weather another stormy season. They moved into first place, but vacated after a week. They were being annoyed continually by the Pirates and Giants. From the top they dropped down as far as third but in the middle of the month they bounced back on top and that is where they were when Aug. 16 in Boston they began the journey that ended their last pennant bid. In another year there weren't many of the old gang left.

Show Old Power.

The first game in Boston was just one of those things which demonstrated the champions still had their power. They whipped the Rustlers by 13 to 6, giving them a lead of one game over the Pirates and two and one-half games over the Giants. The next day was less profitable. The Cubs were routed by Boston, 12 to 8, the Pirates

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Doeg Wrecks Tilden's Hopes of Net Record

Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 12.—[Special.]—Eleven years after he lost to William Johnston in the final of the 1919 tournament, William Tilden, seven times winner of the crown since 1920, and with the greatest European season of his career behind him, suffered his first defeat at the hands of an American in the national championships today. Ten thousand spectators watched incredulously from the stadium of the West Side Tennis club.

John Doeg, 21 year old blond California giant, the same youth who gave Tilden his stiffest fight in the championship last year, accomplished what no other player, save Henri Cochet in 1926 and Rene Lacoste in 1927, had been able to do in this tournament since Tilden first came to the throne a decade ago.

Shatters Tilden's Dream.

The defeat frustrated hopes of the 37 year old Philadelphia veteran of breaking a record that has stood since Richard D. Sears won the title for the seventh time in 1887. The score was 10-8, 6-3, 3-6, 12-10.

Not since Lacoste lowered the colors of Tilden in the 1927 final has there been so magnificent a struggle at Forest Hills as was this two hour battle, in which the aging master fought with reckless courage and employed all the strategy of his attack in an effort to repel Doeg.

Shields Beats Wood.

The defeat of Tilden almost made the gallery forget about the outcome of the other semi-final in which Sidney B. Wood Jr. met his master at the hands of Frank Shields. The strapping young New Yorker reversed the result of his previous meeting with Wood at Southampton, 6-2, 6-3, 4-6, 6-2.

The final tomorrow will bring together two of the youngest players ever to meet for the title and will witness the elevation of a new native champion for the first time since 1929. Shields will be 20 years old in November and Doeg will be 23 in December.

ALEXANDER'S OLD PAL, RHEM, HURLS CARDS TO 5-2 WIN

Giants Beaten by 3 Run Rally in Ninth.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Copyright: 1930: By The Chicago Tribune.]

New York, Sept. 12.—Cross words were spoken and one of the St. Louis boys tossed his stick angrily against the chicken wire grating of the hyena cage, to the momentary alarm of some of the barbers sitting there, as the Cardinals fought to close their series with the Giants with a third victory this sultry afternoon in Harlem.

The Cardinals frisked the ball game away from a big loose probationary pitcher named Jim Chaplin in the ninth inning, when they scored three runs in a burst of vigor that came almost as an afterthought. The final score was 5 to 2, and Gabby Street, disentombed from his retirement to lead a ball club that seemed to have only the humblest objectives at the start of the season, shooed his brash young men aboard a train for Boston at evening to play a week-end series of three games with the Braves, expecting no great difficulty there.

Giants About Out of Race.

Mr. Street was breathing hard in the rarefied atmosphere of second place, only half a game behind the Cubs and leading the Robins by the third dimension of a cigaret paper. The Giants ceased to figure in the competition for the championship, finding themselves four games out of first place with only fourteen yet to play. Their proprietor, Mr. Stoneham, who was once a broker, doubtless will recognize that this is more margin than his boys can furnish.

The scoring occurred in three convulsions, two for the Cardinals in inning No. 4, two for the Giants in the sixth, and then those three convincing runs for the St. Louis athletes in the ninth.

There were faces in the office window of the Giants' park, high up, just under the clock in the structure behind center field, and one of them was imagined to be the unhappy countenance of John McGraw, who had been exerting his master mind from that distance these last few days, he being ill, as who wouldn't be in similar circumstances?

Perhaps his physical presence would have altered the result. Some of the honorary managers sitting in the stands—a school of strategy similar to the downtown alumni of the Notre Dame football team—thought Dave Bancroft, the step-manager of the ball club, shouldn't have taken out Carl Hubbell, the starting pitcher, in the fifth inning, with two runners going, to let Bob O'Farrell strike out for him.

Rhem Hurls for Cardinals.

The pitching for the St. Louis club was performed entirely by Flint Rehm, the Carolina ghost drinker, who sacrificed himself one time a few years ago in one of the most picturesque acts of altruism ever recorded in the baseball business.

A pal of Grover Cleveland Alexander, then performing prodigies with baseballs and highballs in St. Louis, Mr. Rhem thought the matter out one night when Grover was setting out for his evening's evening and decided, contrary to his personal appetites and political convictions, you understand, to drink Aleck's every other drink, thus reducing Alexander's drinking by half for the sake of Aleck and the team. But Aleck, with the cunning that distinguishes persons of his temperament outwitted Mr. Rhem and undid him by the wily stratagem of doubling his rations, insisting that, while ball players might need ghosts to write their essays for the papers, he could drink his drinks in person.

"Greater love than this no man hath,' said Mr. Rhem to his employer, Mr. Breadon, explaining how it all came about, but Mr. Breadon only said, "O, ith that tho," or words to that effect, and sent him to the minors

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 12. — The Cubs' balloon came down this afternoon, and you should have seen our happy athletes scampering around on the nice, firm ground. When the landing ceremony was all over the official tabulator announced that he had been keeping track of things and that the Cubs had beaten the Phillies, 17 to 4.

Hack Wilson was the main celebrant of the landing festival. The pudgy one knocked his forty-ninth homer, two doubles, a single, and walked once. He scored four runs and drove in six, the half dozen today lifting his total of runs driven in this season to 170, and placing him 11 ahead of the old National league record and within five of the major league record. Cuyler and Hartnett were the runners up to Hack, Ki with a double, three singles, and a walk, and Gabby with his thirty-third homer, a single, and a walk.

Still Up There.

Woody English, who has been playing very brisk ball in the declining days of this torrid season, took rank with the heavy bat wielders. He made three singles and a double in six trips to the plate and scored four runs. He had a part in every rally save the one in the ninth inning. It was his double in the first after Blair singled that put the Cubs in the way of a three run rally that made the remainder of the day's task easy.

The day's doings in the National league left the Cubs still in first place by a half game over the Cardinals and Robins, but virtually eliminated the Giants, who now are four games out of first place with three clubs to pass.

The Phillies didn't mind the licking much, for they still were happy over having whipped the Cincinnati Reds three straight before the Cubs got here. And besides Thompson and Phillips knocked homers and Chuck Klein set a new National league record when he smacked his 53d double of the season in the third inning. This constituted enough fun for any tail end club at this time of year.

Tomorrow the two teams will play a double header and one of the games should be a battle, for it will see the talented Phil Collins, one of the best pitchers in the league despite his environment, pitching against Pat Malone. Osborn and Sweetland probable will oppose each other at the start of the second game.

They Can Gain Today.

If the Cubs can take both games of the double header they will increase their lead to a full game, no matter what the other contenders do, for the Cards play only a single game against Boston, and there will be but one contest between the Robins and the Reds.

With each first division club playing a second division club the Cubs have a chance to gain on all their pressing enemies. If everything would

Reds Extend Losing Streak to 8 Straight.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 12.—(AP)—The Robins continued their pursuit of the National league pennant today by defeating the Cincinnati Reds, 7 to 3, in the first game of the series. It was Brooklyn's eighth straight victory and marked the Robins' longest winning streak of the season. For the Reds it marked the eighth straight defeat.

The victory enabled the Robins to hold their place in the National league race a half game behind the Chicago Cubs and a point behind the St. Louis Cardinals as all three leaders won today's games.

Ray Moss pitched for the Robins and was effective except in the sixth inning when the Reds reached him for four singles and three runs. He yielded only eight hits.

Ray Kolp, Cincinnati starting pitcher, was the victim of all the Brooklyn scoring. The Robins bunched hits for one run in the first and another in the second. In the third frame, a home run by Al Lopez on a long drive which bounded into the left field bleachers brought in three runs and gave the Robins a safe lead. Another homer, Glenn Wright's 21st of the season, scored the last two Robin runs in the fifth.

YANKEES OUT OF RACE; DEFEATED BY DETROIT, 5-4

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 12.—(AP)—A double by Charley Gehringer, his third hit of the game, and a single by Dale Alexander with two out in the ninth inning today gave the Tigers a run that beat the New York Yankees, 5 to 4, in the opener of a five game series. The defeat cost the Yankees their last chance to take the American league pennant. The best they can do now is to finish a half game behind the Philadelphia Athletics, who were idle today. Ruth hit homer No. 46 in the second inning. Score:

SOX COLLECT 16 HITS, BUT LOSE TO SENATORS, 8 TO 7

Despite a handsome assortment of sixteen hits, one of them Carl Reynolds' 20th homer of the campaign, the White Sox weren't able to put hobbles on the Senators in the opener of the series yesterday. The trouble was that Mr. Alphonse Thomas made another of his feeble attempts at a comeback and gave away so many runs at the start that the pale hose couldn't catch up even by brilliant rallies in both the seventh and eighth innings. The score was 8 to 7.

Thomas had to desert the party before concluding the second inning, and before Garland Braxton succeeded in concluding the session, five Senators had scored, leaving the Sox in arrears by 6 to 0. Then there was a lull until the seventh during which Fred Marberry stopped the hose on five hits. Things changed for him in the seventh, however. His mates increased his working margin by two runs, but he blew in the home half to the extent of five tallies. He started to blow some more in the eighth, so he was yanked, but a couple of other pitchers filled in as relief men and saved the decision, which gave Marberry his thirteenth straight.

Rice Starts It.

It was evident that all was not going to go well with Thomas in the first inning. With one out, Rice scraped a single to Ryan, who made such an unhealthy peg to Watwood that the runner reached third. Manush fouled out, but Cronin hit to left and Rice jogged home.

The second round began with a double by Harris. He went to third on Haynes' long fly. Spencer fanned and then the fun started in earnest. Marberry scored Harris by singling. Myer slapped a two bagger to right, Marberry halting at third. Thomas selected this as a good spot in which to vanish. Braxton appeared and was greeted by Rice's double to center, Marberry and Myer counting. A single by Manush scored Rice. Cronin singled and when Cissell fumbled the return throw Manush continued to the plate with the fifth and last run of the chapter.

The next outbreak occurred in the seventh when the Senators were given two runs at bargain prices. With Manush on first and two out, Cronin singled to right and Mr. Jolley missed connections. The ball hopped to the fence, Manush scored and Cronin took third. After Judge had been passed Crouse tried to catch Cronin off third but pegged wild and Cronin ran home.

Reynolds Hits No. 20.

Five runs for the Sox in their half of the seventh started after one man was out. Ryan singled and scored on Crouse's double. Campbell, a rookie, batted for Braxton and singled, Crouse counting. Cissell flied out and Watwood doubled, Campbell scoring. Then Reynolds hammered home No. 20 into the seats in left and followed Watwood over the plate.

Giants' Chance in National League Flag Race Fades

Developments in the superheated National league race yesterday caused no changes so far as three of the four contenders were concerned. The Cubs still are in front by half a lap over the Cardinals and Robins, who are practically tied for second place. The day, however, was a sorry one for the Giants. Mathematically they still have a chance, but when they were beaten by the Cards yesterday their probabilities were reduced to nothing.

The Giants might not climb to first place even if they should win all of their fourteen remaining battles. They now are four games behind the leaders.

Yesterday's Cub victory cut down by one the number of victories needed to make the pennant fairly safe for the champions. It is figured they can clinch the flag with nine more. If the Cubs take 9 out of 14, the Cards 9 out of 15, the Robins 8 out of 13 and the Giants 10 out of 14, the final standing would be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Chicago	90	64	.587
St. Louis	89	65	.578
Brooklyn	89	65	.578
New York	87	67	.565

With two games on their schedule today, the Cubs have a chance to get on Easy street for a few days at least. A double win will increase their lead even if the other contenders take their games. Should the Cubs win a pair, the Cards beat Boston and the Robins slap down the Reds, the standing tonight would read:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Chicago	83	59	.585
St. Louis	81	59	.579
Brooklyn	82	60	.577

Should Lady Luck dash to the assistance of the Cubs by letting them win two today while the Cards and Robins were losing, the Chicagoans' lead would be stretched to two full games, as follows:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Chicago	83	59	.585
St. Louis	80	60	.571
Brooklyn	81	61	.570

If the Cubs should get no better than an even break with the Phils today while the Robins and Cardinals are winning, there will be a new leader by nightfall. The standing would change to:

	W.	L.	Pct.
St. Louis	81	59	.579
Chicago	82	60	.577
Brooklyn	82	60	.577

Double defeat for the Cubs while the Cards and Robins were scoring wins would plunge the champions to third place, as follows:

	W.	L.	Pct.
St. Louis	81	59	.579
Brooklyn	82	60	.577
Chicago	81	61	.570

EMERSON PREP ELEVEN BEATS PARKER, 6 TO 0

Gary, Ind., Sept. 12.—[Special.]—Night football was introduced to Gary tonight when Emerson of Gary defeated Parker of Chicago, 6 to 0, at Gleason field before a crowd of 9,000.

Emerson scored its touchdown in the second quarter. Capt. Rocky Schiralli plunged one yard for the score after several open field runs by Anderson and Thompson had carried the ball from Parker's 39 yard line.

Parker had two chances to score in the fourth quarter, but could not penetrate the Emerson line. The first opportunity resulted from two 15 yard penalties taken by Emerson for unnecessary roughness. This gave Parker the ball on the Emerson 11 yard line, but the Chicagoans were stopped on their own 7 yard line.

A short time later Parker swept down the field with a pass attack that didn't stop until it reached the Emerson six yard line. Parker then resorted to a pass that was grounded in the end zone.

CUBS' FIGHT FOR LEAD RECALLS 1911 STRUGGLE

were beaten and the Giants won a pair from Cincinnati. The Giants moved into second place, one game behind Chance's leaders.

In the third of the series at Boston the Cubs lost again when rain stopped them in six innings. Two setbacks in a row by Boston had not been counted on. The Giants were idle that day; so they gained a half lap. The next day the Cubs redeemed themselves by trouncing the Rustlers, 16 to 8. It was a big afternoon for Frank Schulte, the Babe Ruth of the day. He hit his twentieth homer. The Pirates and Giants broke even, making the Cub lead one game.

On the afternoon of Aug. 21 the Cubs stormed into the Polo grounds for one of those stirring series that are still going on. Chance sent his Giant Killer, "Lurid Lew" Richie, into action against Rube Marquard. In the storm stirred up by two bitter foes and 20,000 partisans Evers was chased from the field. McGraw and Doyle of the Giants went with him. They had aroused the ire of stern Bill Klem. Marquard throttled the Cubs on six hits and fanned ten. The Giants won, 3 to 2, in ten innings. The Cubs were still in first place, but by only four points.

Brown Surrenders Lead.

Brown, the man who for years had been a thorn in the side of the Giants, was turned loose against them on Aug. 22. Going into the eight he had a 5 to 2 lead and 20,000 partisans were silently awaiting the finish. Brown collapsed just as pitchers of today collapse. Three runs in the eighth tied it and a run in the ninth won it for the New Yorkers. First place was turned over to McGraw.

With only one day of rest Richie was back at his favorite task on Aug. 23. The Cubs gave him a three run lead off Wiltse in the first inning and he held it, finally winning by 6 to 2. The Cubs went back into first place. Meanwhile the Pirates were so close that even though in third place they were only a game behind the Chicagoans.

The next day the Cubs were over in Brooklyn battling the "Infants." Reulbach weakened at the finish. The Infants tied the score in the ninth and won out in the tenth. Over in New York the Giants broke even with the Pirates. It put the McGraw crowd in a tie with the Cubs for first place.

Rain Puts Giants Ahead.

On Aug. 25 a slight rain gave the late Charles Ebbets a chance to cancel the show and make possible a double header, for which he had a natural liking. The rain didn't cause a cancellation at New York, however. The Giants played and won, giving them almost the equivalent of a one game lead. The Cubs never caught up.

The Giants beat the Pirates on Aug. 26 while the Cubs were dividing a double header at Brooklyn. The Cubs moved to Philadelphia and won two games, but the Giants also won a pair in that time, one a two hit triumph by Marquard over St. Louis. The Giants' lead stretched to two and one-half games. A few days later, the Cubs being idle, the Giants were ahead by 3½ games and 4½ ahead of the third place Pirates. Then the Cubs went west. Evers, who had been ill, returned to the game and a late September rush was looked for. It never materialized. The machine had broken down and it stayed down.

What's a Stiff Neck? Cub Fans Watch Loop Boards

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Loop crowds fairly breathed baseball atmosphere yesterday. On a dozen corners hundreds collected to watch and talk and cheer as improvised scoreboards in store windows told how the Cubs were aroused at last and were scoring an overwhelming victory.

The usual throngs were swirling around State and Washington yesterday afternoon a little before 2 o'clock, but presently man after man detached himself from the stream of pedestrians and stood at attention staring at a second story window across the street. In that window was a diagram of a baseball diamond and a lineup of the Cubs and Phillies.

Crane Necks to See Board.

Women, as well as men began joining the crowd and it grew steadily until it almost filled the sidewalk from curb to display window. It stretched half way down the block, and across the street another was forming, in spite of the fact that persons who made it up were forced to teeter back on their heels and stare almost vertically into the air to bring the scoreboard within their range of vision.

Up near State and Lake there was a somewhat more elaborate scoreboard with a sign beside it telling how So-and-So's 100% wool suits were now available for $22.50 due to the fact that the middleman's profit had been eliminated. Hundreds were staring attentively while what appeared to be the store's entire force bustled about the window, whisking double play placards and strike out signs from nowhere with the air of sleight of hand experts doing parlor tricks.

Over on Dearborn street south of Madison another crowd had collected before a barber shop, and this group was the most patient of all. For results were hung up only at the end of each half inning instead of after every pitched ball.

No Advertising Here.

This display was the only one which gave no indication of being mercenary. The barbers had forborne to hang out a sign, "If you need a trimming, we will do it." It was assumed that, being professional men, they could not adopt the methods of the ordinary tradesmen, so with aloofness they even neglected to say, "We aim to please."

"I hate to tell you what I think," a benevolent looking gentleman said to a friend, peering at him the while over a pair of spectacles. "I think the Cubs are through. It's tough, but it's all in a lifetime."

A few minutes later the Cubs had scored three runs, a few more minutes and Hack Wilson had pounded out his 49th home run, and the attitude of the crowd had changed from apprehension to exhilaration.

When the final score of 17 to 4 was chalked up, the scoreboard spectators who had come to scoff or cheer dissolved again in the State street throngs, hailing the Cubs as heroes—for one more day at least.

Cub Fan Praises Team's Courage Under Handicaps

Praises Team's Courage.

"I just want to express my opinion of Joe McCarthy and his ball club. With all the tough luck they have had this year it makes one wonder how they have stayed in first place so long. The answer is that they are a bunch of good, game fighters. I am for Joe McCarthy and his club first, last, and all the time. JOHN A. THOMAS,
"6821 St. Lawrence avenue."

Cub Fan, Win or Lose.

"Any one living in Chicago is a poor sportsman if he is not pulling for the Cubs. With the very trying circumstances they have been under this year it is a miracle that they have had the heart to go on. They are a fighting team to the last man and great credit should be given to them all. I can only listen to the games over the radio, but I will root for them whether they win or lose.
"MRS. HELEN MASULLA,
"4659 North Kedzie avenue."

CUBS BEAT PHILS, 17 TO 4; CLING TO HALF GAME LEAD

Wilson's 49th Home Run Leads Parade.

work out as the Cubs would have it, their lead tomorrow night would be two games over the Cards and Robins and five and a half over the Giants. Don't bet on it turning out this way, however.

The Cubs made three times as many runs in the first inning as they did in the entire Brooklyn series, and before the first putout of the game they also made more than a fourth of the total number of hits they acquired in the Robin series.

Blair opened the game with a single to left and stopped at third when English doubled along the right foul line. Cuyler singled to right center, scoring Blair and English, and Wilson singled to right, putting Cuyler on third. Ki was trapped between third and home on Dan Taylor's tap to Whitney and Taylor was forced by Kelly, Wilson taking third. Hartnett's grounder got between Thevenow's heels, Wilson scoring and Kelly taking third, but the inning ended when Bell forced Hartnett.

Phils Fill Bases.

The Phils got the bases full in their end of the first, but nobody got home. Brickell fouled to Hartnett, but Thompson walked and went to second on Friberg's single to left. Klein forced Friberg, Thompson taking third, and when one of Teachout's pitches got away from Hartnett, Klein went to second. Whitney walked, filling the bases, but Sherlock grounded to Bell, who stepped on third to force Klein.

After the first inning the affair ceased to be a ball game, but we know that after the Brooklyn famine you need the tonic effect of reading about the Cub hits and runs, so we're going to tell you about all of them if it takes all evening.

Teachout was thrown out to start the Cub second, then Blair was hit by a pitched ball. English forced Blair, then went to third on Cuyler's double to left. It was at this point Mr. Hack socked out No. 49. He did it after a count of three balls and two strikes. English and Cuyler preceded Hack across the place, of course. Thevenow threw out D. Taylor.

Cubs Score Three in Fourth.

The Cubs went scoreless in the third despite passes to Hartnett and Bell and a sacrifice by Teachout. They would have made at least one run, but Umpire Scott had a generous moment, which didn't worry anybody much.

Both clubs produced in the fourth, the Cubs making three runs and the Phils one. English started the Chicago end with a single to right and Cuyler walked. Wilson then doubled to right, scoring English, Cuyler stopping at third. English's was the 168th run driven in by Hack this year. Dan Taylor singled to center, scoring [Cuyler] and Hack. Kelly forced Dan Taylor, Hartnett singled to right, Kelly stopping at second. Kelly went to third on Bell's sacrifice fly, but Teachout flied to Klein.

Now, here's the record of the hurricane sixth: Kelly was hit by a pitched ball. Hartnett fouled to Davis. Bell singled to left, Kelly stopping at second. Teachout forced Bell, Kelly taking third. Blair, English and Cuyler singled, then Wilson doubled and D. Taylor singled, all for a net of six runs after two were out.

Gabby Hits a Homer.

The Phils made one in the fourth on Phillips' single, Brickell's double and Wilson's throwing error, one in the seventh on Thompson's homer, and two in the eighth on Thevenow's single and Phillips' homer.

Here Are Some Refreshing Facts on Cubs' Comeback

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 12.—To give you some idea how refreshing today's landing really was, the following facts are set down.

The Cubs made 20 hits in the nine innings this afternoon. They made 15 hits, five in each game, in the Brooklyn series.

In each of five innings today the Cubs made more runs than they did in the entire Brooklyn series.

In the sixth inning today they made as many runs as they would have made in 18 games in Brooklyn, figuring on the basis of their accomplishments in the three Brooklyn games.

Root is alleged to have a sore elbow. But the press has been warned by Charley not to report on Charley's arm. So take it or leave it. Charley has a sore arm or he hasn't a sore arm. Anyhow, he didn't pitch today, and he was the logical choice.

Fred Blake still is with the team. Has a stone in his kidney, or something like that.

One of the things that has made the Cubs happier is the fact that you can rent radios in the hotel here. In New York the patent music boxes weren't allowed.

KARL EITEL'S RUN FAILS TO CATCH CHIMNEY SWEEP

Makes Up 15 Lengths to Lose by Inches.

BY FRENCH LANE.

These noble stretch runs which fall only a couple of inches short of victory are getting to be sort of an old custom out at Lincoln Fields. Karl Eitel, Ald. Coughlin's speedy son of Polymelian, staged one yesterday. Some horse of note has been doing it every afternoon for a week.

It is not exaggerating one bit to say that Karl Eitel made up something like fifteen lengths in the last furlong of the Matteson purse. He ran like the wind. Horses wilted and staggered behind him as he made his mighty challenge.

He was still going in this fashion at the end of the six furlong combat, but it happened that Chimney Sweep, from Harry Payne Whitney's barn, had been running in that fashion most of the way. The son of Whisk Broom II was still there when it came time to hang out the official numbers.

Whips Princeton First.

They gave him the decision by a neck. It looked as if he wasn't more than an inch and a half in front of Karl Eitel. If those noble old steeds like Karl Eitel, Golden Prince, and others which have staged such hair-raising finishes lately would run a bit in the early part of their races they would be fattening up their owners' bank rolls.

Chimney Sweep had to run as his famous old daddy used to run to score his triumph. He had to go out and conquer the fleet Princeton first. Then he had to withstand challenges from Zacaweista, Prose and Poetry and Pious before Karl Eitel came along with his strong bid.

He couldn't have held Karl Eitel safe any longer. Chimney Sweep ran the six furlongs in 1:11 3-5, and had been backed by the Whitney connections. He paid $7.88 to win, $4.12 to place and $2.90 to show. Karl Eitel was a 15 to 1 shot and paid $9.86 to place.

In Haste Victor.

In Haste, fast running Kentucky daughter of Haste-Inquiry and paying $37.34 in the mutuels, won the Niles Center purse for 2 year olds. She overcame all sorts of handicaps, had to weave in and out from the rail in the stretch to find racing room, but came on to beat Fair Missie by a length with In Between from E. B. McLean's stable third.

There was a terrible plunge on Polly Play and it made her the short priced favorite. She flattered by fighting for the lead in the early stages, but when the real battle came in the stretch, had nothing left and the leaders had no trouble going past her.

In Haste was ridden by M. Rose and his careful way he guided her through the tight pockets brought him a round of applause from the big week day crowd.

New York, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Fifteen 2 year old thoroughbreds tonight quietly munched their oats in their stalls at the Belmont Park track, where on tomorrow they will set forth in the Futurity, the richest race on the American turf.

Although the entries are two fewer than last year, when Harry Payne Whitney's Whichone won $105,730, the richest purse in American turf history, there will be no lacking of quality on tomorrow when the youngsters face Starter George Cassidy.

The 1929 renewal of the historic turf classic figured as strictly an all Whitney affair, but in contrast, tomorrow's running looms as a wide open affair with the three outstanding candidates for the 1930 juvenile title battling with 12 other speedsters for the winner's prize, which should amount close to $100,000. If all fifteen start, the race will gross $108,600.

In an effort to make it two straight Whitney is sending out Equipoise, which many say is equal to Whichone. Unlike last year, however, when the Whitney silks were the favorite, Equipoise will rule the second choice tomorrow, public favoritism being conferred on George D. Widener's Jamestown.

OLD MYTH TAKEN FOR A BOAT RIDE; ATALANTA WINS

port tack, made a feint to go under Gossoon's stern. The latter then came about to cover, but Skipper Bill Faurot of the Atalanta put her helm hard down, just missing Gossoon's port shrouds, and came about on the starboard tack, with the wind clear.

Atalanta wasn't quite able to lay the mark, however, and Gossoon came about on the starboard tack, crossing the Chicago boat's bow by a boat length. They reached the mark with Gossoon twelve seconds in front and Spry but three lengths back of Atalanta. Spry made a surprising showing for a boat that had been twice damaged in transit.

Atalanta Wins by 4 Lengths

Here it is that Mr. Snay came to grief and the race became a two boat affair between Atalanta and Spry. The former held a two boat length lead at the second mark, but on the first run home, she set the wrong canvas, and Spry passed her two-thirds of the way in. At the mark she led by two lengths, and gained another on the way out when the wind freshened. It lightened again, and Atalanta took a lead of four lengths. She held this to the end. Spry sought to take the weather berth on the last leg, but failed, having a light reaching spinnaker instead of a big one. She worked to weather, but lost it on squaring away.

The Atalanta's winning crew was composed of Skipper Faurot, Fred Spencer, Larry Hendrickson and Malcolm D. Vail.

MRS. SAUNDERS WINS GOLF PLAY AT NORTH SHORE

A field of 150 competed in the women's invitational tournament held yesterday at the North Shore Golf club. Low gross was won by Mrs. H. P. Saunders of North Shore with a 90, and low net by Mrs. A. J. Bemis of Evanston with 93—11—82.

One hundred and twenty golfers competed in the annual Ballyhoo day at Brookwood Country club yesterday. V. M. Huntington of the home club won low gross for 36 holes, scoring 75—76—151. At the end of the 36 holes R. W. Bramberg of Brookwood and Dr. E. Seeards of Olympia Fields tied with 142 for low net honors. Bramberg won the draw. Other prize winners follow:

First low gross foursome—V. M. Huntington, F. M. Pebbles, Walter Corbly and H. K. Nichols, 644. Low net foursome—R. W. Bramberg, R. G. Leangar, W. H. Glader, and E. J. McInernery, 604.

Coach Gives Tribune Grid Contestants Tips on Passing

Eddie Anderson, head coach of the De Paul university football team and former all-American end at Notre Dame, has a few tips for contestants in THE TRIBUNE's forward passing contests.

"There's no doubt that all coaches prefer an accurate passer rather than one who can throw long distances, but is uncertain in his aim," Anderson said yesterday in comment on the rules under which the preliminary contests will be conducted.

"With practice," he continued, "a boy should be able to score four out of five tosses at a three foot target from a distance of 20 yards."

Finger Tips on Lacing.

His suggestions to passers apply to those boys who are able to grip the ball. Look at the illustration. In gripping the ball with his right hand Anderson has spread his fingers with the tips on the lacing as an aid to holding the ball. The palm of the hand does not touch the ball.

Then bring the rear point of the ball back of the right ear. Throwing from this position the impetus is given with the forearm and the ball is released from the finger tips imparting a spiral which holds a true line of flight.

The younger boys in THE TRIBUNE's tests—14 years of age and under—will throw 15 yards. All seven of the preliminary contests will start at 9 a. m. a week from today. They will be held at Bessemer park, Washington park, Douglas park, Kelvyn park, Mills' stadium, De Paul field, and Loyola field.

Entries Close Monday.

Entries close Monday. The drop kicking contests will be held at the same time. The entry blank registers each boy for both tests.

The finals will be held Sept. 27 at Mills' stadium. The four champions will be the guests of THE TRIBUNE at either the Notre Dame-Navy game at South Bend, Oct. 11, or the Northwestern-Illinois game at Champaign, Oct. 18. If the winners are members of high school teams and are unable to attend these games because their own elevens are playing, they may choose any other college game within the same radius of Chicago.

DO IT THIS WAY!

This is the manner in which Coach Eddie Anderson of De Paul university advises entrants in The Tribune's football contest to hold the ball when forward passing. Some passers hold their thumb on the lacing rather than their finger tips.

CARNERA SPEEDS WORK FOR BOUT AGAINST GROSS

Primo Carnera, Italian heavyweight, who makes his final appearance in this country Wednesday night at the Chicago Stadium against Jack Gross of Philadelphia, completed his second day's drill yesterday at his outdoor camp at Roby speedway. Carnera boxed with Fred Caldori and Al Walker.

Mique Malloy, who is promoting Carnera's bout, announced yesterday that King Levinsky may appear against Mickey Walker at the Stadium Sept. 29. Walker is under contract while Malloy holds an option on Levinsky's services. The King has a badly injured hand as a result of his knockout of Leo Lomski Thursday night and he may not be able to accept the Walker match.

CARDINALS SCORE 3 RUNS IN NINTH; BEAT GIANTS, 5-2

However, Mr. Rhem pitched himself a graceful game of baseball today, allowing only seven hits, not too thickly grouped, except in the sixth, and though he complained of the umpiring at times, only two bases on balls were charged against him. Once he tossed his glove in the air and fanned himself with his cap in irritation over some rulings by Will Klem and some other petulant gestures set the crowd to yowling, "Sore head" and "Boo."

He may have been displeased with himself, too, because he hit a double, unofficially scored as the miracle play, in the seventh inning, and then overran the bag and was put out protesting. The patrons also addressed some lose remarks at Jimmy Wilson, the Cardinals' catcher, when he fouled out in the same inning and whirled his bat away against the press coop. But the inmates of the coop, being golfers and niblick throwers to a man and woman, only looked at Mr. Wilson with sympathy and understanding.

Cards Take 2-0 Lead in Fourth.

Except a base on balls to Sparky Adams in the first inning, the Cardinals went out in order until Frank Frisch made the first hit against Hubbell in the fourth. Jim Bottomley, or Bumley according to your preference, then fouled out and in this connection it is no pleasure to put down that this jaunty hero has made only one hit in six games, but that one a homer which beat the Giants Wednesday. Following Bottomley, Chick Hafey hit to left, scoring Adams, who had walked ahead of Frisch, and promoting Frisch to third. Ray Blades scored Frisch with a hit past Lindstrom, so the score was 2 to 0.

The Giants had made only two infield hits when Jackson and Roettger broke through with singles to the outer zones in the fifth. Emboldened now, Leach doubled in the sixth and Lindstrom followed with a triple, scoring him, and came in himself soon after on Terry's sacrifice fly.

The ninth was a blurry inning. Hafey, Watkins and Wilson singled, Hafey scoring on Wilson's hit. Then Gelbert bumped one to Terry and he sent Shanty Hogan lumbering away to capture a bad throw as Watkins rolled into the plate with the second run. Wilson tried to impose further on Terry's error, but Hogan nailed him with a throw back to Terry. Gelbert, however, with no reason to wait, had taken third in the confusion and scored the final run when Rhem went crazy and made his second hit.

Cubs Draw This Many at One Game.

So it all ended and as the series drew to a close it developed that the offhand estimates of the attendance have been more flattery than fact. The average box office score at the first three games was only 12,000, not 20,000, and today's crowd was no more than 11,000 souls, if that's a crowd. Altogether, four ball games of the familiar crucial type in the city of the six million drew only a few thousand more than the Cubs have been drawing at single games in Chicago, not counting the thousands who have been turned away from the Cubs' park on several afternoons.

TOUR OF ILLINOIS WATERWAY NEXT ON HURLEY LIST

Secretary Plans Inspection, Chicago to Grafton.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Helena, Ark., Sept. 12.—[Special.]—An inspection trip of the Illinois waterway, from Chicago to Grafton, Ill., definitely was decided upon by Secretary Hurley today. The cruise probably will be made early next year and the secretary will be accompanied by the same staff of engineers with whom he is now studying navigation and flood control problems of the Mississippi.

"Completion of the inland waterways in Illinois is of the greatest importance in bringing commerce back upon the rivers of the United States," said Secretary Hurley.

Demonstrate Its Use.

"It has been said, and truly, that barge line service will not have had its greatest opportunity until some great market, such as the one in Chicago and its surrounding territory, has been opened up."

The present expedition from St. Paul to New Orleans has been of such value in bringing home to the secretary the possibilities of river transportation that he is looking forward eagerly to the Illinois waterway investigation. He will use an airplane for a bird's-eye view of the improvements under construction along the Illinois river. He again stressed the fact that Illinois is entitled to an early completion of its waterway because it has been forward in spending its own money on improvements.

The Hurley party left Memphis early today and spent most of the day following the turns of the Mississippi between the states of Mississippi and Arkansas. A short stop was made at Helena, Ark., but most of the day's cruise was through flat, wooded country with no sign of human habitation for miles.

Difficult for Navigation.

This stretch of river was the last section of the channel difficult for navigation. The peculiar problem of the river here is the manner in which it eats away one shore and builds upon the opposite bank, the channel constantly varying.

"The river may be compared to a snake, pinioned at head and tail," said Brig. Gen. T. H. Jackson, president of the Mississippi river commission, in describing to the engineers the typical behavior of the stream. "The river writhes back and forth in exactly the same manner as the serpent and our problem is to subdue this constant changing by dikes and dams. We are succeeding, but slowly."

From here on navigation becomes easier, according to the engineers, until, as it nears Baton Rogue, it becomes the "pilot's dream," a deep, swiftly flowing waterway devoid of the sand bars, towheads, snags and shoals that imperil progress farther up. Some day these engineers predict hopefully the 2,000 miles of the entire Mississippi will be improved to a similar condition.

Presents Louisiana Plan.

Harry Jacobs, chairman of the Louisiana state board of engineers, joined the party at Helena and laid before Secretary Hurley the so-called "Louisiana plan" for flood control. This plan calls for an extensive revision of the present flood control plan which was devised by Maj. Gen. Edgar Jadwin, retired, while he was chief of army engineers.

THREE MEN ROB BANK OF $15,000 AT MADISON, ILL.

Cashier, Girl Forced to Lie on Floor.

Madison, Ill., Sept. 12.—(AP)—The First National bank of Madison was held up by three men today and robbed of an amount estimated by Cashier C. O. Naumer at $15,000. The men escaped in an automobile.

The only employés in the bank were C. O. Naumer, cashier, and Miss Margaret Brown, an employé. Miss Brown fainted during the holdup.

Robber Vaults Partition.

Two of the robbers took positions near the door while one, apparently the leader, advanced to the bulletproof cage and vaulted the seven foot partition.

Naumer and Miss Brown were compelled to lie on the floor, where the young woman fainted. The robber drew a cloth bag from his pocket, scooped up money, and then joined his companions.

Running from the bank together, the three men climbed into an automobile, in which an accomplice waited

Citizens Fight Bank Robbers.

Merriman, Neb., Sept. 12.— (AP) — Three armed men invaded this little western town today and robbed the Anchor bank of $8,000, and escaped through fierce gunfire of citizens.

One of the trio slumped over as their heavy sedan roared north out of town and spectators believed he was wounded. A posse hunted for the robbers by auto, while Sheriff Hammon of Valentine secured an airplane to extend the hunt into the sand hills.

Minnesota Bank Robbed.

Grandy, Minn., Sept. 12.—(AP)—In the second bank robbery in Minnesota in two days a bandit held up the State Bank of Grandy this afternoon and escaped with about $1,000.

Harrisburg, S. D., Sept. 12.—(AP)—Three men held up the Harrisburg State bank today and escaped with $3,000.

$2,540,000 Estate Left by Mrs. Minnie S. Towne

An inventory of the estate of Mrs. Minnie Simmons Towne of Evanston, who died last May, was filed with Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the Probate court, yesterday. It lists securities valued at $2,500,000 and real estate worth $40,000. The largest holding is 50,120 shares of Simmons company stock, valued at $1,453,480. One-half of the estate is bequeathed to her husband, Arthur S. Towne, and the other half will go to her daughter, Mrs. Warren Buckley. Mrs. Towne was the daughter of Z. G. Simmons, founder of the Simmons Bed company.

OHIO SCHOOL OF AIR FORMS RADIO CHAIN TO SERVE COLLEGES

Columbus, O., Sept. 12.—(AP)—B. H. Darrow of the Ohio department of education today announced the formation of a chain of college radio stations to augment the Ohio School of the Air.

Under the new plan, Darrow said, educational programs will be broadcast from WLW, Cincinnati, on short wave, to be rebroadcast by the college group, which includes KOB, State college, New Mexico; WAPI, Alabama Poly, University of Alabama, and Alabama college; WCAJ, Nebraska Wesleyan, Lincoln; WEAO, Ohio State university, and WTAW, A. and M. college, Texas.

The Ohio School of the Air broadcasts will be resumed Sept. 22. It is planned to broadcast one program from Washington, D. C., each week.

HOOVER PLEDGES U.S. FINANCIAL AID FOR SAN DOMINGO

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12.—(AP)—President Hoover said today this country would coöperate in every way possible with the attempts of the dominican government to raise money for hurricane reconstruction work. Three million dollars is being sought.

The President said this country would not stand in the way of the proposed loan flotation for money to meet the hurricane emergency. Under a long standing agreement, the dominican republic may not increase its exterior indebtedness without consulting the United States.

Chicagoan Distributes Milk.

SANTO DOMINGO, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Due to the hurricane disaster, babies are suffering for the lack of milk, and it is predicted that this will result in many deaths. Miss Katherine Fribley of Chicago, welfare nurse at the International hospital for nine years, operates the only baby clinic in the city and in four days has distributed more than 2,000 quarts of milk, but says this is wholly inadequate.

RAISE 1ST STEEL COLUMN OF FAIR TRAVEL BUILDING

The first steel column of the Travel and Transport building the $1,000,000 structure which will house the transportation exhibits for the World's Fair of 1933, was erected yesterday. Dr. William Allen Pusey, Max Epstein, and Birger Osland, fair trustees, assisted in bolting the column in place.

The building, which is being erected on the lake front, between 31st and 25th streets, will require 3,500 tons of steel and 90,000 feet of steel cable.

Europe O. K.'s Fair.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 12.—Surprised at the widespread interest Europeans have in the Chicago Century of Progress fair of 1933 and highly pleased at the success of his efforts to promote plans for the exposition, Rufus C. Dawes wound up a three weeks tour of Europe today. He will return to America tomorrow aboard the Empress of Australia.

During his visit Mr. Dawes opened a London office for the fair. Col. J. S. Oswell has been placed in charge.

"I visited fairs at Stockholm, Liege and Antwerp, and saw much to instruct and inspire us," Mr. Dawes said. "We have been greatly encouraged and somewhat surprised by the interest and promises of support from men prominent in government and experienced in the management of museums and expositions. The plans and purposes announced for the Century of Progress fair have met with general approval."

Melvin P. Riley, Former Alderman, Dies Aged 60

Melvin P. Riley, former president of the Employing Contractors association and alderman of the old 13th ward for two terms more than 20 years ago, died yesterday at his home, 1437 Hood avenue, after a long illness. He was 60 years old and a native of Grundy county. Surviving are his widow, Catherine, and two sons. Funeral services will be held at 10:30 a. m. today at St. Gertrude's church, with burial in Mount Olivet cemetery, Joliet, Ill.

RED CROSS SEEKS WAR PLEDGES FOR AIR AMBULANCES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 12.—Red Cross airplanes and flying ambulances will share the same immunity that their vehicles and ships enjoy in time of war according to the plans for the international convention which the international league of Red Cross societies is preparing for the 14th conference to be held at Brussels Oct. 6 to 11. This will be attended by delegates from 59 countries.

Dr. Andre Sand, director of the international organization, said that elaborate plans were afoot to protect all forms of Red Cross work and to avoid the violation of ambulances and hospitals such as occurred during the world war.

Projects to safeguard the civilian population against dangers of chemical and basteriological warfare and all forms of aerial and long distance bombardments are being envisaged also. Proposals are being drafted too for amelioration of blockade conditions in war time. These are expected to create considerable difficulty owing to British support and American opposition to the blockade principle.

THE CURE BEGINS IN THE KITCHEN

SO MANY people suffer from constipation. It steals health and happiness. They spend millions of dollars yearly on pills and drugs.

That's the wrong way to try to cure constipation. The right way is to correct the diet—to add enough roughage to your food to sweep the poisons out of your system.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to do this. You'll enjoy it as a ready-to-eat cereal, with milk or cream. A delicious food for maintaining health.

Use Kellogg's ALL-BRAN also for making bran muffins and breads. Adds a pleasant, nut-like flavor to omelets, soups, salads. At all grocers in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

MOTORIST SOON MAY BUY TIRES AT GAS STATION

Standard of Ind. to Extend Service.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The Standard Oil Company of Indiana believes that the three essentials of motoring are gas, oil, and tires. So it is going to add the selling and servicing of tires in addition to selling gas and oil, throughout its territory in the middle west.

This innovation, which was announced by President E. G. Seubert yesterday, will go into effect about Oct. 15. The company will sell and service tires at 1,000 stations in 550 cities and towns and further distribution will be carried on as soon as possible through 8,200 controlled service stations and through garages, stations, and stores handling Standard of Indiana products.

Fit Into Scheme.

"We are taking an important, evolutionary step in developing our marketing policy," the statement said, "but we feel that we are only meeting the demand of the public for more service from the service station. We can almost say that our action is forced by the trend of the times. For a long time the motorist has been dependent on the service station, the garage, and the roadside store for the servicing of tires with air. Now he may turn to these for complete tire service day and night, including Sundays.

"While we have sold some commodities other than petroleum products at service stations, we have not previously done so in anything like the large way we are now undertaking as to tires. Tires fit naturally into our selling arrangements."

Standard of Indiana also will sell its tires at wholesale to independent dealers and the company expects to make reciprocal agreements with other oil companies for the servicing of tires sold by the companies in their respective territories.

Sears Roebuck, A. & P. Sales.

Irregularities in the merchandising field were evidenced again yesterday. Sears, Roebuck and company, mail order and chain store concern, reported sales for the four weeks ended Sept. 10 at $28,030,215, which was a decrease of $4,612,031, or 14.1 per cent from the $32,642,246 registered in the corresponding period in 1929. However, the August-September figures marked a gain of 10.6 per cent over the preceding four weeks, although it fell short of the 17.6 per cent gain registered in the same period a year ago.

Sales thus far this year have totaled $381,637,498, a decline of $17,476,084, or 4.5 per cent from the corresponding period in 1929.

On the other hand, the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company reported a new record for August sales, which totaled $73,362,868, an increase of $3,172,226, or 4.22 per cent over August, 1929. Because of the decline in retail food prices the gain in tonnage sales was greater than the increase in dollar sales. August tonnage sales totaled 389,113 tons, an increase of 53,485 tons, or 15.94 per cent over August last year.

Pick Up in August.

"August business was at an accelerated pace," a statement said. "Reports from the company's divisions throughout the country indicates a stronger inclination to buy on the part of the public. All indices of the company encourage it to believe that an improvement has begun which will continue through the fall and winter."

Sales of the John R. Thompson company for August, with four less stores operating than a year ago, totaled $1,307,515, compared with $1,330,828 in August, 1929. This was a decline of about 9 per cent.

The weekly mercantile reviews reported some further improvement in several lines.

"With full allowance for the seasonal character of the change, and with recognition of the negative phases which still prevail, the upturn in business is more clearly defined," Dun's review says. "After two weeks of September, it is possible to take a more hopeful view of the outlook, and this better feeling is supported both by expectations of improvement to come and some tangible instances of present gains."

"The trade report for this week, as for three preceding similar periods, is that of moderate increases in distribution both at wholesale and retail, with the former leading and the aggregate of small resumptions or increases in forces combining to make more cheerful reading than in the depth of the depression of midsummer," says Bradstreet's review.

Independents Accuse Nebraska Chain Grocers

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 12.—(AP)—Several Nebraska chain grocery store operators are to be summoned to appear before Attorney General C. A. Sorenson to defend themselves of charges filed by independent merchants alleging restraint of trade and violation of the state anti-discrimination law. Announcing his decision to sift the charges, Mr. Sorensen said today the complaints accused chain store groups of selling staple articles cheaper at one city than at another. Sorenson said he would avail himself of the law if necessary to subpœna witnesses and procure books and records and other evidence.

Newsprint Production Declines During August

Newsprint production decreased in both Canadian and United States mills in August. Canadian production in August was 202,043 tons, against 216,-[illegible] tons in July and 225,873 in August last year. Production in United States mills in August totaled 161,601 tons, against 170,540 in July and 120,565 in August last year.

Taplin Rail System Plan Gets Setback

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12.—(AP)—Plans of Frank E. Taplin and his associates for a new railroad system received a sharp setback today in a recommendation to the interstate commerce commission that the Pittsburgh and West Virginia's application for control of the Wheeling and Lake Erie railroad be denied.

The recommendation, made by C. V Burnside, assistant director of the commission's finance bureau, was without prejudice and a revised application for control may be made. The commission must approve the recommendation before it becomes final.

Taplin, president of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia, outlined in hearings on the application plans for a new general system which was to include, in addition to the Pittsburgh and West Virginia and the Wheeling, the Western Maryland, and the Wabash, with the Lehigh Valley forming an extension of the Wabash from Buffalo to New York.

Opposed by Nickel Plate.

The application was opposed by the Nickel Plate, controlled by the Van Sweringens and by the Wheeling itself. Other intervenors were the Wabash Railroad company, and the Pittsburgh Investment company.

Control of the Wheeling for years has caused controversy among lines serving eastern trunk line territory. In connection with the Pittsburgh and West Virginia it forms a direct route between Lake Erie ports and the Pittsburgh district. Both roads under the commission's general consolidation plan were assigned to the Wabash-Seaboard system but under an earlier tentative plan of consolidation in 1921 the two were assigned to the Nickel Plate-Lehigh Valley system.

After reviewing the arguments for and against control of the Wheeling by Taplin's road, the examiner said the applicant proceeded upon the assumption that it could build up its proposed system piecemeal.

Sees Important Issue.

"In this case," Burnside said, "the issue is of far-reaching importance and the commission should not proceed with a piecemeal disposition of important constituent roads without conclusive evidence that the local relationships authorized may not later require upsetting by broader considerations."

Burnside reviewed testimony by Taplin that 73 per cent of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia's outstanding capital stock was owned by the Pennroad corporation, an investment corporation acting for the Pennsylvania Railroad company. He said that although Taplin still voted the stock, it appeared that the Pennroad corporation could control and direct the vote if it felt that any action taken by Taplin was detrimental to its investment.

ASKS REHEARING ON JOINT RAIL AND LAKE RATES

A petition to the interstate commerce commission, urging reconsideration and reargument of the joint rail and lake rates between Chicago and the east, is now being prepared by the Chicago Association of Commerce.

The trade group maintains that the present joint water and rail rates, when compared with all rail schedules, are out of line with the expressed policies of the executive and legislative branches of the federal government and that, until some fairer adjustment is assured, Chicago industries will be deprived of the full economic benefits attached to water transportation.

The rates now in use were passed upon by the commission when it conducted the eastern class rate investigation. It is the position of the Chicago Association of Commerce that, due to the magnitude of these proceedings, which involved all class rates for the territory east of the Mississippi river and north of the Ohio and Potomac rivers, Chicago's peculiarly favorable geographical position in joint water and rail affairs received scant consideration.

STEEL WORK ON HOTEL ADDITION IS COMPLETED

Steel work on construction of the new section of the Morrison hotel has been completed and yesterday Harry Moir, president and general manager of the hotel, in the presence of a large group of friends, hoisted the flag on the highest point of the steel frame.

The ground for the new Morrison addition was broken on May 1 and it was announced the new section will be ready for occupancy in the early spring of 1931.

Mr. Moir announced the addition represents an investment of $3,250,000. Holabird & Root were the architects and John Griffith and Son company were the builders.

Securities Firm of Douglas White & Co. Is Suspended

Acting on the recommendation of the Investors' Protective bureau, the secretary of state yesterday suspended the right of Douglas White & Co. to sell securities in the state of Illinois. Mortimer C. Grover, head of the investors' bureau, said that an investigation disclosed that the house had engaged in stock switching practice and had solicited securities business by long distance telephone.

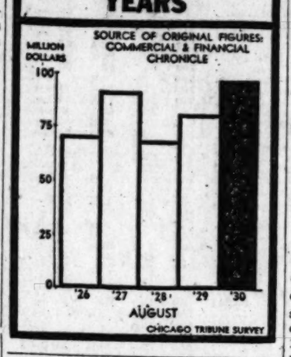

Approve Merger with Aviation Corporation

New York, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Stockholders of the New York and Buenos Aires Line, Inc., today approved a merger with Aviation Corporation of the Americas, effective Sept. 15, on the basis of one share of the latter's stock for 5¼ shares of New York Rio.

Jewel Tea Decides Against Buying Van Camp Interest

The Jewel Tea company yesterday made the brief announcement that it had decided against the projected purchase of an interest in the Van Camp Packing company.

EXPERIMENTS SHOW WHEAT AS HOG FEED RETURNS $1.50 A BU.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12.—(AP)—Secretary Hyde said today Nebraska experiments in substituting wheat for corn in feeding live stock had resulted in hogs selling at $11 a hundred pounds, representing a return of $1.50 a bushel for wheat.

The experiment was made by the Nebraska State College of Agriculture, and, because of the feed situation resulting from the drought, the secretary considered the results highly significant.

Ground wheat at 75 cents a bushel for the whole grain, fed in self-feeders with tankage, produced gain on hogs at a cost of $5.98 a hundred pounds. It was shown this ground wheat and tankage made 50 pounds of gain at a cost of $1.67 less per 100 pounds of pork than the gain made on corn and tankage fed in the same way.

AMER. CYANAMID OMITS CLASS 'A' AND 'B' DIVIDENDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 12.—Directors of the American Cyanamid company decided to suspend quarterly dividends of 40 cents a share on the class A and class B common stocks due at this time. This action came in the nature of a surprise among Curb traders since the company's earnings for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1930, issued recently, revealed a marked increase over the previous fiscal year although share results of $1.86 on the combined A and B stocks represented only a slight gain over the $1.72 a share earned in the preceding year due to the large increase in outstanding shares during the period.

W. B. BELL.

W. B. Bell, president, indicated that "the position of the company as to cash, inventories and net assets was carefully reviewed and considered satisfactory even if the present depression should continue throughout the present fiscal year."

An extra dividend of 25 cents a share was declared on the common stock of Niles-Bement-Pond, payable Sept. 30 to owners of record Sept. 20.

The usual extra annual dividend of $1 a share was announced by the Imperial Bank of Canada, in addition to the regular quarterly of $3 a share. Wheatsworth, Inc., has declared an extra dividend of 25 cents a share on its common in addition to the regular of the same amount. Heretofore only regulars have been paid this year.

Detroit Steel Products company, which pays dividends of varying amounts, has declared a dividend of 35 cents a share, making $2 for the year. In the previous quarter the distribution was 25 cents a share.

PACKERS FILE REPLY ON RAIL RATES IN EAST

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12.—(AP)—Swift & Co. and Armour & Co. replied today to the petition of railroads for modification of eastern class rates recently ordered by the interstate commerce commission.

The carriers contended the result of the decision would be to decrease their revenues, but the packers said the decision would increase revenues to the railroads. The reply said the petition of the carriers gave a false picture and contained "apparent misstatements."

By the commission's decision rates were raised generally above the fourth class, but lowered on the fifth and sixth class, which includes most of the products manufactured by the packers.

Ward Baking Directors Deny Merger Reports

New York, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Directors of the Ward Baking corporation, in a letter to stockholders, stated that no proposition has been submitted to them looking toward a merger with any other company or for the acquisition by any group of individuals of any stock ownership in the corporation. The letter, an answer to published reports that George K. Morrow interests, including some stockholders, were seeking control of the corporation, said Mr. Morrow stated he does not intend to invest any money in Ward stock. The directors said that they "stand ready to give careful consideration to any proposal for acquiring control where all stockholders will have equal opportunity to share in any possible benefits of such change," but adde that "no such proposal has been made."

WHEAT PRICES HIT NEW LOW ON LIQUIDATION

Sept. Touches 80⅞c; Closes 81⅛ to 81⅜c.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Liquidation by holders of wheat futures both in North America and abroad carried prices down yesterday to a new low for the season on all deliveries, with September in Chicago touching 80⅞c on the break, or 1½c under Thursday's finish. Houses with Winnipeg and foreign connections were persistent sellers, with support coming mainly from holders of bids and on resting orders.

It was not until near the close that the market showed any disposition to rally, when short covering caused a moderate upturn, but the finish was ⅝@1c lower. September was 81⅛@81⅜c at the last; December, 86⅝c; and May, 93@93⅛c.

Stop loss orders were caught in the local market and in Liverpool, the latter reporting liquidation under way with a lack of support on a resumption of selling by Russia. The close was 1⅜@2⅛d lower with October around 95⅝c at the last. It has been a number of years since wheat could be secured in Liverpool below $1 per bu, but there was no evidence of aggressive buying of cash grain by any interest.

Wheat Longs Discouraged.

Failure of bullish news to bring in export business or stimulate speculative buying has resulted in many longs becoming discouraged and at the inside figure yesterday wheat futures here were 6¼@6⅞c lower than the high on Monday. At the same time there are numerous operators who feel that wheat prices are too low, and scale order buying has been in evidence on the breaks for several days. Buying of wheat against sales of corn and the reverse with spreading operations between Chicago and Winipeg have tended to increase the volume of business, but the market as a whole has lacked the aggressive support needed to offset hedging sales.

Good rains were reported in parts of the Canadian northwest, and messages from Winnipeg expressed the belief that the deficit in the subsoil moisture in the prairie provinces was in process of being made up. Some delay in the movement may result, but around 66 per cent of the wheat has already been threshed, according to estimates, and the delay is not regarded as serious.

Winnipeg wheat market showed more weakness than Chicago and closed 1¼@1½c lower, with October there going to a discount of ⅝c under Chicago, compared with even figures on Thursday.

Longs Sell Corn Futures.

Liquidation by local and outside longs was on in corn from the start, with prices dropping 2@2¾c from the previous finish. At the inside they showed 5⅛@5½c under the high on Monday, and 9⅛@12¾c under the best figures made in August during the height of the crop scare. December touched 88c on the break, with the best support coming from shorts and from holders of bids, and the finish was at net losses of 1¼@2½c, September being 93⅞@94⅛c, December, 89⅞@90c, and May 91⅝@92c.

Spreading operations between corn and wheat, the former being sold, had a tendency to narrow the difference between the two grains, May corn at the last was around 1c under wheat, compared with a premium of ½c on Thursday. Many of the local longs went out of their lines during the day and professionals who remain bullish failed to give the aggressive support so much in evidence on previous breaks. Country offerings to arrive were small, and shipping sales were 65,000 bu.

Oats broke 1¼@1⅝c, due to scattered liquidation, and local pressure on the weakness in other grains, with the finish 1@1⅛c lower.

BY SCRUTATOR.

On a number of occasions it has been suggested here that it is a mistake to set a farm problem off by itself and try to remedy agricultural ills while overlooking the problems of the city resident.

Coöperation in production and marketing has for years without number been a fetish when farm betterment was considered. Except in rare instances such coöperation has meant the banding together of farmers, under their own selected leaders, and the absence of urban elements to whom the prosperity of the farmer is closely connected.

One of these exceptions was an experiment conducted within the trade radius of the city of Moline, Ill. The formulated results, derived from a great mass of statistical matter collected in a population of about 250,000 living on 800 square miles of Illinois and Iowa land, have been published by the University of Illinois and now are referred to as a part of the "Moline plan."

Explains Experiment.

The publication occurred more than a year ago. An explanation of the original work and of its consequences was given the Illinois and agricultural committees of the Association of Commerce yesterday by Charles E. Gunnels, a Moline business man who has been familiar with all the steps.

Financed by both farm and commercial organizations, the plan began with a survey, made under university direction. The flow of agricultural products into and out of the trade area was tabulated for a long term, and the possession of conveniences by farmers, indicating their prosperity or lack of it and their power as buyers in the city, was investigated.

It was discovered that corn, on which a profit of $6.70 an acre was made in the region, was being shipped into the area at the rate of 150,000 bushels a year; that alfalfa which yielded $16.64 an acre profit, and milk were being imported from other farm sections in large quantity. On the other hand, the Moline district was shipping out oats, wheat and barley, all of which were being produced at a loss.

Concrete Evidence.

Here was concrete evidence on which some action could be based. Mr. Gunnels stated that this year 1,000 acres more of alfalfa had been planted. The survey officials suggested that the better way to help the area to make up in its own borders the 1,200,000 gallons of milk that were coming from the outside was to increase the efficiency of the dairy herds rather than to increase the number. Between 60 and 70 per cent of the milk producers have been sold on the idea, it was stated, and are coöperating to that end.

Consumer preferences were sounded out, both in the city and on the farms. The business men of the city learned that it was valuable to have a farm population that was settled and owned its own land. Farm owners were twice as valuable in buying electrical goods as tenants and thrice as important relatively in purchases of bathroom equipment.

Not a Cure All.

The plan, as Mr. Gunnels stated, is no cure all. It does give a basis for more efficient use of the land in a restricted area. It seems to have influenced farmers to quit shipping in high priced hay and shipping out other low priced products; to make more effective use of their time and to increase their buying possibilities.

Practically all that was done was to hold the law of supply and demand up so that everybody could see what it looked like, and to demonstrate that the interests of cities and their rural territories are identical.

SEE COLUMBIAN CARBON GROWTH IN NATURAL GAS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 12.—When the proposed plan of Columbian Carbon company to increase its authorized capital stock from 500,000 to 2,000,000 shares becomes effective, it is believed in Wall street that at least a part of the additional stock will be used by the company in a program of wide expansion in the natural gas field that will carry it into even greater territory than its present contracts call for.

Reid L. Carr, president, who announced the proposed increase in capital stock late yesterday, intimated that the additional shares not only will place the company in a position to expand but would pave the way for a splitup of the present outstanding shares "whenever this is deemed advisable."

The company's expansion plans are largely in the natural gas field, it was learned. Columbian Carbon is understood to be the largest producer of carbon black in the United States. It also sells natural gas at wholesale and retail, and its operations include gasoline production. The company has contracts with five or six middle western natural gas companies to supply them with natural gas.

Reports Big Increase in Crushing of Cottonseed

Washington, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Cottonseed crushed during August, the first month of the cotton year, was announced today by the Census Bureau to have aggregated 165,770 tons, compared with 130,023 in August last year. Cottonseed on hand at mills August 31 totaled 214,965 tons, compared with 160,652 a year ago.

BRITISHERS TELL HOOVER TARIFF MAY HIT TRADE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12.—(AP)—President Hoover was told today by representatives of the English grain business that unless the American market for British goods is left open through moderate tariffs the reciprocal market abroad would be endangered.

The delegation, representing the Cooperative Wholesale Society of England, was presented to President Hoover by Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British ambassador, and Herbert L. Bodman, president of the New York Produce Exchange.

In recent years, the vistors told the President, "enormous political pressure" has been put upon English merchants to buy British empire goods.

"This pressure," they added, "might possibly affect the purchasing of staples in this country unless a market for the British manufactured products is assured."

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 12.—Again, the stock market was nothing more or less than a speculators' party with the blinds all up and nobody seeming to give a hoot. Trading favorites, as usual, contented themselves with "wall flower" rôles.

The turnover stopped at 1,905,860 shares and price movements were just about as impressive. A baker's dozen or so of nondescripts and second raters managed to run up gains of 1 to 4 points for no sane reason at all that anybody could figure out and another small cluster rating in public estimation got into the limelight by taking handsprings backward for corresponding losses. On the whole, bears got what honor there was from the day's dreary proceedings.

Profit taking against the week-end recess and selling for funds with which to meet next Monday's income tax payments were the chief stumbling blocks in the way of the advance. There was evidence of further concentrated bear selling in a few directions, particularly in some of the higher priced issues such as Case Threshing and Auburn Automobile, both of which were quite weak at intervals.

Utilities Take Initiative.

Public utility stocks took the initiative in the occasional lukewarm attempts at rallies. Those with a touch of natural gas made the best showings.

American and Foreign Power and Electric Power and Light were the leaders. Each was ahead some 3 points at one stage of the game, but selling overtook them in the late trading and both wound up on the wrong side of the column with the rest of the group. Western Union sat in on the bull side for a time in the early dealings, but somebody stepped on it, too.

Gillette Safety Razor and Auto Strop braced up on a revival of the merger deal story. Other stocks to enjoy fairly good buying at intervals were Allied Chemical, Brooklyn Union, Coca Cola, Consolidated Gas, Dupont, Business Machines, Inland Steel,

SELLERS BEAR DOWN HARD ON MAJESTIC STOCK

Drops Six Points Under Pressure from Shorts.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Burdened with a heavy short interest, Majestic Household broke sharply on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday and finished the day off nearly six points after more than 54,000 shares had been exchanged.

Determined short sellers bore down hard on the stock, as well as on the shares of Grigsby-Grunow company, of which Majestic Household is an affiliate.

Wild rumors circulated in La Salle street and on the floor of the exchange as the two issues gave under the heavy selling. Reports of financial difficulties, curtailed operations, and other rumors of the same hue were heard frequently. The gossip was promptly denied.

It was reliably stated the Grigsby-Grunow company is now producing 2,500 radio sets daily and is employing 5,400 persons. The company is planning, it was learned, to step up production around the first of the month. The rumors of financial difficulties, which have been heard and denied frequently in the past, were declared to be without foundation.

Unsettles Whole List.

The weakness in Majestic and Grigsby unsettled the whole list and losses of a point or more were general in the final quotations. Electric Household, which has been prominent during the recent periods of strength in the market, was off 2 points when the trading ceased. The issue finished at bottom price of the day. Both Grigsby and Majestic made some recovery in the late trading as sponsors of the shares threw in supporting orders and the short interest covered.

U. S. Radio, which has ranged higher since the publication of its annual report, gave ground yesterday. General Theaters and Insull Utility each sustained losses of a point or so.

There was no letup in the heavy dealings in Chicago Corporation common, although the price slipped below 12 to end a fraction under Thursday's close. The preferred was in good demand again, however, and added another fraction.

Wextark Reports Loss.

The report of Wextark Radio Stores for the fiscal year ended June 30 discloses the firm suffered a net loss of $332,294, exclusive of a net loss of $45,606 sustained by controlled companies which is applicable to the parent concern. Earnings figures for the preceding fiscal year are not available, but in the seven months ended June 30, 1929, the company reported a net loss of $730,648.

Sales of the company for the year totaled $12,793,380, as contrasted with $7,049,556 in the previous seven months. Current indebtedness of the company was retired during the year through the issuance of $2,000,000 of 6½ per cent sinking fund notes.

Winnipeg Wheat Mart Scrapes 16 Year Bottom

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 12.—(AP)—In the almost daily order of establishing new seasonal low prices, the Winnipeg wheat market today scraped against a 16 year old bottom level, but stopped just on the upper side. In 1914 wheat sold as cheaply as 80 cents a bushel. It could be bought today for October delivery at 80¼ cents. Closing with new low prices for the season all around, wheat losses for the day ranged from 1¼ to 1½ cents.

CASH GRAIN NEWS

There was no evidence of export demand for North American wheat at the seaboard, although a moderate amount of Manitobas were understood to have been sold. Russia was again offering afloat parcels, and resellers were trying to dispose of other wheats. Local handlers sold 18,000 bu for shipment. Mills were fair buyers of spot wheat with the basis steady. Premiums as compared with September follow: No. 1 red, 6¼@7c; No. 2 red, 6@7c; No. 1 hard, 3½@3¾c; No. 2 hard, 2¾@3¼c; No. 1 northern, 3@3¾c; No. 2 northern, 2½@3c.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was firmer today and while refiners showed a little more interest, offerings were comparatively light. Reports of political unrest in Cuba and the steadier spot market were reflected by higher prices in raw futures, with the market closing 2 to 4 points net higher. All told only 19,200 tons changed hands. Prices follow:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. close.
Sept	1.10	1.12	1.10	1.12	1.08

News and Gossip of Stock Marts

Utility Gossip.

If the gossip in Wall street on public utility stocks is to be taken seriously, "good" buying and "good" selling have been going on at the same time in the last few weeks. It has been rumored that some of the investment companies with large holdings of utilities have been selling a part of these stocks and reinvesting in industrials giving a larger yield, but recent action of utilities suggests that they have been readily taken irrespective of the source of the selling.

Attracts Attention.

Strength in Union Bag and Paper is attracting attention. Next Monday the company will retire a bond issue of its power company subsidiary, the common stock of which was sold last spring to Niagara Hudson Power.

Hear of Merger Offer.

Newton Steel, which jumped six points on Thursday on a fair turnover, duplicated that performance yesterday. Talk about the street is that two or three steel companies have made Newton an offer to merge, and that the one which is being most seriously considered is on the basis of higher prices for Newton, involving an exchange of shares.

Coca Cola Strength.

Current strength in Coca Cola, reflecting fresh accumulation, has been hailed by some commentators as foreshadowing a stock splitup or stock dividend. Those in close touch with the affairs of the company do not hold this view, asserting that it is yet too early for any demonstration to discount a splitup. However, the company is working toward another change in capitalization. This, it is said, probably will take the form of the splitup and an offer of additional stock to the shareholders, in furtherance of plans to do away with the class A shares, more than 20 per cent of which already have been bought up by the company.

BUTTER AND EGGS

Butter and egg futures held within fractional ranges on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange yesterday, bearish statistical information weakening the market somewhat. Uncertainty as to the showing of the government report, issued after the close yesterday resulted in fairly liberal selling and buying moves in both commodities. November butter closed at 39⅝c, off ⅛c. December ended unchanged at 39⅝c. November eggs lost ⅛c, closing at 27⅛.

The four principal markets recorded another sharp change in the outward movement of butter, the removals being 64,000 pounds under the supply taken out a year ago. Selling on this news sent the November delivery down to 39⅝c toward mid-session but buying later caused a rally. The storage report showed 4,000 cases less eggs taken out than a year ago. Sales: butter—November, 136 cars; December, 34 cars. Eggs—November, 72 cars. Receipts: butter, 8,841 tubs; eggs, 13,239 cases. Prices follow:

Kentucky Utilities.

Will you tell me something about Kentucky Utilities company first mortgage 5s, series I, which mature in 1969?—E. W. J.

Kentucky Utilities company is an operating subsidiary of Middle West Utilities company. Properties include 10 generating stations, 19 reserve stations, 1,970 miles of high voltage transmission lines, 13 water works plants, 17 ice plants, and a street railway. The company's report at the close of 1929 showed that it served 249 communities with electric light and power, 4 with gas, 13 with water, 63 with ice and one with street railway and bus service. Favorable contracts for the purchase of power have been made with other companies in Kentucky, Illinois, and Indiana whose transmission lines are connected with this company.

As of Dec. 31, the company reported total assets and liabilities of $52,861,976. It had outstanding 5 series of first mortgage bonds totaling $24,686,900. All these bonds are secured equally by a first mortgage upon all properties, rights and franchises. The company's real estate, plants, and equipment were valued at $45,424,727.

Additional bonds may be issued in series for not exceeding 75 per cent of the cost of permanent improvements or new property acquired. No additional bonds, however, may be issued unless earnings have been at least 1.75 times annual interest charges on all bonds outstanding, including those applied for.

In 1929 earnings were $3,364,175 before fixed charges which amounted to $1,391,633. In 1928 fixed charges were covered 2.53 times, compared with 2.42 times in 1927, and 2.28 times in 1926.

These bonds are considered reasonably sound.

Amalgamated Motors.

I am in possession of common and preferred stock issued by the Amalgamated Motors corporation of Plainfield, N. J. Can you tell me the status of this corporation and the value of its stock if the corporation is still in existence? The stock which I have was registered May 19, 1924, by the Commercial Trust company of New Jersey.—K. R. J.

Amalgamated Motors corporation was incorporated in Delaware Sept. 10, 1923, to consolidate several motor companies. It had an authorized capital of $1,000,000. Its office was at 709 W. Front street, Plainfield, N. J.

On March 17, 1926, the company lost its charter for non-payment of taxes. There is no market for either the preferred or common now. In December, 1927, 48 shares of common were sold for $5 for the lot. We find no record of any later sales of either the preferred or common.

CHICAGO BOARD OF TRADE STOCKS

Lower prices featured the movement of all stocks yesterday with the exception of Great Western preferred, which gained ¼ on buying of 450 shares. American Cyanamid led the break with a drop of almost 4 points and a close around the bottom on sales of only 200 shares.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—(AP)—COTTONSEED OIL—Moderately active today, with the tone generally a little easier, reflecting declines in cotton, lard and grains. Reported consumption of 315,460 brls in August was slightly disappointing, and locals and cotton houses sold nearby deliveries which were bought by refiners against sales of March. Old contracts closed 5@6 points net lower and new contracts 5@10 points lower. Total sales were 4,750 brls, including 2,500 in old contracts and 2,250 tons in the new. Estimated receipts at Chicago today, 500 cattle, 6,000 hogs, and 7,000 sheep.

The lamb market featured the live stock trade in a rise to the highest level since Aug. 26 in face of immense receipts. Arrivals at Chicago this week will total about 135,000, the largest since October, 1926. Few weeks have had larger receipts since previous to 1923.

A string of 1,900 Colorado range lambs elevated the top on westerns to $9.65, which compares with $8.85 about ten days ago. Bulk of westerns brought $9.00@9.40. Natives topped the list at $9.50, while most ewe and wether lambs sold at $8.75@9.25 to packers.

Aged sheep and yearlings were steady. Feeding lambs met good demand at the recent 25@50c advance, with best quotable upward to $7.75.

Eastern Hog Demand.

Eastern demand for hogs was broader at Chicago yesterday and better grades advanced 5@15c, while others moved slowly at steady quotations. There was a good clearance, with only 3,000 pen holders and inferior grades remaining at the close.

The extreme top and general average prices advanced 5c at $11.15 and $10.15, respectively, showing a narrower "spread" than two weeks ago. Small packers and shippers were principal buyers at the upturn early, but larger houses came in for fair sized droves later when an advance estimate of a light movement of supplies in the west for the week-end session indicated that the receipts the first half of next week would be only moderate.

Hog Futures Slow.

Contracts sold slowly at generally steady prices on the hog futures market yesterday, although there were some instances of slight gains. October light sold at $9.55, against $9.50 Thursday. December mediums were bought at $9.15. September mediums were bid $10.80, but $10.95 was the lowest offer.

Medium and heavy grades for December and January were bid $9.00. Mediums for next Monday's delivery were bid $11.00 on the "to arrive" market. Lights for the same day were bid $10.95.

Yesterday's meager supply of 1,500 cattle sold at mostly steady prices, although top sales were lower, due to the absence of highly finished yearlings. Medium quality 860 lb yearling steers sold at $12.25, with 1,430 lb heavy beeves at $11.90.

Yearlings are closing 25@50c higher than a week ago, while heavy cattle show losses of 25@75c. Yearling heifers are 25@50c higher for the week, while most butcher stock shows declines. Receipts at Chicago this week will total about 53,000, the largest of the year.

Estimated Receipts.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 500 cattle, 6,000 hogs, and 7,000 sheep, against 240 cattle, 4,502 hogs, and 4,539 sheep on the previous Saturday, and 330 cattle, 7,089 hogs, and 3,671 sheep a year ago.

Probable receipts of hogs at Chicago for next Monday are estimated from 30,000 to 42,000. S. Lund and E. E. Hubbard marked 30,000; F. Knutsen, 32,000; G. W. Chandler, 34,000; F. M. Sherwood, C. Southwick, W. S. Nicholson, H. Pattison, H. Turner, and R. W. Trotter, 35,000; H. C. Carlson and W. C. White, 36,000; A. G. Welhener and E. S. Waterbury, 37,000; J. M. Waters, William Garrett, and G. Brittain, 38,000, and E. Townsend, 42,000.

CREEPING BULL MARKET AGAIN TRIPS, FALTERS

Newton Steel—on a merger deal—Union Bag, Vanadium—on pool activities—and Westinghouse. Allied Chemical and one or two others managed to carry their gains through to the close but most of them had to pay toll to those demanding their profits.

Motors Not So Well.

Motor stocks didn't do so well as they have on other days of late.

General Motors has given evidence recently of meeting quite persistent selling just around current levels. Report persists that negotiations are on looking toward a deal which would involve an exchange of the motor company's stocks for that of United Aircraft. Such a deal has been rumored frequently as under negotiation in the last several months, but as yet nothing tangible has come out of such reports. Still it was contended that selling in General Motors was coming principally from stockholders who were dissatisfied with the terms of the prospective United Aircraft deal. Report still persists that United Aircraft is holding out for 1½ shares of General Motors for each share of its own stock and that the first mentioned company will not listen to anything less. Aircraft was off 1⅛ at the close of today's trading.

Hurts Farm Implements.

Some of the rails had their troubles, Atchison, Baltimore and Ohio, Rock Island and Southern Railway were the chief selling targets of the group.

Publication of the sales for Sears-Roebuck's ninth period showing a drop in sales as compared with those of a year ago was followed by some rather persistent selling in the merchandise group, particularly of the mail order shares. Announcement of a gain of more than 25,000 tons in copper stocks failed to cause any untoward selling of the shares of the metal companies. Anaconda and Cerro de Pasco lost about a point each, however, and fractional declines occurred in a few of the others.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Cotton gray goods markets were unchanged today with fair demand for coarse yarn fabrics at unchanged prices and slightly broader trading in fine and fancy cloths. Finished goods lines continued moving in fairly satisfactory measure in primary channels. Burlap markets continued quiet, with some inquiry for spot and afloat goods. There were heavy sales of raw silk in weak Japan markets, with prices lower and market dull here.

RAW SILK.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—(AP)—SILK—Raw futures closed steady; sales, 45 bales. September, $2.60; December, $2.65; March, $2.65. Open market quotations [60 day basis], Shanghai steam extra B, $3.15; Canton double extra A, 14-16s, $1.90; Japanese crack double extra, $3.15.

CHICAGO CURB EXCHANGE STOCKS

Contrary action of some of the market leaders featured yesterday's Chicago curb session. McWilliams Dredging stocks advanced nearly two points to new high prices for the year. Photocolor sagged 1⅛, while Stinson and Hammond Clock showed moderate declines. Republic Trust Shares jumped nearly two points.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

It was said at the close that the lack of confidence in the stability of values, particularly wheat, was encouraging short selling and that there was little disposition to buy for a good advance and the feeling was so hopelessly bearish that a few conservative people were not disposed to follow the short side of the market on any further sharp decline. Apparently foreigners who were long have unloaded their wheat held in American markets and some have put out short lines.

Fred Uhlmann, who is in England, cables his house that the other side is very bearish. They came to this conclusion because of the renewal of heavy Russian offerings with excellent prospects in Argentina and Australia and with a big Canadian business passing, all at the expense of American hard winters which at the moment are almost entirely neglected.

Corn traders had it that practically all of the original bulls who helped to advance prices around 30c or more in the last two months, have either sold out entirely or reduced their lines. Pit traders, it is said, have been mostly bearish, regardless of the bullish crop report, considering the price too high compared with other grains. The spread between wheat and corn, they say, is too great to bull corn around the $1.00 level.

TONNAGE INCREASE.

NEW WESTMINSTER, British Columbia, Sept. 10.—The July tonnage of imports and exports at the port of New Westminster showed an increase of 60 per cent over the previous month.

PORTES LEASES ROOSEVELT AND CRAWFORD SITE

Will Open Fourth Store in Drug Chain.

BY AL CHASE.

Portes, Inc., of which George Portes is president, yesterday leased the store at the northeast corner of Roosevelt road and South Crawford avenue, from Sol K. Graff, for twenty-five years at a gross term rental reported to be $150,000. Mr. Portes will remodel the premises and open it as the fourth in his chain of drug stores, about Dec. 1. Charles K. Schwartz and Olken & Lilienthal were attorneys.

Halsey, Stuart & Co. have leased an additional 5,000 square feet on the second floor of the Rookery for use by the sales department. The company now occupies the entire second floor in addition to space on the first and third floors. In all it has floor space of 37,000 square feet in the Rookery.

Belmont-Harlem Lease.

The northeast corner of Belmont and Harlem avenues, 111x125, has been leased by George E. and Cressido O'Grady to Natale and Saida Zari for ninety-nine years from June 1, 1930, according to the county records. There will be no rental for the first year. The annual rental will be $2,400 for the next three years; then $3,000 for two years; $5,000 for five years, and $6,000 for fifteen years.

Rental for the remaining seventy-three years is to be on a basis of 6 per cent of the revaluation of the property, exclusive of improvements, every twenty years. The lessees are to erect a building within six years to cost not less than $20,000. They also have an option to purchase at any time during the first twenty-six years for $150,000.

May Build on Milwaukee Avenue.

Joseph G. Sackheim, who has a long term lease on the property at 1332 Milwaukee avenue, states that negotiations are under way for securing the property adjoining, at 1330. If this is obtained a two story building to cost $81,000 will be erected on the fifty feet of frontage and be occupied by the W. B. Grant company five cents to one dollar chain store.

The Squire Dingee company, pickles, is erecting a four story building at the southwest corner of Besley court and Cortland street, from plans by W. C. Bennett, architect and engineer, at an estimated cost of $100,000. H. W. Greene has the general contract.

COTTON NEWS BEARISH

Cotton prices declined sharply and closed around the bottom yesterday. Weather conditions were in the main favorable. Drygoods trade reported fair sales of print cloths and an improved inquiry for sheetings. Japan's spinners announced an increased curtailment of 23 to 33 per cent for the three months commencing Oct. 1. Textile reports from France, involving 30,000 workers, reported the strike settled. Manchester cables said there was more inquiry from Egypt and China news was more encouraging.

Leaf worms and boll weevil are taking new fruit in east Texas and other sections, where rains have favored their spread. Picking is well advanced in eastern half of Texas, with most of the crop made in southeast and central sections with picking nearly completed in many of the counties. The Oklahoma crop is spotted, with some improvement following rains in central areas.

Closing prices were off in Chicago 18 to 21 points lower and other markets off 18 to 23 points. Spots in New York were 25 points lower at 11.05c. New Orleans dropped 20 points to 10.65c, with Galveston and Houston 10.85c.

REALIZING IN LARD

Recent heavy buyers of December and January lard appear to have satisfied their wants and a few of them have turned to the selling side because the market has dragged for several days. Packing interests who sold deferred futures for several days were accepting profits on the decline yesterday. The break in grains offset the effect of an advance in hogs, and lard futures closed 7½c to 10c lower, with distant futures leading.

Trading in bellies was more active both for cash and future, with the latter unchanged, while cash lots were around 14½c. Liverpool lard was 3d higher for cash and 3d lower for January. Exports were 395,265 lbs. of lard and 27,500 lbs. of bacon.
